Representation Of History In The Fiction:

Egyptian Writers Between History and Fiction Samia Mehrez, 1994 Taking as the basis of her study the premise that the boundaries of history and literature are difficult to define and that the two disciplines represent related types of narrative discourse Samia Mehrez examines the work of three leading contemporary Egyptian writers the Nobel laureate Naguib Mahfouz Sonallah Ibrahim and Gamal al Ghitani Mehrez delves into the relationship between history and narrative literature and shows that both attempt to transform reality and life into historical structures of meaning By analyzing the works of these authors in terms of the relationship between authority and the production of narrative literature she reveals a context in which literature becomes a kind of alternative history a discourse that comments not only on the history of a place but also on the creation of a narrative on history As the author says in the Introduction The three writers whose careers and works are discussed in these chapters represent some of the most crucial contributions to the larger signifying entity that has engaged the Arab reader in many transformative ways The authors and their works provide an indispensable history of the literary field itself mapping through their own development as artistic producers the history of the context which they inhabit and in which they produce

The Representation of History in Science Fiction Video Games Lukas Bay, 2025-04-03
Master's Thesis from the year 2024 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies grade 1.3 University of Tübingen English Department language English abstract Science fiction has long served as a powerful lens through which complex social issues and historical narratives can be explored From the earliest days of the genre science fiction settings have been utilized to explore contemporary concerns The struggles and experiences of marginalized groups have frequently found expression in science fiction narratives with the African American experience being a particularly resonant and recurring motif The history of African Americans in the United States from the antebellum days of slavery through the long fight for civil rights and the ongoing struggle for equality presents a compelling and highly significant narrative This history of oppression resistance identity and the struggle for freedom naturally lends itself to analogical representation By representing these historical struggles in futuristic societies or alternate realities they can be explored from new perspectives potentially fostering greater empathy and understanding Whether the replicants in Blade Runner the Synths in Fallout 4 or the androids in Detroit Become Human the representations of these artificial humanoids include a number of analogies to African American struggles of the past Works that investigate the representation of race and history in science fiction literature and film exist but video games remain an area of research that is underrepresented in relation to their popularity and cultural relevance All three games use said representations of African American history in the context of artificial humanoids to allude to players cultural and historical knowledge and project it onto players interpretations of the non human beings The prevalence of these representations within the games narratives however differs significantly and correlates with how keenly each game is trying to convey the specific interpretation to players that treating these artificial humanoids as anything less than human is unjust Historicizing Fiction/Fictionalizing History Nishevita J. Murthy, 2014-10-16 Historicizing Fiction Fictionalizing History brings together two authors Umberto Eco and Orhan Pamuk not frequently studied in comparison By focusing on their non fictional works to present a unique study of the methods and concepts of representation Murthy uses contemporary historical novels to examine fictional depictions of reality and provides a fresh perspective on representation studies in literature Written in an accessible style and tapping into fields as varied as literary and critical theory the historical novel postmodernism and historiography Historicizing Fiction Fictionalizing History considers the ways in which reality as discourse confronts a text external reality and how this confrontation affects the autonomy of the fictional space topics that remain persistently problematic areas within literary studies Eco s The Name of the Rose and Baudolino and Pamuk s My Name is Red and Snow with their topical concerns and methods of representation promise a rewarding comparative study This book provides an early critical framework for these four works placing them within the rubric of the postmodernist historical novel as creative works that also comment on the process of literary writing through their recreation of historical pasts In this respect Historicizing Fiction Fictionalizing History promises to be an engaging read in literary criticism and historiography as well as a handy companion for Eco and Pamuk enthusiasts The Representation of History in Post-war American Fiction \(1945-1980\) Zygmunt Mazur, 2001 History, memory, recovery and representation in contemporary fiction by african american women writers Silvia del Pilar Castro Borrego, 1999-08-30 The Fiction of History Alexander Lyon Macfie, 2014-08-13 The Fiction of History sets out a number of themes in the relationship between history and fiction emphasising the tensions and dilemmas created in this relationship and examining how various writers have dealt with these In the first part two chapters discuss the philosophy behind the connection between fiction and history whether history is fiction and the distinction between the past and history Part two goes on to discuss the relationship between history and literature using case studies such as Virginia Woolf and Charles Dickens Part three looks at television and film as well as other media through case studies such as the film Welcome to Sarajevo and Soviet and Australian films Part four considers a particular theme that has prominence in both history and literature postcolonial studies focusing on the issues of fictions of nationhood and civilization and the historical novel in postcolonial contexts Finally the fifth section comprises two interviews with novelists Penelope Lively and Adam Thorpe and discusses the ways in which their works explore the nature of history itself Possible Worlds of Fiction and History Lubomír Doležal, 2010-04-05 With Possible Worlds of Fiction and History Lubomír Doležal reexamines the claim made first by Roland Barthes and then popularized by Hayden White that there is no fundamental distinction between fiction and history Doležal rejects this assertion and demonstrates how literary and discourse theory can help the historian to restate the difference between fiction and history He challenges scholars to reassess the postmodern viewpoint by reintroducing the idea of possible worlds Possible worlds semantics reveals that possible worlds of fiction and possible worlds of history differ in their origins cultural functions and structural and semantic features Dolel's book is the first systematic application of this idea to the theory and philosophy of history Possible Worlds of Fiction and History is the crowning work of one of literary theory's most engaged thinkers

