Oriental Trade Ceramics in Southeast Asia, 10th to 16th Century John Guy, 1980 Exhibition presented by the National Gallery of Victoria in association with the Australian Gallery Directors Council with the assistance of the Visual Arts Board of the Australia Council

Oriental Trade Ceramics in South-East Asia, Ninth to Sixteenth Centuries John Guy, 1986 Glazed ceramics through their physical resilience and social relevance have become a persistent indicator of cultural contact in Southeast Asia for over a millennium of the region's history. This lavishly illustrated historical survey includes introductions to technical and stylistic aspects of the ceramic traditions of China, Vietnam and Thailand, over two hundred illustrations of stoneware and porcelain ceramics and an extensive biography.

Southeast Asia in the 9th to 14th Centuries David G. Marr, Anthony Crothers Milner, 1986 Southeast Asia has sometimes been portrayed as a static place. In the ninth to fourteenth centuries, however, the region experienced extensive trade, bitter wars, kingdoms rising and falling, ethnic groups on the move, the construction of impressive monuments and debate about profound religious issues. Readers of this volume will learn much of how people lived in Southeast Asia five hundred to one thousand years ago; the region today cannot be comprehended without reference to the seminal developments of that period.

Archaeology of East Asian Shipbuilding Jun Kimura, 2016-04-12 North American Society for Oceanic History John Lyman Book Award in Naval and Maritime Reference Works and Published Primary Sources Honorable Mention. In this innovative study, Jun Kimura integrates historical data with archaeological findings to examine a wide array of eleventh through nineteenth century ships from China, Korea and Japan. Chinese junks and Japanese sailing ships were known throughout the world, and this work illustrates why their innovative designs have survived the centuries. Kimura presents an extensive dataset of excavated coastal and oceangoing ships that traveled the Yellow Sea, the East China Sea and the South China Sea. Three detailed case studies include the Shinan and Quanzhou wrecks and the Takashima underwater site. Using travel documents, cargo manifests, iconographic paintings and other descriptive resources, as well as the archaeological evidence of hull components, wooden timbers and iron remains, Kimura sheds new light on East Asian shipbuilding traditions.

The Malay Peninsula Michel Jacq-Hergoualc'h, 2018-12-24 This book attempts to evaluate the role of the Malay Peninsula as a crossroads in the great wave of commercial relationships along the maritime Silk Road from the first centuries of the Christian era to the 14th century. Through these exchanges, representatives of all the civilizations of Asia entered into contact along its shores. They left in this place a part of themselves, as can be seen in the great stylistic diversity of the religious and commercial artefacts which have been found in the area. These artefacts have been analysed and categorized afresh in the light of more precise information provided in Chinese texts concerning the nature of the political entities developing at the time: often dynamic city states or more modest chiefdoms.

Southeast Asian Ceramics John N. Miksic, 2009 Southeast Asia is known to many as a region teeming with tourists.

destinations economic opportunities and ex colonies but a lesser known facet is its colourful and myriad cultures in which ceramics form an integral part of the social fabric Focusing primarily on the Classical Period 800 1500 CE this book views ancient Southeast Asian culture through the lens of ceramic production and trade influenced but not completely overshadowed by its powerful neighbour China In this landmark publication noted archaeologist and scholar John N Miksic constructs a vivid picture of the development of Southeast Asia s unique ceramics Along with three contributing authors Pamela M Watkins Dawn F Rooney and Michael Flecker he summarizes the fruits of their research over the last forty years beginning in Singapore with the founding of the Southeast Asian Ceramic Society in 1969 The result is a comprehensive and insightful overview of the technology aesthetics and organization both economic and political of seemingly diverse territories in pre colonial Southeast Asia It is essential reading for all those with an interest in the economic history of the region and also for anyone who seeks a better understanding of the brilliant but too often underestimated material culture of Southeast Asia
