Report on Defective Colour Vision in Industry Physical Society of London. Colour Group, 1946 The History of Color Blindness P. Lanthony, 2018-11-30 Colour Vision Deficiencies XI B. Drum, 2012-12-06 The eleventh Symposium of the International Research Group on Colour Vision Deficiencies IRGCVD was held 20-23 June 1991 in Sydney Australia ably hosted by local organizer Stephen Dain. A total of 35 talks and 10 posters were presented. Papers based on 37 of these presentations are included here in Colour Vision Deficiencies XI. The scientific program featured sessions on three special topics with each topic highlighted by an invited speaker. The opening session on the Genetics of congenital colour vision deficiencies began with a superb invited lecture by Charles Weitz about his pioneering work on the molecular genetics of tritanopia. The session on the second special topic Spatial aspects of colour vision began with the launching of a new IRGCVD tradition as 1991 Verriest Memorial Award recipient Harry Sperling presented the first Verriest Memorial Lecture on his recent studies of spatial discrimination of heterochromatic stimuli. Dr Sperling reported new evidence that certain asymmetries in red-green opponent colour vision can be explained by the spatial organization of colour opponent retinal neurons. In the third special session on Occupational aspects of colour vision Barry Cole took the audience on a fascinating tour of the historical development of colour vision standards in his invited lecture entitled Does defective colour vision really matter. In addition to the three special topics many interesting presentations were given in topical sessions on Variations in normal colour vision, Acquired colour vision deficiencies and Colour vision tests and testing methods. Index-catalogue of the Library of the Surgeon-General's Office, United States Army National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1898 Colour in Food D MacDougall, 2002-08-16 Colour is one of the most important cues used by consumers to assess the quality of a food product. It may be defined as the individual's response to the visual signals generated by the light on a product. This important collection reviews how colour is perceived and measured and ways in which it can be better understood and controlled in food. Part one looks at colour perception and measurement. Chapter 2 discusses the concept of the total appearance of food of which colour is one component and relates this to sensory assessment techniques. The following chapters consider the principles of instrumental colour measurement, models of colour appearance, colour measurement by colour reflectance and sorting by colour. Part two begins with a review of the chemistry of food colorants. This provides a context for the following chapters which focus on the factors determining colour stability in vegetables, fruits and meat. A final group of chapters then look at colour enhancement of foods from the use of genetic modification to developments in natural colourings. Colour in food is a standard work on both understanding, measuring and controlling one
