Objective

Selective awareness is the tendency to get more and more familiarized and involved with certain aspect of the environment or completely cease to do so.

We will try to analyze the continuum of selective awareness from clinical, social and psychological perspectives.

Deep Healing Emmett E. Miller, M.D., 1996-12-01 Deep Healing brings new hope to every reader It awakens even the most skeptical among us to the miraculous inborn self healing capacities of our mind body Emmett Miller M D practicing as a traditional family doctor for 20 years discovered that when a part of your body is sick the whole body system is out of balance He saw that how his patients thought about and saw life affected and seemed to create whatever their current state of health was He has stated that it is not enough to heal the particular illness without understanding the emotional and psychological basis for the ailment or problem We must heal the entire person not just a specific part Dr Miller has had great success with guided imagery to promote physical health and emotional well being He has even been successful using guided imagery to do minor surgery without any anesthetic again proving the mind body connection and the control of our bodies by our thoughts Through the presentation of stories reflections and case studies Dr Miller presents his wonderful deep healing theories that will instill a new sense of hope and optimism into all who read this book Vision and Attention Michael Jenkin, Laurence

Harris, 2013-03-19 It has become apparent that vision is not a passive process working on the retinal image like a film to record a perfect copy as the perception Instead higher level cognitive processes such as expectancies memories and experience play a critical almost overriding role This book is a review and summary of the tremendous advances that have been made in recent years on the effect of attention on visual perception The book will appeal to vision scientists as well as to people involved in using visual processes in computer animations display design or the sensory systems of machines Physiologists and neuroscientists interested in any aspect of sensory or motor processes will also find this a very useful and broad ranging volume Life on the Cutting Edge Sal Rachele, 2019-10-18 Are you tired of the same old stuff S O S Have you heard enough about the New Age Do you long for something fresh and exciting Then perhaps this book is for you It's not about the same old tired reality that's been talked about for decades It's not a sugar coated love and light routine And it's not another feel good manual or how to succeed without really trying rehash It's not psycho babble quick fix therapy preaching or lamenting a cause This book takes a no nonsense look at what is really happening behind the scenes above the scenes and beyond the scenes It addresses the issues you and I are facing right now and will be facing for a long time to come It uses the past only as a springboard for stepping into the unknown into the big picture It exposes the lies coverups deceit control and manipulation that have kept the people of Earth locked into rigid systems of dogma and despair But it also offers real solutions that are timely and yet timeless It gives you ideas that can help you put the pieces of the cosmic jigsaw together And practical advice that can stimulate your creative juices Get out your surfboard and ride the cutting edge

Attention and consciousness in different senses Naotsugu Tsuchiya,Jeroen J. Van Boxtel,2013-06-03

Although often used in everyday speech and in the scholarly literature selective attention and consciousness lack clear undisputed definitions Partly because of this deficit there exists a lively debate on the relationship between the two Nevertheless attention has been studied scientifically for a long time because a variety of tasks allow researchers to control several of its aspects e g focused and feature based attention Consciousness as a scientific subject of study has emerged more recently but is now rapidly gaining traction Scientific studies of consciousness concern the state or level of consciousness e g awake as opposed to in coma dreamless sleep or under anaesthesia as well as the contents of consciousness or the phenomenology of perception With the increase in consciousness focused research there is a concomitant surge in research examining the relationship between attention and consciousness This relationship between attention and consciousness is the topic of this Research Topic Contributions related to or focused solely on attention or on consciousness will not be considered. It had long been assumed that attention and consciousness are inextricably intertwined, two sides of the same coin. However, recently substantial evidence has emerged that attention and consciousness are interacting but separable processes. It is, however, debated how tight the interactions are and what the exact nature of the relationship is. Therefore, we invite researchers from different camps to provide opinionated but balanced literature reviews. Different groups will interpret the same data in different ways. We feel that combining these views in one Research Topic is immensely valuable to researchers from different fields. Apart from reviews, we also invite potential contributors to provide new and exciting evidence in the form of original contributions that may support any of the different views. Even though attention and consciousness are critical aspects of many different cognitive processes, they are mainly studied though not exclusively in the domain of visual perception. In other sensory modalities, e.g., olfaction or audition, it is currently not clear whether distinctions between attention and consciousness exist, which is even more true for other cognitive processes such as memory. Therefore, we specifically invite contributions covering the auditory, somatosensory, olfactory, and memory domain. We ask all contributors to provide discussions on the relationship between attention and consciousness and focus on 1) the influence of attention on sensory processing, 2) the formation of conscious perception, 3) the evidence for unconscious processing and its modulation by attention, 4) potential indications for dissociations between attention and consciousness, e.g., does paying attention to a stimulus decrease performance on e.g., a discrimination task, 5) neuroimaging and neurophysiology data pertaining to these questions. Often, one is caught in one's own research field and lacks the time or the knowledge to delve into another field. This Research Topic should provide a great overview in great breadth of the current state of knowledge on the links between attention and consciousness and their interactions in several different sensory modalities.

