One Party Government In Mali Transition:

Parties and Party Systems Giovanni Sartori, 2014-01-01 In this rich and broad ranging volume Giovanni Sartori outlines what is now recognised to be the most comprehensive and authoritative approach to the classification of party systems He also offers an extensive review of the concept and rationale of the political party and develops a sharp critique of various spatial models of party competition This is political science at its best combining the intelligent use of theory with sophisticated analytic arguments and grounding all of this on a substantial cross national empirical base Parties and Party Systems is one of the classics of postwar political science and is now established as the foremost work in its field

One-party Government in Mali: Transition Toward Control, 1965

Cold War and Decolonization in Guinea,

1946-1958 Elizabeth Schmidt, 2007-09-25 In September 1958 Guinea claimed its independence rejecting a constitution that would have relegated it to junior partnership in the French Community In all the French empire Guinea was the only territory to vote No Orchestrating the No vote was the Guinean branch of the Rassemblement D mocratique Africain RDA an alliance of political parties with affiliates in French West and Equatorial Africa and the United Nations trusts of Togo and Cameroon Although Guinea s stance vis vis the 1958 constitution has been recognized as unique until now the historical roots of this phenomenon have not been adequately explained Clearly written and free of jargon Cold War and Decolonization in Guinea argues that Guinea s vote for independence was the culmination of a decade long struggle between local militants and political leaders for control of the political agenda Since 1950 when RDA representatives in the French parliament severed their ties to the French Communist Party conservative elements had dominated the RDA In Guinea local cadres had opposed the break Victimized by the administration and sidelined by their own leaders they quietly rebuilt the party from the base Leftist militants their voices muted throughout most of the decade gained preeminence in 1958 when trade unionists students the party s women s and youth wings and other grassroots actors pushed the Guinean RDA to endorse a No vote Thus Guinea s rejection of the proposed constitution in favor of immediate independence was not an isolated aberration Rather it was the outcome of years of political mobilization by activists who despite Cold War repression ultimately pushed the Guinean RDA to the left The significance of this highly original book based on previously unexamined archival records and oral interviews with grassroots activists extends far beyond its primary subject In illuminating the Guinean case Elizabeth Schmidt helps us understand the dynamics of decolonization and its legacy for postindependence nation building in many parts of the developing world Examining Guinean history from the bottom up Schmidt considers local politics within the larger context of the Cold War making her book suitable for courses in African history and politics diplomatic history and Cold War history Democratic Theory and Practice in Africa W. O. Oyugi, 1995 Mali Pascal James Imperato, 2019-03-06 This book based on twenty three years of research field work and contacts with both Malians and non Malians familiar with Mali provides an overview of its history economic development culture and society It is intended for general readers and

Background Notes, Mali, 1993

Beyond Ethnic Politics in Africa Dominika Koter, 2016-10-13 Why do ethnic politics emerge in some ethnically diverse societies but not others Focusing on sub Saharan Africa Dominika Koter argues that the prevailing social structures of a country play a central role in how politicians attempt to mobilize voters In particular politicians consider the strength of local leaders such as chiefs or religious dignitaries who have historically played a crucial role in many parts of rural Africa Local leaders can change the electoral dynamics by helping politicians secure votes among people of different ethnicities Ethnic politics thus can be avoided where there are local leaders who can serve as credible electoral intermediaries between voters and politicians Koter shows that there is widespread variation in the standing of local leaders across Africa as a result of long term historical trends which has meant that politicians have mobilized voters in qualitatively different ways resulting in different levels of ethnic politics across the continent Research in Rural Africa Norman N. Miller, 1969 Compilation of research studies on the rural development of developing countries of Africa covers research methodological problems in political anthropology local government systems public administration the role of interest groups and political parties geographical aspects the development of natural resources as a factor in economic development migration trends mass media etc References
