Literary Feuds Anthony Arthur, 2025-09-23 A submarine's deadliest antagonist is another sub. Some of our most illustrious writers have tried their best to sink their enemies using all the weapons at their command: wit, humor, sarcasm, invective, and the occasional right cross to the jaw. In these eight profiles of quarrels between famous authors, Anthony Arthur draws on a lifetime of reading and teaching their works to describe the feuds as lively duels of strong personalities. Going beyond mere gossip, he provides insights into the issues that provoked the quarrels: Soviet communism, World War II, and the natural tension between the critical and the creative temperaments among them. The result reads like a collection of short stories, with the featured authors as their own best characters and having the best lines. For example, Ernest Hemingway on his one-time friend and tutor Gertrude Stein: "Gertrude Stein was never crazy. Gertrude Stein was very lazy." Sinclair Lewis to Theodore Dreiser: "I still say you are a liar and a thief." Mary McCarthy on Lillian Hellman: "every word she writes is a lie, including and and the." These great writers are a quarrelsome bunch, indeed, and these true tales of bookish bickering are guaranteed to enlighten and entertain even the most discriminating literature lovers.

Remarkable, Unspeakable New York Shaun O'Connell, 1997-08-31 From Old New York to the Harlem Renaissance, the Algonquin Round Table to the New York Intellectuals, the beginning of the nineteenth century to the end of the twentieth, Remarkable, Unspeakable New York offers a sweeping new view of New York's place in the American literary imagination. James Baldwin, Saul Bellow, E. L. Doctorow, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Oscar Hijuelos, Langston Hughes, Washington Irving, Henry James, Toni Morrison, Dorothy Parker, Edith Wharton, Walt Whitman, and Tom Wolfe are among the many writers whose literary legacies are brought to life.

Fact and Fiction John Hollowell, 2017-11-01 Journalists and novelists responded to the pervasive social changes of the 1960s in America with a variety of experiments in nonfiction. Those who have praised the vitality of the new journalism have seen it as a fusion of the journalist's passion for detail and the novelist's moral vision. Hollowell presents a critically sharp portrait of what the new journalists and novelists are doing and why. The author concludes that future writing will further obscure the difference between fact and fiction. Originally published in 1977, A UNC Press Enduring Edition, UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print. These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats, bringing readers both historical and cultural value.

Truman Capote Truman Capote, 1987 Truman Capote once said, "The thing I like to do most in the whole world is talk and talk." He does in the more than two dozen interviews collected in this book. The topics are often gossip about the famous people Capote ran with, but always he provides revealing information about his writings, the authors who inspired him, his meticulous methods of research and composition, and his personal reverence for the craft of authorship. He was, as the editor notes, fiercely devoted to his art and keenly aware of his place in the world of letters While his detractors such as Ernest Hemingway and Gore Vidal spoke out long and loud against the feisty and media minded writer from Louisiana Capote here has the last word What emerges is a portrait of the author as pop cult figure unabashed in his pursuit of fame and fortune but unstinting in his devotion to becoming one of America s major prose stylists These interviews range from the first he granted after the publication of his first novel through his shockingly personal self interview which appeared at the end of his last major work Novel Competition Evan Brier,2024-04-16 Novel Competition describes the literary and institutional struggle to make American novels matter between 1965 and 1999 As corporations took over the book business Hollywood movies popular music and other forms of mass produced culture competed with novels as never before for a form of prestige that had mostly been attached to novels in previous decades In the context of this competition developments like the emergence of Rolling Stone magazine regional publishers Black studies programs and New Hollywood became key events in the life of the American novel Novels by Truman Capote Ann Beattie Toni Cade Bambara Cynthia Ozick and Larry McMurtry among many others are recast as prescient reports on and formal responses to a world suddenly less hospitable to old claims about the novel s value This book brings to light the story of the novel s perceived decline and the surprising ways American fiction transformed in its wake Is It 'Cause It's Cool? Astrid M. Fellner,Susanne Hamscha,Klaus Heissenberger,Jennifer J* Moos,2014 Even a global political watershed such as the end of the Cold War seems to have left a fundamental characteristic of cultural relations between the US and the rest of the world unchanged American popular culture still stirs up emotion American popular culture s products artifacts and practices entangle their consumers in affective encounters characterized by feelings of fascination excitement or even wholesale rejection What is it that continues to make American popular culture cool Which role does cool play in the consumers affective encounters with America This volume of essays offers new insights on the post Cold War dissemination of American popular culture exploring the manifold ways in which cool has emerged as an elusive yet determining factor of an American culture gone global Series American Studies in Austria Vol 13 Roots of Afrocentric Thought Clovis E.
