Imperial Reference Library ,1898 The New Practical Reference Library Charles Herbert Sylvester,1914 The Brevard Rosenwald School Betty J. Reed,2015-03-21 A century ago the Brevard Rosenwald School in Transylvania County North Carolina opened its doors to African American students from the community and the surrounding area It was a microcosm of the community it served teachers and pupils lived on the same streets shopped in the same stores worshiped at the same churches and teachers and parents served on the same committees confronted similar social and economic problems and sought each other s advice about issues in daily life This book is a history of the school with special attention given to the years 1920 to 1966 and its attempts to improve the education of African Americans in the South It also focuses on the school s beginnings development significance to the community closing and the integration process and the Rosenwald community today The author also presents narratives from former students about their experiences and educational goals pursuits and accomplishments at the school and later in their lives Gaining Voice Christopher J. Clark,2019-02-25 Scholars studying the causes and consequences of political representation particularly in terms of gender and race often turn to a concept called descriptive representation Descriptive representation tells us the degree to which elected officials resemble their constituents and whether such a resemblance has a bearing on the way they legislate In other words do people vote for candidates of their same racial ethnic background or gender If they do does this affect the type of policies an elected official pursues Further if citizens see people who look like them in office does it have an effect on their political attitudes and participation In this book Christopher J Clark argues that descriptive representation is a more multi faceted phenomenon than previously shown particularly when observed at the state level He contends that black political involvement political attitudes and public opinion are contingent on more than being represented by a single black elected official Rather they hinge on the proportion of African Americans making up a state legislature what Clark terms black seat share as well as the degree to which that proportion reflects the demographic makeup of the state As well Clark pinpoints the critical mass of African American legislators necessary to initiate the creation of black caucuses an important institution for minority representation Clark bases his study on an examination of black representation in state legislatures between 1966 and 2010 looking particularly at black political opinion and involvement in the development of welfare and education policy Black Conservatism Peter Eisenstadt,2013-09-13 This volume is the first comprehensive examination of African American conservative thought and politics from the late eighteenth century to the present The essays in the collection explore various aspects of African American conservatism including biographical studies of abolitionist James Forten clergymen Henry McNeal Turner and J H Jackson and activists A Philip Randolph and Bayard Rustin Thematic essays in the volume consider southern black conservatism in the late nineteenth century and after World War I African American success manuals Ellisonian cultural criticism the Nation of Islam and African Americans and the Republican Party after 1964
