of the post war era old friends from their association in Algiers during World War II de Gaulle the dour lofty moralist obsessed with high notions of France and Macmillan the canny ambitious fixer always the pragmatist seeking to get things done As Resident Minister Allied Forces Headquarters in Algiers in 1943 Macmillan had done much to help de Gaulle and protect him from Churchill's and Roosevelt's hostility They next met in 1958 as leaders of their two countries when Britain and France faced many similar problems ranging from decolonization and their determination to retain national Great Power status to relations with the impetuous Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev But while both seemed anxious to retain their old wartime connection they were now rivals with very different views of the world Divided by the Atlantic as much as the Channel the two leaders disagreed fundamentally over America De Gaulle sought the leadership of a Europe independent of the United States the pro American Macmillan talked of Britain as a bridge between the two sides of the Atlantic When Macmillan finally sought EEC membership de Gaulle played on the old alliance to keep the British Prime Minister off guard Ultimately Macmillan was outwitted out manoeuvred and even perhaps outclassed by the General The Almost Impossible Ally is a fascinating story of a friendship turned sour and of a compelling new episode in the turbulent relations between Britain and France

Kennedy, Macmillan and the Cold War N. Ashton,2002-09-18 Nigel J Ashton analyses Anglo American relations during a crucial phase of the Cold War He argues that although policy makers on both sides of the Atlantic used the term interdependence to describe their relationship this concept had different meanings in London and Washington The Kennedy Administration sought more centralized control of the Western alliance whereas the Macmillan Government envisaged an Anglo American partnership This gap in perception gave rise to a crisis of interdependence during the winter of 1962 3 encompassing issues as diverse as the collapse of the British EEC application the civil war in the Yemen the denouement of the Congo crisis and the fate of the British independent nuclear deterrent

Ending 'East of Suez' P. L. Pham,2010-01-28 In 1964 Britain's defence presence in Malaysia and Singapore was the largest and most expensive component of the country's world wide role Yet within three and a half years the Wilson Government had announced that Britain would be withdrawing from its major Southeast Asian bases and abandoning any special military role East of Suez Drawing upon previously classified government records P L Pham examines and explains how the Wilson Government came to this conclusion one of the most significant decisions in the decline of British global power after the Second World War Substantially revising earlier accounts Pham exposes the inner workings of government the close but strained relations between the United Kingdom and the United States in the midst of Cold War tensions and how politicians and policy makers managed the decline of British power providing an in depth and comprehensive study of British policy processes of the era The Breaking of Nations Robert Cooper,2003 Cooper shows that the greatest question facing postmodern states is how they should deal with a world in which missiles and terrorists ignore borders and where Cold War alliances no longer guarantee security Nuclear Apartheid Shane J. Maddock,2010-03-15 After World War II an atomic hierarchy emerged in the noncommunist world Washington was at the top followed over time by its NATO allies and then Israel with the postcolonial world completely shut out An Indian diplomat called the system nuclear apartheid Drawing on recently declassified sources from U S and international archives Shane Maddock offers the first full length study of nuclear apartheid casting a spotlight on an ideological outlook that nurtured atomic inequality and established the United States in its own mind as the most legitimate nuclear power Beginning with the discovery of fission in 1939 and ending with George W Bush's nuclear policy and his preoccupation with the axis of evil Maddock uncovers the deeply ideological underpinnings of U S nuclear policy an ideology based on American exceptionalism irrational faith in the power of technology and racial and gender stereotypes The unintended result of the nuclear exclusion of nations such as North Korea Pakistan and Iran is increasingly rebellion Here is an illuminating look at how an American nuclear policy based on misguided ideological beliefs has unintentionally paved the way for an international wild west of nuclear development dramatically undercutting the goal of nuclear containment and diminishing U S influence in the world
