Dinosaurs W. D. Matthew, Pal ontology deals with the History of Life Its time is measured in geologic epochs and periods in millions of years instead of centuries Man by this measure is but a creature of yesterday his forty centuries of civilization 1 but a passing episode It is by no means easy for us to adjust our perspective to the immensely long spaces of time involved in geological evolution We are apt to think of all these extinct animals merely as prehistoric to imagine them all living at the same time and contending with our cave dwelling ancestors for the mastery of the earth In order to understand the place of the Dinosaurs in world history we must first get some idea of the length of geologic periods and the immense space of time separating one extinct fauna from another The Age of Man Prehistoric time as it is commonly understood is the time when barbaric and savage tribes of men inhabited the world but before civilization began and earlier than the written records on which history is based This corresponds roughly to the Pleistocene epoch of geology it is included along with the much shorter time during which civilization has existed in the latest and shortest of the geological periods the Quaternary It was the age of the mammoth and the mastodon the megatherium and Irish deer and of other quadrupeds large and small which are now extinct but most of its animals were the same species as now exist It was marked by the great episode of the Ice Age when considerable parts of the earth's surface were buried under immense accumulations of ice remnants of which are still with us in the icy covering of Greenland and Antarctica Man Through the Ages Thomas Walter Wallbank, Alastair MacDonald Taylor, 1940 Manual of Geology, Treating of the Principles of the Science, James Dwight Dana, 1863

Manual of Geology Dana, 1863 The Age of Reptiles, 2020-05-04 Includes pictures Includes a bibliography for further reading The current view of science is that planet Earth is around 4.6 billion years old The first four billion years of its development are known as the Precambrian period For the first billion years or so there was no life in Earth Then the first single celled life forms early bacteria and algae began to emerge We don't know where they came from or even if they originated on this planet at all This gradual development continued until around four billion years ago when suddenly in geological terms more complex forms of life began to emerge Scientists call this time of an explosion of new forms of life the Paleozoic Era and it stretched from around 541 to 250 million years ago Mya First of all in the oceans and then on land new creatures and plants began to appear in bewildering variety By the end of this period life on Earth had exploded into a myriad of complex forms that filled virtually every habitat and niche available in the seas and on the planet's only continent Pangea Then a mysterious event that became known to early paleontologists as The Great Dying wiped out more than 95% of all life on Earth No one is entirely certain what caused this but the effect of this cataclysm was as if someone had pressed a great cosmic reset button and it took thirty million years for the development of life on Earth to start again The next period of Earth's history is known as the Mesozoic Era from about 252 to 66 Mya This era is further divided into three periods the Triassic Jurassic and Cretaceous During this era one type of life came to dominate the planet more completely and for a longer period than had been seen before or since this was the Age of Reptiles Beginning in the Triassic but especially in the Jurassic period reptiles came to dominate the oceans the land and even the skies There has never been anything else quite like this period in terms of the success of a particular type of creature For almost two hundred million years reptiles were the only significant creatures on Earth They were so successful and so diverse that they evolved to take advantage of every available habitat and no other type of large creature had a chance to develop To put the two hundred million years of reptile dominance in perspective the entire span of recorded Human history the time since people advanced from tribes of primitive nomadic hunter gatherers into recognizable societies covers less than six thousand years To put this in context if the entire history of the planet were to be laid out on the length of a football field the period of dominance of the age of reptiles would not begin until the five yard line and would stretch for twelve feet All of Human history would occupy a tiny strip at the end of the field less than the width of a human hair It was during the Jurassic period that reptiles began to rule the Earth and some of the best known prehistoric creatures first emerged This is the fascinating complex and occasionally baffling story of the Jurassic period The Age of Reptiles The History and Legacy of the Mesozoic Era and the Dinosaurs looks at the development of the era the extinction events that occurred and how dinosaurs began to evolve and die out Along with pictures depicting important people places and events you will learn about the Mesozoic Era like never before

Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia Guy Stanton Ford,1922 The Age of Mammals Chris Manias,2023-06-27 When people today hear paleontology they immediately think of dinosaurs But for much of the history of the discipline dramatic demonstrations of the history of life focused on the developmental history of mammals The Age of Mammals examines how nineteenth century scholars writers artists and public audiences understood the animals they regarded as being at the summit of life For them mammals were crucial for understanding the formation and possibly the future of the natural world Yet as Chris Manias reveals this combined with more troubling notions that seemingly promising creatures had been swept aside in the struggle for life or that modern biodiversity was impoverished compared to previous eras Why some prehistoric creatures such as the saber toothed cat and ground sloth had become extinct while others seemed to have been the ancestors of familiar animals like elephants and horses was a question loaded with cultural assumptions ambiguity and trepidation How humans related to deep developmental processes and whether the Age of Man was qualitatively different from the Age of Mammals led to reflections on humanity's place within the natural world With this book Manias considers the cultural resonance of mammal paleontology from an international perspective how reconstructions of the deep past of fossil mammals across the world conditioned new understandings of nature and the current environment Popular Science News ,1902