Exploring Psychology David G. Myers, 2004-04-02 David Myers's bestselling brief text has opened millions of students' eyes to the world of psychology. Through vivid writing and integrated use of the SQ3R learning system (Survey, Question, Read, Rehearse, Review), Myers offers a portrait of psychology that captivates students while guiding them to a deep and lasting understanding of the complexities of this field. Selective Awareness Peter H. C. Mutke, 1977 The Psychology of Attention Elizabeth A. Styles, 1997 Considers the nature of attention and covers the most recent developments in this field. It offers a comprehensive and accessible guide to the complex research of this area that will be essential reading for all levels of students. Occupation-based Activity Analysis Heather Thomas, 2012 Beginning with defining the domain of practice through the areas of occupation, students will learn to identify occupations and activities while learning to understand the importance of analysis to their domain of practice. Students and practitioners will also discover how to analyze the demands inherent to the activity itself and the context which surrounds the activity and the people engaged in it. The component steps to analyzing activities or occupations are uncovered in separate chapters; each aspect reinforces concepts that are foundational to occupational therapy practice. Interaction Between Attention and Language Systems in Humans

Ramesh Kumar Mishra,2015-10-09 This original volume examines the interface between attentional and linguistic processes in humans from the perspectives of psycholinguistics and cognitive science It systematically explores how autonomy and automaticity are reflected during language processing in a variety of situations A true mechanistic explanation of how humans process language would require a complete understanding of the interface language has with important cognitive systems like attention memory as well as with vision Interdisciplinary work in this area has so far not been able to generate a substantial theoretical position on this issue This volume therefore looks at different language processing domains such as speaking listening reading as well as discourse and text processing to evaluate the role attention plays in such performances and also at how often linguistic inputs affect attentional processing In this sense it proposes that the attention language interface is bidirectional It also considers applied issues like language disorders bilingualism and illiteracy where the attention language interface seems especially relevant as a theoretical apparatus for research investigations Therefore this volume brings closer theoretical explanations from the language sciences and cognitive sciences It argues that language processing is multi modal in its very essence and many conceptual structures in language evolve out of a complex interplay among participating cognitive systems such as attention and memory supported by vision and audition Dictionary of Marketing Communications Norman A. Cognitive Psychology PressGrup Academician Team, Despite its essential role memory consolidation can also be susceptible to interference leading to forgetting or distortion of memories Retroactive interference occurs when newly acquired information disrupts the retention of previously learned material This effect can hinder the consolidation of older memories and highlights the competitive nature of memory processing Furthermore contextual factors such as environmental cues and emotional states during the consolidation phase influence how well memories are retained For example memories tested in the same context in which they were encoded tend to demonstrate enhanced recall a phenomenon known as context dependent retrieval This principle underscores that both encoding and consolidation work synergistically to optimize memory performance
