Miller, 2015-11-25 From the 1780s to the 1820s Kodiak Island the first capital of Imperial Russia's only overseas colony was inhabited by indigenous Alutiiq people and colonized by Russians

Together they established an ethnically mixed kreol community Against the backdrop of the fur trade the missionary work of the Russian Orthodox Church and competition among Pacific colonial powers Gwenn A Miller brings to light the social political and economic patterns of life in the settlement making clear that Russia's modest colonial effort off the Alaskan coast fully depended on the assistance of Alutiiq people In this context Miller argues the relationships that developed between Alutiiq women and Russian men were critical keys to the initial success of Russia's North Pacific venture Although Russia's Alaskan enterprise began some two centuries after other European powers Spain England Holland and France started to colonize North America many aspects of the contacts between Russians and Alutiiq people mirror earlier colonial episodes adaptation to alien environments the discovery and exploitation of natural resources complicated relations between indigenous peoples and colonizing Europeans attempts by an imperial state to moderate those relations and a web of Christianizing practices Russia's Pacific colony however was founded on the cusp of modernity at the intersection of earlier New World forms of colonization and the bureaucratic age of high empire Miller's attention to the coexisting intimacy and violence of human connections on Kodiak offers new insights into the nature of colonialism in a little known American outpost of European imperial power

Kazakhstan - Ethnicity, Language and Power Bhavna Dave, 2007-09-13 Kazakhstan is emerging as the most dynamic economic and political actor in Central Asia It is the second largest country of the former Soviet Union after the Russian Federation and has rich natural resources particularly oil which is being exploited through massive US investment Kazakhstan has an impressive record of economic growth under the leadership of President Nursultan Nazarbaev and has ambitions to project itself as a modern wealthy civic state with a developed market economy At the same time Kazakhstan is one of the most ethnically diverse countries in the region with very substantial non Kazakh and non Muslim minorities Its political regime has used elements of political clientelism and neo traditional practices to bolster its rule Drawing from extensive ethnographic research interviews and archival materials this book traces the development of national identity and statehood in Kazakhstan focusing in particular on the attempts to build a national state It argues that Russification and Sovietization were not simply top down processes that they provide considerable scope for local initiatives and that Soviet ethnically based affirmative action policies have had a lasting impact on ethnic lite formation and the rise of a distinct brand of national consciousness Homosexual Desire in Revolutionary Russia

Russian Hajj Eileen Kane,2015-11-02 In the late nineteenth century as a consequence of imperial conquest and a mobility revolution Russia became a crossroads of the hajj the annual Muslim pilgrimage to Mecca The first book in any language on the hajj under tsarist and Soviet rule Russian Hajj tells the story of how tsarist officials struggled to control and co opt Russia s mass hajj traffic seeing it as not only a liability but also an opportunity To support the hajj as a matter of state surveillance and control was controversial given the preeminent position of the Orthodox Church But nor could the hajj be ignored or banned due to Russia s policy of toleration of Islam As a cross border migratory phenomenon the hajj stoked officials fears of infectious disease Islamic revolt and interethnic conflict but Eileen Kane innovatively argues that it also generated new thinking within the government about the utility of the empire s Muslims and their global networks Open Access edition funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities Constructing Race on the Borders of Europe

Marsha Morton,Barbara Larson,2021-03-25 Constructing Race on the Borders of Europe investigates the visual imagery of race construction in Scandinavia Austro Hungary Germany and Russia It covers a period when historic disciplines of ethnography and anthropology were expanding and theorists of race were debating competing conceptions of biological geographic linguistic and cultural determinants Beginning in 1850 and extending into the early 21st century this book explores how paintings photographs prints and other artistic media engaged with these discourses and shaped visual representations of subordinate ethnic populations and material cultures in countries associated with theorizations of white identity The chapters contribute to postcolonial research by documenting the colonial style treatment of minority groups by exploring the anomalies and complexities that emerge when binary systems are seen from the perspective of the fine and applied arts and by representing the voices of those who produced images or objects that adopted altered or critiqued ethnographic and anthropological information In doing so Constructing Race on the Borders of Europe uncovers instances of unexpected connections establishes the fabricated nature of ethnic identity and challenges the certainties of racial categorization

Writing at Russia's Border Katya Hokanson, 2008-01-01 It is often assumed that cultural identity is determined in a country's metropolitan centres Given Russia's long tenure as a geographically and socially diverse empire however there is a certain distillation of peripheral experiences and ideas that contributes just as much to theories of national culture as do urban centred perspectives Writing at Russia's Border argues that Russian literature needs to be reexamined in light of the fact that many of its most important nineteenth century texts are peripheral not in significance but in provenance Katya Hokanson makes the case that the fluid and ever changing cultural and linguistic boundaries of Russia's border regions profoundly influenced the nation's literature posing challenges to stereotypical or territorially based conceptions of Russia's imperial military and cultural identity A highly canonical text such as Pushkin's Eugene Onegin 1831 which is set in European Russia is no less dependent on the perspectives of those living at the edges of the Russian Empire than is Tolstoy's The Cossacks 1863 which is explicitly set on Russia's border and has become central to the Russian canon. Hokanson cites the influence of these and other peripheral texts as proof that Russia's national identity was dependent upon the experiences of people living in the border areas of an expanding empire. Produced at a cultural moment of contrast and exchange, the literature of the periphery represented a negotiation of different views of Russian identity, an ingredient that was ultimately essential even to literature produced in the major cities. Writing at Russia's Border upends popular ideas of national cultural production and is a fascinating study of the social implications of nineteenth-century Russian literature.
