The Palgrave Handbook of Learning for Transformation Aliko Nicolaides, Saskia Eschenbacher, Petra T. Buergelt, Yabome Gilpin-Jackson, Marguerite Welch, Mitsunori Misawa, 2022-01-24 This handbook offers an expanded discourse on transformative learning by making the turn into new passageways to explore the phenomenon of transformation It curates diverse discourses knowledges and practices of transformation in ways that both includes and departs from the adult learning mainstay of transformative learning and adult education The purpose of this handbook is not to resolve or unify a theory of transformation and all the disciplinary contributions that clearly promote a living concept of transformation Instead the intent is to catalyze a more complex and deeper inquiry into the Why of transformation Each discipline culture ethics and practice has its own specialized care and reasons for paying attention to transformation How can scholars practitioners and active members of discourses on transformative learning make a difference How can they foster and create conditions that allow us to move on to other unaddressed or understudied questions To answer these questions the editors and their authors employ the metaphor of the many turns into passageways to convey the potential of transformation that may emerge from the many connecting passageways between for instance people and society theory and practice knowledge created by diverse disciplines and fields professions individual and collective transformations and individual and social action

Nursing Power and Social Judgement Martin Johnson, 2018-08-20 First published in 1997 this work makes a substantial reexamination of the social processes behind the labelling of patients in hospital care Taking an interpretive perspective the author analyzes the social construction of patient labels identifying strategies for and the consequences of giving and receipt of good and bad labels He shows how the rich data of truly participant observation in the tradition of reflexive ethnography can powerfully illuminate the experiences and actions of both patients and their nurses It is a critical analysis of key work in this field Professor Johnson demonstrates the redundancy of trait theories of social judgment offering a more complex and negotiated reality in which patient labels form a part of a rich web of unequal power relations between nurses and their clients

In the Field Renee C. Fox, 2017-07-05 In the Field by Renee C Fox is a narrative account of the author's life as a sociologist It is not a memoir in the conventional sense rather it is an ethnographic autobiography Drawing on a vast reservoir of notes and documents that chronicle the span of her career this work also focuses on the places Fox's field research has carried her Propelled by a conviction to move beyond the boundaries of herself and of her native land Fox has done first hand research in Europe Central Africa and China as well as in the United States The majority of her research has centered on health illness and medicine Other recurrent themes that pervade her work include training for uncertainty the allocation of scarce resources the relationship between self and others detachment and concern the particular and the universal the harm that can result from intended good and the questions posed by illness and accident pain and suffering and death It is Fox's commitment as a teacher and mentor of generations of students that lies at the heart of this book This volume will inspire new generations of social researchers

A Contemporary Nursing Process Rozzano C. Locsin, Marguerite Purnell, Marguerite J. view that requires nursing to look at its work through a broader and less structured lens Challenging the structure of the traditional nursing process the book considers nursing as reflective and thoughtful Doody's A Contemporary Nursing Process re-envision the practice of nursing by configuring caring in terms of the person the nurse cares for Locsin and Purnell stress the importance of knowing the patient and differentiating the person from the disease This text addresses this highly relevant issue and provides a wealth of insight on how to care for the patient on a personal level while still professionally administering clinical treatment Chapters discuss How to appreciate persons as participants in their care rather than as objects of care The ideal of care versus the practical demands of care Technological advancements shaping human life and nursing The consequences of not knowing the patient on a personal level

Tuberculosis was the most common cause of death in the nineteenth century The lingering illness devastated the lives of patients and families and by the turn of the century fears of infectiousness compounded their anguish Historians have usually focused on the changing medical knowledge of tuberculosis or on the social campaign to combat it In Bargaining for Life Barbara Bates documents the human story Using a wide range of sources especially the extensive correspondence of a Philadelphia physician Lawrence F Flick Bates portrays the lives of tuberculous men and women as they tried to cope with the illness get treatment earn their living and maintain their social relationships Their caretakers including relatives clergy physicians and nurses all had their own reasons for providing help In ways that differed with class race gender and sometimes political influence sanatoriums hospitals and visiting nurse societies mediated various bargains between the sick and their caretakers Bates concludes that the campaign to control and cure tuberculosis had little impact on the disease but it offered care assuaged fears of infection and expanded the welfare system Choices made by the sick helped to shape the institutions and affected the results of the campaign Many of the bargains between patients and caretakers are still discernible in the U S health care system Bates has written an extraordinarily insightful book that combines social history medical history and nursing history It will interest scholars students health professionals and general readers who care about and care for chronically ill people Pictures of Health Janet Golden, Charles E. Congratulations to all the authors: Martine De Vlieger, Palliatieve Hulpverlening Antwerpen v z w, University of Antwerp, Belgium. This book should be compulsory reading for nurses and other health care workers who are involved in the care of people in the final stages of life. The second edition of this innovative textbook has been extensively revised and updated to reflect new global developments in palliative care. Over a third of the chapters are newly commissioned from leading international contributors. Building on the widely acclaimed original edition, the textbook focuses on palliative care for adults in a variety of care environments. There are numerous examples of clinical situations and research studies which are examined in depth to illustrate debates in palliative care. The textbook spans the range of end-of-life contexts which are of relevance to practitioners, educationalists and researchers. Palliative Care Nursing is essential reading for post-qualification nursing students and all nurses and health and social care professionals who provide care to people with advanced illness and those who are near the end of life.
