Precautionary Tools For Reshaping Environmental Policy:

Precautionary Tools for Reshaping Environmental Policy Nancy J. Myers, Carolyn Raffensperger, 2006 A hands on guide to implementing the precautionary principle and avoiding harm through foresight and wise decisions Environmental Protection and Transitions from Conflict to Peace Carsten Stahn, Jennifer S. Easterday, Jens Iverson, 2017 This book examines the protection of the environment in post conflict societies with regard both to the maintenance of natural ecosystems and to the function of environmental protection in the peace building process addressing the strengths and weaknesses of different bodies of law Environmental Policy Analysis and Practice Michael R Greenberg, 2008-03-13 Pressing environmental challenges are frequently surrounded with stakeholders on all sides of the issues Opinions expressed by government agencies the private sector special interests nonprofit communities and the media among others can quickly cloud the dialogue leaving one to wonder how policy decisions actually come about In Environmental Policy Analysis and Practice Michael R Greenberg cuts through the complicated layers of bureaucracy science and the public interest to show how all policy considerations can be broken down according to six specific factors 1 the reaction of elected government officials 2 the reactions of the public and special interests 3 knowledge developed by scientists and engineers 4 economics 5 ethical imperatives and 6 time pressure to make a decision The book is organized into two parts with the first part defining and illustrating each one of these criteria Greenberg draws on examples such as nuclear power pesticides brownfield redevelopment gasoline additives and environmental cancer but focuses on how these subjects can be analyzed rather than exclusively on the issues themselves Part two goes on to describe a set of over twenty tools that are used widely in policy analysis including risk assessment environmental impact analysis public opinion surveys cost benefit analysis and others These tools are described and then illustrated with examples from part one Weaving together an impressive combination of practical advice and engaging first person accounts from government officials administrators and leaders in the fields of public health and medicine this clearly written volume is poised to become a leading text in environmental policy A Companion to the Philosophy of Technology Jan Kyrre Berg Olsen, Stig Andur Pedersen, Vincent F. Hendricks, 2012-10-01 Drawing on essays from leading international and multi disciplinary scholars A Companion to the Philosophy of Technology is the first comprehensive and authoritative reference source to cover the key issues of technology s impact on society and our lives Presents the first complete authoritative reference work in the field Organized thematically for use both as a full introduction to the field or an encyclopedic reference Draws on original essays from leading interdisciplinary scholars Features the most up to date and cutting edge research in the interdisciplinary fields of philosophy technology and their broader intellectual environments Environmental Justice and Sustainability in the Former Soviet Union Julian Agyeman, Yelena Ogneva-Himmelberger, 2009 An examination of the awareness of environmental and social justice issues in the former Soviet republics from the Western style democracies of the Baltic region to the totalitarian regimes of Central Asia and the resulting activism in those states The legacy of environmental catastrophe in the states of the former Soviet Union includes desertification pollution and the toxic aftermath of industrial accidents the most notorious of which was the Chernobyl disaster of 1986 This book examines the development of environmental activism in Russia and the former Soviet republics in response to these problems and its effect on policy and planning It also shows that because of increasing economic ethnic and social inequality in the former Soviet states debates over environmental justice are beginning to come to the fore The book explores the varying environmental social political and economic circumstances of these countries which range from the Western style democracies of the Baltic states to the totalitarian regimes of Central Asia and how they affect the ecological environmental and public health Among the topics covered are environmentalism in Russia including the progressive nature of its laws on environmental protection which are undermined by overburdened and underpaid law enforcement the effect of oil wealth on Azerbaijan and Kazakhstan the role of nationalism in Latvian environmentalism the struggle of Russia's indigenous peoples for environmental justice public participation in Estonia's environmental movement and lack of access to natural capital in Tajikistan Environmental Justice and Sustainability in the Former Soviet Union makes clear that although fragile transition economies varying degrees of democratization and a focus on national security can stymie progress toward just sustainability the diverse states of the former Soviet Union are making some progress toward green and environmental justice issues separately

