Cofounded in 2006 by the rock star Bono Product RED has been a particularly successful example of a new trend in celebrity driven international aid and development one explicitly linked to commerce not philanthropy In Brand Aid Lisa Ann Richey and Stefano Ponte offer a deeply informed and stinging critique of compassionate consumption Campaigns like Product RED and its precursors such as Lance Armstrong s Livestrong and the pink ribbon project in support of breast cancer research advance the expansion of consumption far more than they meet the needs of the people they ostensibly serve At the same time such campaigns sell both the suffering of Africans with AIDS in the case of Product RED and the power of the average consumer to ameliorate it through familiar and highly effective media representations Using Product RED as its focal point this book explores how corporations like American Express Armani Gap and Hallmark promote compassionate consumption to improve their ethical profile and value without significantly altering their business model protecting themselves from the threat to their bottom lines posed by a genuinely engaged consumer activism Coupled with the phenomenon of celebrity activism and expertise as embodied by Bono Richey and Ponte argue that this causumerism represents a deeply troubling shift in relief efforts effectively delinking the relationship between capitalist production and global poverty BeagleBone Cookbook Mark A.
