Commons,Stephen Grossberg,John Staddon,2016-09-19 Originally published in 1991 this title was the result of a symposium held at Harvard University It presents some of the exciting interdisciplinary developments of the time that clarify how animals and people learn to behave adaptively in a rapidly changing environment The contributors focus on aspects of how recognition learning reinforcement learning and motor learning interact to generate adaptive goal oriented behaviours that can satisfy internal needs an area of inquiry as important for understanding brain function as it is for designing new types of freely moving autonomous robots Since the authors agree that a dynamic analysis of system interactions is needed to understand these challenging phenomena and neural network models provide a natural framework for representing and analysing such interactions all the articles either develop neural network models or provide biological constraints for guiding and testing their design The Effect of Delay and of Intervening Events on Reinforcement Value Michael L.

Environmental Protection Agency, 1983 Logic of Conflict Steven Greffenius, 2019-07-12 The author's argument ties this literature to a field that is often called the logic of inquiry He criticizes an influential and deliberately analytical approach to the study of international conflict and show what can be gained by bringing more integrative or synthetic approaches to bear on problems in the field The study started as an effort to work out some problems in international relations theory and it has remained that through eight years of writing and research Still the book is more than incidentally about the Middle East and evidence from the region informs the argument made here This evidence is of two kinds traditional historical material from both primary and secondary sources and data on events that have occurred during the course of both conflictual and cooperative exchanges between the actors there The treatment focuses on the relationship between Egypt and Israel between 1967 and 1979 a period that saw their relations pass from the most intense antagonism to a reasonable degree of comity if not friendship
