of information and interpretation on over 500 years of black experience in America I May Not Get There with You Michael Eric Dyson, 2000 A private citizen who transformed the world around him Martin Luther King Jr was arguably the greatest American who ever lived Now after more than thirty years few people understand how truly radical he was In this groundbreaking examination of the man and his legacy provocative author lecturer and professor Michael Eric Dyson restores King's true vitality and complexity and challenges us to embrace the very contradictions that make King relevant in today's world Gender Inequality in The Bahamas Juliette Storr, 2023-09-05 This book examines sexual power dynamics long held patriarchal values and other harmful attitudes toward women in The Bahamas and Caribbean through the lens of media and law Though gender politics is pushing these societies toward inclusivity Storr adopting a phenomenological framework argues that as sites of both reinforcement and resistance to misogynistic norms future progress must focus on deconstructing the inequitable social institutions underlying unhealthy gender relations African American Nonfiction Books in the 21st Century Harry B. Dunbar, 2005 This work is essentially a bibliography consisting of a representative sampling of 58 nonfiction books published in the year 2004 about African Americans and about the issues that impacted and impact us viewed in the context of the canon of 664 selected from those published in the last two decades of the twentieth century The offerings of the mainstream press in the period 1939-1964 are cited as a backdrop Ninety one titles published over the years 2001 to 2003 constitute the sampling for that period The surge in the publication of books in the canon at the end of the 20th century is analyzed We Average Unbeautiful Watchers Noah Cohan, 2019-07 Sports fandom often more than religious political or regional affiliation determines how millions of Americans define themselves In We Average Unbeautiful Watchers Noah Cohan examines contemporary sports culture to show how mass mediated athletics are in fact richly textured narrative entertainments rather than merely competitive displays While it may seem that sports narratives are written by athletes and journalists Cohan demonstrates that fans are not passive consumers but rather function as readers and writers who appropriate those narratives and generate their own stories in building their sense of identity Critically reading stories of sports fans self definition across genres from the novel and the memoir to the film and the blog post We Average Unbeautiful Watchers recovers sports games as sites where fan authors theorize interpretation historicity and narrative itself Fan stories demonstrate how unscripted sporting entertainments function as identity building narratives which in turn enhances our understanding of the way we incorporate a broad range of texts into our own life stories Building on the work of sports historians theorists of fan behavior and critics of American literature Cohan shows that humanistic methods are urgently needed for developing nuanced critical conversations about athletics Sports take shape as stories and it is scholars in the humanities who can best identify how they do so and why that matters for American culture more broadly Civility in the City Jennifer Lee, 2002 Hollywood and the news media have repeatedly depicted the inner city retail store as a scene of racial conflict and acrimony Civility in the City uncovers a quite different story Jennifer Lee examines the relationships between African American Jewish and Korean merchants and their black customers in New York and Philadelphia and shows that in fact social order routine and civility are the norm Lee illustrates how everyday civility is negotiated and maintained in countless daily interactions between merchants and customers While merchant customer relations are in no way uniform most are civil because merchants actively work to manage tensions and smooth out incidents before they escalate into racially charged anger Civility prevails because merchants make investments to maintain the day to day routine recognizing that the failure to do so can have dramatic consequences How then do minor clashes between merchants and customers occasionally erupt into the large scale conflicts we see on television Lee shows how inner city poverty and extreme inequality coupled with the visible presence of socially mobile newcomers can provide fertile ground for such conflicts The wonder is that they occur so rarely a fact that the media ignore Ebony, 1974-10 EBONY is the flagship magazine of Johnson Publishing Founded in 1945 by John H Johnson it still maintains the highest global circulation of any African American focused magazine This Woman's Work Osizwe Raena Jamila Harwell, 2016-06-07 This Woman's Work presents a social history and critical biography based on the life of award winning writer Bebe Moore Campbell 1950-2006 It offers the personal story of a popular novelist journalist and mental health advocate This book examines Campbell's life and activism in two periods first as a student at the University of Pittsburgh during the 1960s black student movement and second as a mental health advocate near the end of her life in 2006 It describes Campbell's activism