for what they can tell us about translating and about translators own perceptions of their role The argument throughout is for more self reflexive translation studies

Mosaics in French Culture Laurance Grove, 2017-03-02 This study compares text image interaction as manifested in emblem books and related forms and the modern bande dessinée or French language comic strip. It moves beyond the issue of defining the emblematic genre to examine the ways in which emblems and their modern counterparts interact with the surrounding culture and what they disclose about that culture. Drawing largely on primary material from the Bibliothèque nationale de France and from Glasgow University Library's Stirling Maxwell Collection of emblem literature, Laurence Grove builds on the ideas of Marshall McLuhan, Elizabeth Eisenstein and more recently Neil Rhodes and Jonathan Sawday. Divided into four sections: Theoretics, Production, Thematics and Reception, Text Image Mosaics in French Culture broaches topics such as theoretical approaches, past and present, to text image forms, the question of narrative within the scope of text image creations and the reuse of visual iconography for diametrically opposed political or religious purposes. The author argues that despite the gap in time between the advent of emblems and that of comic strips, the two forms are analogous in that both are the products of a parallel mentality. The mindsets of the periods that popularised these forms have certain common features related to repeated social conditions rather than to the pure evolution over time. Grove's analysis and historical contextualisation of that mentality provide insight into our own popular culture forms: not only the comic strip but also other hybrid media such as advertising and the Internet. His juxtaposition of emblems and the bande dessinée increases our understanding of all such combinations of picture and text.

The Invention of Robert Bresson Colin Burnett, 2016-12-19 Challenging the prevailing notion among cinephiles that the auteur is an isolated genius interested primarily in individualism Colin Burnett positions Robert Bresson as one whose life's work confronts the cultural forces that helped shape it Regarded as one of film history's most elusive figures Bresson 1901-1999 carried himself as an auteur long before cultural magazines like the famed Cahiers du cinéma advanced the term to describe such directors as Jacques Tati Alfred Hitchcock and Jean-Luc Godard In this groundbreaking study Burnett combines biography with cultural history to uncover the roots of the auteur in the alternative cultural marketplace of midcentury France
