Maritime Scotland:

A Maritime History of Scotland, 1650-1790 Eric J. Graham, 2015-04-21 The period 1650 to 1790 was such a turbulent one for Scottish seafarers that much of this fast flowing narrative reads like Treasure Island Colourful characters abound in a story teeming with incident and excitement John Paul Jones descends upon the Scottish coast creating widespread panic press gangs prowl the coastal towns wartime conditions turn merchantmen into privateers fighting the French the Spanish and the American Colonists almost anyone flying a different flag quaintly named vessels like The Provoked Cheesemaker are on the lookout for trouble And the stakes were high Glasgow became wealthy through the tobacco trade Glasgow merchantmen could beat the English ships and sail to Chesapeake Bay in record time Eric Graham traces the development of the Scottish marine and its institutions during a formative period when state intervention and warfare at sea in the pursuit of merchantilist goals largely determined the course of events He charts Scotland's frustrated attempts to join England in the Atlantic economy and so secure her prosperity an often bitter relationship that culminated in the Darien Disaster In the years that followed maritime affairs were central to the move to embrace the full incorporating Act of 1707 After 1707 Scottish maritime aspirations flourished under the protection of the British Navigation Acts and the windfalls of the endemic warfare at sea

The Future of HM Coastguard in Scotland Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Scottish Affairs Committee, 2012-11-15 This report expresses concern about the decision to close two of Scotland's Maritime Rescue Coordination Centres and says Government must do more to explain the rationale for the decision and how it will ensure that the same high standard of service is maintained with fewer resources Despite an extensive Government consultation those on the front line felt they had been excluded from the process There has been no satisfactory explanation for the decision to close Clyde and Forth MRCCs which will leave the central belt of Scotland where the population is most densely concentrated without a Coastguard station The Committee is particularly concerned at the loss of local knowledge resulting from the closures Both the Minister and the Chief Executive of the Maritime and Coastguard Agency have assured the Committee that robust and extensive testing was being done before the closure of Clyde Maritime Rescue Coordination Centre to ensure that the stations taking over its area of responsibility would do so seamlessly and continue to provide the level of search and rescue cover which the public has a right to expect The Committee understands the Government's argument that the changes are intended to allow HM Coastguard to do more better with less and says it hopes that this is indeed the case The Government must keep the Committee updated on the impact of the proposed changes and provide reassurance after 31 December 2012 that the Scottish coastline is still being served to the same high standard as before

The Crown Estate in Scotland Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Scottish Affairs Committee, 2012-03-19 This report examines the Crown Estate Commissioner's management of the Crown property rights and interests which make up the Crown Estate in Scotland The Commissioner's operations in Scotland can be split into two categories ancient possessions responsibilities and modern activities relating to the buying selling and management of property and land The evidence identified major issues particularly in relation to the seabed and the foreshore including lack of accountability lack of communication and consultation with local communities the inappropriateness of the Commissioner s remit for its responsibilities in the marine environment the cash leakage from local economies and other adverse impacts There were no such problems in relation to the management of urban and rural estate The Commissioner s responsibilities for the seabed the foreshore and other ancient rights in Scotland should be devolved then decentralized as far as possible Devolution to Holyrood should be conditional upon agreement between the Secretary of State for Scotland and the Scottish Government on how such a scheme of subsidiarity to local authority and local community levels should be implemented This report also sets out how different arrangements could be made for each of the Scottish Crown property rights and responsibilities Further consultation should proceed on the basis of proposals set out by the Highlands and Islands local authorities which provides a clear framework on which to base discussion

Marine Science Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology Committee, 2013-04-11 Properly managed Marine Conservation Zones will protect marine life the UK's coastal waters and ensure the fishing industry has a sustainable long term future The Government is currently letting the project flounder while sensitive environments are further degraded and the industry is subjected to further uncertainty It has been over three years since the Marine and Coastal Access Act was passed with cross party consensus that Marine Conservation Zones were necessary and has widespread public support Despite this the designation process has been repeatedly delayed and Marine Conservation Zones have become increasingly controversial 127 Marine Conservation Zones have been proposed but Defra has consulted on only 31 of these without setting out the zone selection process when these would be implemented or exactly how they would be managed The Committee welcomes the publication of the Marine Science Strategy and establishment of the Marine Science Coordination Committee However it notes concerns about the effectiveness of these measures and highlights the risk that changes to funding mechanisms could undermine support for long term strategic marine science It is also recognised that the Natural Environment Research Council is currently operating with inadequate resources but it should consider the impact that restructuring its research funding has had on its support for strategic marine science The Committee recommended there should be a duty on commercial operations to share the data they collect It is concerning that funding for important long term monitoring programmes remains opportunistic and piecemeal Developments in technologies such as autonomous underwater vehicles could dramatically alter the way in which marine data is collected

