The Self, the Lord, and the Other according to Paul and Epictetus Michael J. Gorman, 2023-03-29 This study explores the relationship between the individual person the self the divine and other people in the writings of the apostle Paul and the Roman Stoic Epictetus It does so by examining self involving actions expressed with reflexive pronouns myself yourself etc in various kinds of sentences for example Examine yourself and You do not belong to yourself After situating the topic within the fields of linguistics and ancient Greek the study then examines the reflexive constructions in Epictetus s Discourses showing that reflexive texts express fundamental aspects of his ethic of rational self interest in imitation of the indwelling rational deity Next the investigation examines the 109 reflexive constructions in Paul providing an exegesis of each reflexive text and then synthesizing the results Paul s reflexive phrases are essential statements of his theology and ethics expressing an interconnected narrative Christology narrative apostolic identity and narrative ethic Most importantly the study finds that for Epictetus concern for others is a rational means to self realization whereas for Paul concern for others is a community ethic grounded in the story of the indwelling Christ and is the antithesis of self interest

Philosophy of the Buddha Christopher W. Gowans, 2003 This title is an introduction to the philosophy of Buddhism centring on the teachings of Buddha whilst comparing and contrasting common themes that cut across Buddhism and Western philosophy Each of the themes is discussed in relation to its impact on Western philosophy and philosophers

The Selfless Mind Peter Harvey, 2013-09-13 This careful analysis of early Buddhist thought opens out a perspective in which no permanent Self is accepted but a rich analysis of changing and potent mental processes is developed It explores issues relating to the not Self teaching self development moral responsibility the between lives period and the undetermined questions on the world on the life principle and on the liberated one after death It examines the person as a flowing continuity centred on consciousness or discernment vinnana configured in changing minds sets cittas The resting state of this is seen as brightly shining like the Buddha nature of Mahayana thought so as to represent the potential for Nirvana Nirvana is then shown to be a state in which consciousness transcends all objects and thus participates in a timeless unconditioned realm