Holocaust Representations in History Daniel H. Magilow, Lisa Silverman, 2015-02-26 Holocaust Representations in History is an introduction to critical questions and debates surrounding the depiction, chronicling and memorialization of the Holocaust through the historical analysis of some of the most provocative and significant works of Holocaust representation. In a series of chronologically presented case studies, the book introduces the major themes and issues of Holocaust representation across a variety of media and genres including film, drama, literature, photography, visual art, television, graphic novels and memorials. The case studies presented not only include well-known commercially successful and canonical works about the Holocaust such as the film Shoah and Elie Wiesel's memoir Night, but also controversial examples that have drawn accusations of profaning the memory of the genocide. Each work's specific historical and cultural significance is then discussed to provide further insight into the impact of one of the most devastating events of the 20th century and the continued relevance of its memory. Complete with illustrations, a bibliography and suggestions for further reading, key terms and discussion questions, this is an important book for any student keen to know more about the Holocaust and its impact.

The Oxford History of the Novel in English Simon Gikandi, 2016-09-05 Why did the novel take such a long time to emerge in the colonial world? And what cultural work did it come to perform in societies where subjects were not free and modes of social organization diverged from the European cultural centers where the novel gained its form and audience? Answering these questions and more, Volume 11: The Novel in Africa and the Caribbean since 1950 explores the institutions of cultural production that exerted influence in late colonialism, from missionary schools and metropolitan publishers to universities and small presses. How these structures provoke and respond to the literary trends and social peculiarities of Africa and the Caribbean impacts not only the writing and reading of novels in those regions but also has a transformative effect on the novel as a global phenomenon. Together, the volume's 32 contributing experts tell a story about the close relationship between the novel and the project of decolonization and explore the multiple ways in which novels enable readers to imagine communities beyond their own and thus made this form of literature a compelling catalyst for cultural transformation. The authors show that even as the novel grows in Africa and the Caribbean as a mark of the elites' mastery of European form, it becomes the essential instrument for critiquing colonialism and for articulating the new horizons of cultural nationalism. Within this historical context, the volume examines works by authors such as Chinua Achebe, Nadine Gordimer, George Lamming, Jamaica Kincaid, V. S. Naipaul, Zoe Wicomb, J. M. Coetzee and many others.

Manga and the Representation of Japanese History Roman Rosenbaum, 2013 This edited collection explores how graphic art and, in particular, Japanese manga represent Japanese history. The articles explore the representation of history in manga from disciplines that include such diverse fields as literary studies, politics, history, cultural studies, linguistics, narratology and semiotics. Despite this diversity of approaches all academics from these respective fields of study agree that manga pose a peculiarly contemporary appeal that transcends the limitation imposed by traditional approaches to the study and teaching of history The representation of history via manga in Japan has a long and controversial historiographical dimension Thereby manga and by extension graphic art in Japanese culture has become one of the world s most powerful modes of expressing contemporary historical verisimilitude The contributors to this volume elaborate how manga and by extension graphic art rewrites reinvents and re imagines the historicity and dialectic of bygone epochs in postwar and contemporary Japan Manga and the Representation of Japanese History will be of interest to students and scholars of Asian studies Asian history Japanese culture and society as well as art and visual culture The Representation of History in the Fiction Film Leger Grindon,1990