Marine Renewable Energy Technology and Environmental Interactions Mark A. Shields, Andrew I.L. Payne, 2014-02-12 It is now widely recognized that there is a need for long term secure and suitable sustainable forms of energy Renewable energy from the marine environment in particular renewable energy from tidal currents wave and wind can help achieve a sustainable energy future Our understanding of environmental impacts and suitable mitigation methods associated with extracting renewable energy from the marine environment is improving all the time and it is essential that we be able to distinguish between natural and anthropocentric drivers and impacts An overview of current understanding of the environmental implications of marine renewable energy technology is provided

The Grain Supply of England During the Napoleonic Period William Freeman Galpin, 1925

The Sea Kings R. Andrew McDonald, 2020-05-28 The archipelagic kingdoms of Man and the Isles that flourished from the last quarter of the eleventh century down to the middle of the thirteenth century represent two forgotten kingdoms of the medieval British Isles They were ruled by powerful individuals with unquestionably regnal status who interacted in a variety of ways with rulers of surrounding lands and who left their footprint on a wide range of written documents and upon the very landscapes and seascapes of the islands they ruled Yet British history has tended to overlook these Late Norse maritime empires which thrived for two centuries on the Atlantic frontiers of Britain This book represents the first ever overview of both Manx and Hebridean dynasties that dominated Man and the Isles from the late eleventh to the mid thirteenth centuries Coverage is broad and is not restricted to politics and warfare An introductory chapter examines the maritime context of the kingdoms in light of recent work in the field of maritime history while subsequent chronological and narrative chapters trace the history of the kingdoms from their origins through their maturity to their demise in the thirteenth century Separate chapters examine the economy and society church and religion power and architecture

Understanding Game-based Approaches for Improving Sustainable Water Governance Wietske Medema, Chengzi Chew, Jan Franklin Adamowski, Igor Mayer, Arjen Wals, 2020-04-28 The sustainable governance of water resources relies on processes of multi stakeholder collaborations and interactions that facilitate knowledge co creation and social learning Governance systems are often fragmented forming a barrier to adequately addressing the myriad of challenges affecting water resources including climate change increased urbanized populations and pollution Transitions towards sustainable water governance will likely require innovative learning partnerships between public private and civil society stakeholders It is essential that such partnerships involve vertical and horizontal communication of ideas and knowledge and an enabling and democratic environment characterized by informal and open discourse There is increasing interest in learning based transitions Thus far much scholarly thinking and to a lesser degree empirical research has gone into understanding the potential impact of social learning on multi stakeholder settings The question of whether such learning can be supported by forms of serious gaming has hardly been asked This Special Issue critically explores the potential of serious games to support multi stakeholder social learning and collaborations in the context of water governance Serious games may involve simulations of real world events and processes and are challenge players to solve contemporary societal problems they therefore have a purpose beyond entertainment They offer a largely untapped potential to support social learning and collaboration by facilitating access to and the exchange of knowledge and information enhancing stakeholder interactions empowering a wider audience to participate in decision making and providing opportunities to test and analyze the outcomes of policies and management solutions Little is known about how game based approaches can be used in the context of collaborative water governance to maximize their potential for social learning While several studies have reported examples of serious games there is comparably less research about how to assess the impacts of serious games on social learning and transformative change

Reports of Cases Relating to Maritime Law ,1900      Rotuli Parisienses (2 vols.) William J. Courtenay, Eric D. Goddard, 2013-03-27 This volume continues the edition of the rotuli or lists of benefice supplications sent to the papacy by masters bachelors and students at the University of Paris in the fourteenth century It specifically covers the pontificate of the Avignon pope Clement VII 1378 1394 It also contains letters of provision in abbreviated form that resulted from those petitions along with a large number of supplications from individual Parisian scholars either submitted independently or more frequently through another sponsor In contrast to earlier papal beneficial policy Pope Clement responded favorably to many petitions from students in the faculty of arts at Paris some of them in the beginning years of their undergraduate education Thus in addition to providing important information on Parisian scholars and papal beneficial policy in the early years of the Papal Schism it documents a portion of the university community otherwise invisible namely undergraduate students and reveals the connections between Parisian scholars and social and ecclesiastical patrons at the end of the fourteenth century The book concludes with an index of the names of scholars and patrons as well as a place name index locating the parish and collegiate churches mentioned in the texts Along with the two earlier volumes this edition represents the largest body of new documentation for the pre fifteenth century University to appear since the publication of the Chartularium Universitatis Parisiensis at the end of the nineteenth century
