Researching Violence, Democracy and the Rights of People John Schostak, Jill Schostak, 2009-12-16 Violence democracy and rights are issues that are not fully addressed in research methodology literatures yet violence is of vital interest in substantive and theoretical debates across the social sciences education philosophy politics and cultural studies Methodology needs to be informed by and be relevant to the debates and practices within and across these perspectives on the worlds of everyday life Research is fundamentally entwined with the political the ethical and the legal When it presumes the neutrality of method and ignores its radical roots of inquiry it is in danger of being politically co opted and ethically na ve Research that reveals what is at stake politically ethically and legally is typically open to accusations of being partisan and therefore political It cannot avoid being political in the broadest sense of the word and consequently the researcher cannot escape through some mystical notion of being objective the political ethical and legal consequences of undertaking research Research is vital to the construction of public spaces for debate decision making and action Hence there is a close relationship between methodological practices research design and the conditions under which violence democracy and rights can be addressed Researching Violence Democracy and the Rights of People explores what is at stake methodologically both theoretically and practically for researchers seeking to expand opportunities for people to become visible upon the public stages of debate decision making and action and thus make audible their experiences of wrongs and injustices express their rights and engage democratically in processes of change Drawing on international contributions and contexts this book introduces readers to the complex realities of real research and the substantive issues that their methodological approaches strive to deal with It will benefit undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as post doctoral and experienced researchers across a range of cultural and social science disciplines as well as educational and sociological researchers Its aim is to explore and contribute to the development of innovatory approaches to engaging in research that make a difference in the lives of people Moving on From Crime and Substance Use Anne Robinson, Paula Hamilton, 2016-09-21 Desistance is a hot topic of the criminological world but while research suggests that as offenders turn their backs on crime they often change their behavior and their sense of identity we know relatively little about how this reforming or transforming of identity might be affected by gender age or ethnicity Showcasing international research from a wide range of contributors in the field this book investigates the roles played by these various diversity issues during desistance By considering similarities and differences between desisting from crime and recovering from addiction it pushes the desistance and recovery debates in novel directions offering unique insight into experiences of change and transformation among individuals who are seeking healthier and more successful futures Indigenous Food Systems Priscilla Settee, Shailesh Shukla , 2020-01-31 Indigenous Food Systems addresses the disproportionate levels of food related health disparities among First Nations Métis and Inuit people in Canada seeking solutions to food insecurity and promoting well being for current and future generations of Indigenous people Through research and case studies Indigenous and non Indigenous food scholars and community practitioners explore salient features practices and contemporary challenges of Indigenous food systems across Canada Highlighting Indigenous communities voices the contributing authors document collaborative initiatives between Indigenous communities organizations and non Indigenous allies to counteract the colonial and ecologically destructive monopolization of food systems This timely and engaging collection celebrates strategies to revitalize Indigenous food systems such as achieving cultural resurgence and food sovereignty sharing and mobilizing diverse knowledges and voices and reviewing and reformulating existing policies research and programs to improve the health well being and food security of Indigenous and Canadian populations Indigenous Food Systems is a critical resource for students in Indigenous studies public health anthropology and the social