Sustainability Kent E. Portney, 2015-10-09 A concise and accessible examination of sustainability in a range of contemporary contexts from economic development to government policy The word sustainability has been connected to everything from a certain kind of economic development to corporate promises about improved supply sourcing But despite the apparent ubiquity of the term the concept of sustainability has come to mean a number of specific things In this accessible guide to the meanings of sustainability Kent Portney describes the evolution of the idea and examines its application in a variety of contemporary contexts from economic growth and consumption to government policy and urban planning Portney takes as his starting point the 1987 definition by the World Commission on Environment and Development of sustainability as economic development activity that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs At its heart Portney explains sustainability focuses on the use and depletion of natural resources It is not the same as environmental protection or natural resource conservation it is more about finding some sort of steady state so that the earth can support both human population and economic growth Portney looks at political opposition to the promotion of sustainability which usually questions the need for sustainability or calls its costs unacceptable collective and individual consumption of material goods and resources and to what extent they must be curtailed to achieve sustainability the role of the private sector and the co-opting of sustainability by corporations government policy on sustainability at the international national and subnational levels and how cities could become models for sustainability action

Conservation Policies for Agricultural Biodiversity Lekha Laxman, Abdul Haseeb Ansari, 2023-08-16 Conservation Policies for Agricultural Biodiversity A Comparative Study of Laws and Policies focuses on the challenge of securing the ecological future of the planet and its inhabitants by exploring the Convention of Biological Diversity and the Nagoya Protocol on Access and Benefit Sharing and WTO laws such as SPSS TBT GATT This book demonstrates how the urgent problem of biodiversity loss can be addressed by challenging notions of national self interest and security for the purpose of implementing policies that will benefit humanity and more importantly ensure the future of our planet Delves into the current approaches adopted in the framework of global environmental governance Investigates the origins operations and effects of legal regimes policies and practices related to the conservation of biodiversity Presents a comparative study of laws and policies providing an in depth understanding of the factors behind the lack of success in conserving agricultural biodiversity

Encyclopedia of Social Work , 1965 Pastoral Capitalism Louise A. Mozingo, 2011-09-16 How business appropriated the pastoral landscape as seen in the corporate campus the corporate estate and the office park By the end of the twentieth century America's suburbs contained more office space than its central cities Many of these corporate workplaces were surrounded somewhat incongruously by verdant vistas of broad lawns and leafy trees In Pastoral Capitalism Louise Mzingo describes the evolution of these central but often ignored features of postwar urbanism in the context of the modern capitalist enterprise These new suburban corporate landscapes emerged from a historical moment when corporations reconceived their management structures the city decentralized and dispersed into low density auto dependent peripheries and the pastoral in the form of leafy residential suburbs triumphed as an American ideal Greenness writes Mzingo was associated with goodness and pastoral capitalism appropriated the suburb's aesthetics and moral code Like the lawn proud suburban homeowner corporations understood a pastoral landscape's capacity to communicate identity status and right mindedness Mzingo distinguishes among three forms of corporate landscapes the corporate campus the corporate estate and the office park and examines suburban corporate landscapes built and inhabited by such companies as Bell Labs General Motors Deere Company and Microsoft She also considers the globalization of pastoral capitalism in Europe and the developing world including Singapore India and China Mzingo argues that even as it is proliferating pastoral capitalism needs redesign as do many of our metropolitan forms for pressing social cultural political and environmental reasons Future transformations are impossible however unless we understand the past Pastoral Capitalism offers an indispensable chapter in urban history examining not only the design of corporate landscapes but also the economic social and cultural models that determined their form

Sequel to Suburbia Nicholas A. Phelps, 2015-12-09

How the decentralized automobile oriented and fuel consuming model of American suburban development might change In the years after World War II a distinctly American model for suburban development emerged The expansive rings of outer suburbs that formed around major cities were decentralized and automobile oriented an embodiment of America's postwar mass production mass consumption economy But alternate models for suburbia including transit oriented development smart growth and New Urbanism have inspired critiques of suburbanization and experiments in post suburban ways of living In Sequel to Suburbia Nicholas Phelps considers the possible post suburban future offering historical and theoretical context as well as case studies of transforming communities Phelps first locates these outer suburban rings within wider metropolitan spaces describes the suburbs as a spatial fix for the postwar capitalist economy and examines the political and governmental obstacles to reworking suburban space He then presents three glimpses of post suburban America looking at Kendall Dadeland in Miami Dade County Florida Tysons Corner in Fairfax County Virginia and Schaumburg Illinois near Chicago He shows Kendall Dadeland to be an isolated New Urbanism success describes the re planning of Tysons Corner to include a retrofitted central downtown area and examines Schaumburg's position as a regional capital for Chicago's northwest suburbs As these cases show the reworking of suburban space and the accompanying political process will not be left to a small group of architects planners and politicians Post suburban politics will have to command the approval of the residents of suburbia