The "Mystery of History", its Functionalisation and Disintegration in Graham Swift's "Waterland" Thorben Höppner,2023-05-02 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 0 language English abstract This paper investigates how the ambivalent perhaps even ambiguous definition of historia relates to the representation of history in the novel and how this representation again relates to its functionalisation by Tom Crick To answer this question this paper will primarily work with Linda Hutcheon s notion of historiographic metafiction while also pointing out similarities to the reading of Waterland as a trauma narrative In taking a closer look at the protagonist narrator himself this paper argues that the protection from chaos and disorder which Landow addresses is only achieved through a form of historical escapism Superficially speaking Graham Swift s Waterland is a novel about a history teacher who having lost his job forsakes the formal teaching of history and embarks on an extracurricular journey into his own past However upon closer examination Waterland is more than that a novel about history itself It explores the whole mystery of history as Swift himself puts it in the introduction to the novel Waterland xv Thus it is only logical that the novel prefaces its narrative with an insightful epigraph a dictionary definition of the Latin word historia from which the English word history originates As can be seen above however said definition is ambivalent it is inherently polysemantic as Judith Ryan notes James Acheson has likewise pointed out that the fact that historia can mean either history or fiction is significant for the historian and the writer of fiction must deal with similar problems in writing about the past The natural tendency of language towards proliferation of its meaning aside the epigraph leaves us with a very ambivalent concept of history which the narrative of Waterland in its dealing with history then builds on Since such a prominent theme in Waterland the novel s representation of history has been thoroughly examined in secondary literature particularly against the theoretical background of what Linda Hutcheon has identified as historiographic metafiction History and Cultural Memory in Neo-Victorian Fiction Kate Mitchell,2010-07-16 A PDF version of this book is available for free in open access via the OAPEN Library platform www.oapen.org Arguing that neo Victorian fiction enacts and celebrates cultural memory this book uses memory discourse to position these novels as dynamic participants in the contemporary historical imaginary

Making Use of History in New South African Fiction Sten Pultz Moslund, 2003 A study of the use of history as political ammunition and literature as historical counter discourse in Mongane Serote's Gods of Our Time Mike Nicol's The Ibis Tapestry and Zakes Mda's Ways of Dying Moslund shows how literary engagement with the past seeks to rupture the continuity of a strongly dichotomised epistemology and through that dissolve the inherited polarisation of society Falsification of history is exposed as constructed discourse and past simplifications of reality as sharply demarcated into homogenous self justifying categorisations of Us against Them are challenged with paradox doubt and introspection

History, Fiction, and Germany Brent Orlyn Peterson, 2005 A study of the content development and transmission of German identity during the nineteenth century as Germany's national narrative took shape in historical fiction and in both popular and academic history The German speaking inhabitants of central Europe did not automatically think of themselves as Germans not before 1871 and not always after unification In fact they spoke mutually incomprehensible dialects owed allegiance to different leaders worshiped in different churches and would not have recognized each other's customs If asked about their identity these prospective Germans might have answered Austrian Bavarian or Prussian and they could as easily have used more local labels or resorted to occupational markers For this disparate population to think of itself as German that word had to acquire content people had to learn a whole set of stories they could tell themselves and to others in answer to the question of identity History Fiction and Germany chronicles how German nationalism developed simultaneously with the historical novel and the field of history both at universities and in middlebrow reading material The book examines Germany's emerging national narrative as nineteenth century writers adapted it to their own visions and to changing circumstances These writers found and popularized the nation's heroes and heroines demonized its villains and enemies and projected the nation's hopes and dreams for the future Author Brent O Peterson argues that it was the production and consumption of national history the writing and reading of the nation that filled Germany with Germans Although the task of national narration was never complete and never produced a single universally accepted version of German national identity tales from Germans gradually shared history did more to create Germany than any statesman general or philosopher History Fiction and Germany provides a valuable resource for scholars and students of German studies as well as anyone interested in history and the articulation of national identity
