Auditing as Independent Authentication Peter W. Wolnizer, 2006 During the 1960s and 1970s a remarkable series of books was produced by academic staff in the field of accounting at the University of Sydney It was a period when academic research was largely analytical rather than empirically based For the most part the interests of academics at Sydney were largely directed at questioning the status quo either in the way accounting or auditing was practiced or in the conventional wisdom expressed in textbooks of the time The Sydney Accounting Classics series reflects the diversity of interests of the Sydney school at that time It also recognises the tremendous impact of the foundation professor of accounting R J Chambers This reprint series ensures that the ideas developed during this period remain available to new generations of scholars and researchers The Sydney Accounting Classics series is an initiative of the Accounting Foundation in association with Sydney University Press Auditing as Independent Authentication From the cover of the 1987 edition This is a penetrating exposition of the role of auditing in controlling quality of the financial information on which any interested person may assess the performance and prospects of firms

The Marketing / Accounting Interface Robin Roslender, Richard M.S. Wilson, 2013-09-13 When marketing managers and financial managers join forces within any business the result can often be poor communication on financial criteria and goals The risk of this situation occurring is inevitably present when those with different professional backgrounds and roles are working in accordance with their own norms In his seminal 1956 paper on general systems theory the economist Kenneth Boulding referred to the phenomenon of specialised ears and generalised deafness which can be seen to exist when marketing managers are financially illiterate or when financial managers lack the necessary insights to design implement and operate accounting systems which are useful to marketing managers in carrying out their roles It is increasingly difficult to attach credence to the idea of marketing managers who lack financial skills or financial managers who fail to relate to the context in which marketing managers operate Understanding the marketing accounting interface is therefore important in generating emergent properties from the interaction of marketers and accountants whereby the whole is greater than the sum of the parts The chapters in this volume seek to address this challenge This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Marketing Management
