Huey B. Long, 1996      Success Factors Among Community College Students in an Online Learning Environment Paula B. Doherty, 2000-08-16 Little is known about student success in online learning environments especially how the predisposing characteristics that the learner brings to the learning environment may differentially affect student outcomes This study explored the question of whether a student s readiness to be a self directed learner is a predictor of student success in an online community college curriculum The specific goal of this investigation was to determine whether there was a significant relationship between self directed learning readiness as measured by Guglielmino s 1977 Self Directed Learning Readiness Scale SDLRS and student success as measured by course completion grade point average GPA and student satisfaction the latter assessed by student responses to an opinion poll The subjects of this study were community college students in the state of Washington enrolled in one or more transfer level online courses delivered via WashingtonONLINE WAOL during fall quarter 1999 Students who voluntarily chose to respond to two elective surveys comprised the study sample A correlational research design was used to test the explanatory power of self directed learning readiness and to describe the relationships between variables Since this study was designed to test hypothesized relationships the resulting correlation coefficients were interpreted in terms of their statistical significance The expected outcome of this study was to confirm or disconfirm a statistically significant relationship between self directed learning

readiness and student success in an online community college curriculum The findings of this study failed to achieve this outcome due to 1 the lack of statistical reliability of the SDLRS among the subject population 2 the resulting lack of validity of the SDLRS among the study sample 3 a nonresponse effect and 4 a self selection effect The unanticipated outcome of this study was evidence that student perception of student instructor interactions is a single variable predictor of student success among community college students in an online learning environment Recommendations for further study include Web specific research methodologies that address the potentially deleterious effects of nonresponse and self selection in cyber research environments and continued exploration of the multiple facets of student success in asynchronous learning domains

Third International Handbook of Lifelong Learning Karen Evans,Wing On Lee,Jörg Markowitsch,Miriam Zukas,2023-03-21 The Third edition of this well received and widely used Handbook brings together an entirely new set of chapters to reflect progress and new themes in the ten years to 2022 Building on the established structure of the first two Handbooks the four sections focus in turn on philosophy history and theory development fresh perspectives on policy and policy development emerging programs and new approaches and re imagining lifelong learning for future challenges The Handbook stimulates readers with fresh and timely insights while exploring anew some enduring themes New topics and themes introduced in all sections address lifelong learning challenges associated with climate change the digital world the rise of populism migration and precarious living The Handbook features learning innovations and evolving pedagogies such as intergenerational learning art as pedagogy to promote public mindedness neuroscience enhancing learning effectiveness and lifelong learning for sustainability Policy responses to lifelong learning for work and well being are debated In state of the art contributions authors from around the globe focus readers attention on multifaceted processes issues and decisions that must be better understood and enacted if inclusive development and fair access to lifelong learning are to become realities for us all Methods for Facilitating Adult Learning Joellen E. Long,1995 Developing Paradigms for Self-directed Learning ,1998 Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work ,2010-01-01 In the past two decades advanced capitalist countries have seen sustained growth in labour market participation along with a growth in the number of jobs workers tend to have in their working lives Over a slightly longer period we also see that participation in both formal educational attainment and a range of non compulsory learning training has grown However labour market discrimination based on gender age disability and race ethnicity remains a serious issue in virtually all OECD countries Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work presents a critical and expansive exploration of learning and work transitions within this context These transitions are challenging for those enmeshed in them and need to be actively challenged through the critical research reported The impetus for this volume its conceptual framing and much of the research emerges from the team of Canadian researchers who together completed case study and survey projects within the Work and Lifelong Learning WALL network The authors include leading scholars with established international reputations as well as emerging researchers with fresh perspectives This volume will appeal to researchers and policy makers internationally with an interest in educational studies and industrial sociology
