Learning from Health Action Zones Linda Bauld, 2002-02-02 Since they were established HAZs have been at the forefront of attempts to modernise health services and to reduce health inequalities As a result there is much to learn from the efforts they have made But the path that HAZs have taken and the learning that they have generated is not a straightforward one

Social Constructionism in Housing Research Jim Kemeny, 2017-05-15 By stressing the importance of subjectivity and interpretation social constructionism offers a different conception of reality from the traditional approach to housing policy analysis This book provides an up to date review of the social constructionist perspective and considers its philosophical basis It discusses how social problems are constructed and in turn how this informs policy making It is divided into two parts The first section is theoretical and discusses the variety of conceptual approaches utilised within the constructionist paradigm The second part provides a number of empirically based case studies from the UK and Australia to illustrate the different methodologies that form the social constructionist corpus The book also evaluates both the criticisms that have been made against the social constructionist perspective and the strengths and weaknesses of constructionist methods It therefore contributes to the development of a future research agenda for social constructionist research in housing and urban policy Learn to succeed Campbell, Mike, 2002-05-22 This is the first book to draw together the evidence on the case for skills and to examine the policies appropriate to achieving skills for all Learn to succeed argues that raising skill levels is crucial to both economic success and social inclusion demonstrates the benefits of higher skill levels to people to companies and to communities synthesises a wide range of materials in one convenient volume providing a reference source on the issues deals with the issues at both national and local levels sets out a clear agenda for action Learn to succeed is essential reading for policy makers and practitioners in national regional and local government departments and agencies and is also recommended for students and academics on courses at undergraduate and graduate level in applied economics education or public policy Poverty and Social Exclusion in the UK. Esther Dermott, Gill Main, Glen Bramley, Nick Bailey (Professor of urban studies), 2018 How can we measure poverty in the United Kingdom today and which measures are most reliable Is poverty related to other problems and disadvantages Based on the largest research study on UK poverty ever commissioned these fascinating volumes answer these questions and more providing the most authoritative and up to date picture ever assembled of poverty throughout the four countries of the United Kingdom Using state of the art measurement methods Poverty and Social Exclusion in the UK looks across geography time and key domains like health employment and housing to make enlightening and sometimes shocking comparisons Volume One focuses on assessing poverty through the lens of a wide range of groups reporting on the living standards of older and younger people parents and children ethnic groups and disabled people as well as on the differing impacts of political intervention

Poverty Street Lupton, Ruth, 2003-11-26 Poverty street addresses one of the UK's major social policy concerns the gap between the poorest neighbourhoods and the rest of the country It is an account of neighbourhood decline a portrait of conditions in the most disadvantaged areas and an up to date analysis of the impact of the government's neighbourhood renewal policies The book explores twelve of the most disadvantaged areas in England and Wales from Newcastle in the north to Thanet in the south providing the reader with a unique journey around the country's poverty map combines evidence from neighbourhood statistics photographs and the accounts of local people with analysis of broader social and economic trends assesses the effect of government policies since 1997 and considers future prospects for reducing inequalities CASE Studies on Poverty Place and Policy series Series Editor John Hills Director of CASE at the London School of Economics and Political Science Drawing on the findings of the ESRC Centre for Analysis of Social Exclusion's extensive research programme into communities poverty and family life in Britain this fascinating series Provides a rich and detailed analysis of anti poverty policy in action Focuses on the individual and social factors that promote regeneration recovery and renewal For other titles in this series please follow the series link from the main catalogue page Harnessing the Bohemian Peter Skippington, 2016-12-13 Harnessing the Bohemian takes a fresh and interdisciplinary perspective on the intractable problem of shrinking populations and resources in remote rural communities It challenges the conventional wisdom of community development theories and practices and envisages more central roles for the creative disciplines in revitalising futures planning It argues that the evolution of technologies the emergence of creative economies the increasing demand for creative products and the emergence of new creative talent are continually changing community expectations and opportunities Consequentially fresh arguments and new ideas must be developed to stimulate more creative and innovative approaches to community development Recognising that creativity and innovation exist across all community sectors this book proposes practical new approaches that harness the creative capital of all community stakeholders Town Planning into the 21st Century Andy Blowers,Bob Evans,2013-01-11 Provides a series of insights into the planning process introduces the key issues currently facing planning and offers prescriptions for the changes required as we move into the next millenium Leading experts outline the changing context for land use and environmental policy in Britain and explain why the existing processes and profession of town planning are likely to be unable to provide satisfactory policy responses in the future Key themes debated include widening the remit of traditional town planning giving land and buildings a community value acting for people rather than simply for the market promoting an equalization of environmental conditions and discouragement of motorization the need to anticipate long term global trends at the local and national level Contributors Andrew Blowers Bob Colenutt Richard Cowell Bob Evans Cliff Hague Peter Hall Susan Owens Eric Reade Yvonne Rydin Poverty, Community and Health V. Cattell,2011-10-27 If we are becoming increasingly disconnected from our local communities are there implications for health well being and happiness particularly for people on low incomes This book looks at the interplay between poor people poor communities and poor health with a particular focus on social networks as key linkages Town and Country Planning in the UK J. B. Cullingworth,Vincent Nadin,2002 This thirteenth edition has been completely revised to take into account all the changes that have occurred in British planning including the policies introduced by the Labour government devolution innovations and the European Union Public Health For The 21st Century Orme, Judy,Powell, Jane,Taylor, Pat,2007-02-01 This bestselling book has been substantially updated to take into account changing policy and practice Urban Reconstruction in the Developing World Peter Robinson,J. J. McCarthy,Clive A. Forster,2004 Public Policy for the 21st Century Fraser, Neil,Hills, John,2000-12-06 This book draws together a collection of lively and authoritative essays on the future of public policy by distinguished academics in the field Compiled in memory of Henry Neuburger a leading economic analyst and adviser the essays together form an excellent introduction to key issues in contemporary policy making Collaboration in Public Policy and Practice Paul Williams,2012-01-18 Collaborative working is an established feature of the public business and third sector environments but its effectiveness can be hampered by complex structural and personal variants This original book explores the influence of agency through the role of individual actors in collaborative working processes known as boundary spanners It examines the different aspects of the boundary spanner's role and discusses the skills, abilities and experience that are necessary. It will be of interest to academics, researchers and students interested in this field of study and provides learning for policy makers and practitioners active in the fields of collaboration. Housing in 21st-Century Australia Rae Dufty-Jones, Dallas

Rogers, 2016-03-09 Over the last two decades new and significant demographic, economic, social and environmental changes and challenges have shaped the production and consumption of housing in Australia and the policy settings that attempt to guide these processes. These changes and challenges as outlined in this book are many and varied. While these issues are new, they raise timeless questions around affordability, access, density, quantity, type and location of housing needed in Australian towns and cities. The studies presented in this text also provide a unique insight into a range of housing production, consumption and policy issues that while based in Australia have implications that go beyond this national context. For instance, how do suburban-based societies adjust to the realities of aging populations, anthropogenic climate change and the significant implications such change has for housing? How has policy been translated and assembled in specific national contexts? Similarly, what are the significantly different policy settings for the production and consumption of housing in a post-Global Financial Crisis period? Framed in this way, this book accounts for and responds to some of the key housing issues of the 21st century. Rural Development Theory and Practice Malcolm J. Moseley, 2002