within the Black Action Society from 1967 to 1971 and her negotiation of the Black Nationalist ideologies espoused during the 1960s The book also explores Campbell's later involvement in the National Alliance on Mental Illness NAMI her role as a national spokesperson and the local activism that sparked the birth of the NAMI Urban Los Angeles chapter which served black and Latino communities 1999-2006 Adjacent to her activist work Campbell's first novel Your Blues Ain't Like Mine connects to her emerging political consciousness related to race and gender and the concern for racial violence during the US black liberation period from 1950 to 1970 Similarly Campbell's final novel 72 Hour Hold is examined closely for its connection to her activism as well as the sociopolitical commentary emphasis on mental health disparities coping with mental illness and advocacy in black communities As a writer and activist Campbell immersed her readers in immediately relevant historical and sociopolitical matters This Woman's Work is the first full length biography of Bebe Moore Campbell and details the seamless marriage of her fiction writing and community activism Women of Color and Social Media Multitasking Sonja M. Brown Givens, Keisha Edwards Tassie, 2015-11-11 Women of Color and Social Media Multitasking Blogs Timelines Feeds and Community explores and critically analyzes the motivations and uses of social media by women of color This edited collection seeks to determine how and why women of color make strategic use of social media as a social professional personal and political tool for navigating the world The contributors uniquely address the motivations and pathways for establishing virtual communities by and for women of color Women of Color and Social Media Multitasking contributes to dialogues concerning gender race class sexuality politics and uses of social media Documenting Desegregation Kevin Stainback, Donald Tomaskovic-Devey, 2012-09-01 Enacted nearly fifty years ago the Civil Rights Act codified a new vision for American society by formally ending segregation and banning race and gender discrimination in the workplace But how much change did the legislation actually produce As employers responded to the law did new and more subtle forms of inequality emerge in the workplace In an insightful analysis that combines history with a rigorous empirical analysis of newly available data Documenting Desegregation offers the most comprehensive account to date of what has happened to equal opportunity in America and what needs to be done in order to achieve a truly integrated workforce Weaving strands of history cognitive psychology and demography Documenting Desegregation provides a compelling exploration of the ways legislation can affect employer behavior and produce change Authors Kevin Stainback and Donald Tomaskovic Devey use a remarkable historical record data from more than six million workplaces collected by the U S Equal Employment Opportunity Commission EEOC since 1966 to present a sobering portrait of race and gender in the American workplace Progress has been decidedly uneven black men black women and white women have prospered in firms that rely on educational credentials when hiring though white women have advanced more quickly And white men have hardly fallen behind they now hold more managerial positions than they did in 1964 The authors argue that the Civil Rights Act s equal opportunity clauses have been most effective when accompanied by social movements demanding changes EEOC data show that African American men made rapid gains in the 1960s at the height of the Civil Rights movement Similarly white women gained access to more professional and managerial jobs in the 1970s as regulators and policymakers began to enact and enforce gender discrimination laws By the 1980s however racial desegregation had stalled reflecting the dimmed status of the Civil Rights agenda Racial and gender employment segregation remain high today and alarmingly many firms particularly in high wage industries seem to be moving in the wrong direction and have shown signs of resegregating since the 1980s To counter this worrying trend the authors propose new methods to increase diversity by changing industry norms holding human resources managers to account and exerting renewed government pressure on large corporations to make equal employment opportunity a national priority At a time of high unemployment and rising inequality Documenting Desegregation provides an incisive re examination of America s tortured pursuit of equal employment opportunity This important new book will be an indispensable guide for those seeking to understand where America stands in fulfilling its promise of a workplace free from discrimination All About the Girl Anita Harris, 2004-10-29 This groundbreaking collection offers a complicated portrait of girls in the 21st Century These are the riot grrls and the Spice Girls the good girls and the bad girls who are creating their own girl culture and giving a whole new meaning to grrl power Featuring provocative essays from leaders in the field like Michelle Fine Angela McRobbie Valerie Walkerdine Nancy Lesko Niobe Way and Deborah Tolman this work brings to life the ever changing identities of today s young women The contributors cover all aspects of girlhood from around the world and
