Keeves, Ryo Watanabe, 2013-11-11 The aim of the Handbook is to present readily accessible but scholarly sources of information about educational research in the Asia Pacific region The scale and scope of the Handbook is such that the articles included in it provide substantive contributions to knowledge and understanding of education in the Asia region In so doing the articles present the problems and issues facing education in the region and the findings of research conducted within the region that contribute to the resolution of these problems and issues Moreover since new problems and issues are constantly arising the articles in the Handbook also indicate the likely directions of future developments The different articles within the Handbook seek to conceptualize the problems in each specific content area under review provide an integration of the research conducted within that area the theoretical basis of the research the practical implications of the research and the contribution of the research towards the resolution of the problems identified Thus the articles do not involve the reporting of newly conducted research but rather require a synthesis of the research undertaken in a particular area with reference to the research methods employed and the theoretical frameworks on which the research is based In general the articles do not advocate a single point of view but rather present alternative points of view and comment on the debate and disagreements associated with the conduct and findings of the research Furthermore it should be noted that the Handbook is not concerned with research methodology and only considers the methods employed in inquiry in so far as the particular methods of research contribute to the effective investigation of problems and issues that have arisen in the conduct and provision of education at different levels within the region More Than Guided Reading Cathy Mere, 2005 Is there too much emphasis on guided reading in primary classrooms It s a question that many educators like kindergarten teacher and literacy coach Cathy Mere are starting to ask Guided reading provides opportunities to teach students the strategies they need to learn how to read increasingly challenging texts but Cathy found that she needed to find other ways to help students gain independence While maintaining guided reading as an important piece of their reading program teachers need to offer students opportunities during the day to develop as readers to learn to choose books to find favorite genres and authors and to talk about their reading In More Than Guided Reading Cathy shares her journey as she moved from focusing on guided reading as the center of her reading program to placing children at the heart of literacy learning not only providing more time for students to discover their reading lives but also shaping instruction to meet the needs of the diverse learners in her classroom By changing the structure of the day Cathy found she was better able to adjust the support she was providing students allowing time for whole class focus lessons conferences and opportunities to share ideas as well as reading from self selected texts using the strategies skills and understandings acquired in reader s workshop The focus lesson is the centerpiece of the workshop It is often tied to a read aloud and connected to learning from the previous day helping to build skills extend thinking and develop independence over time This thoroughly practical text offers numerous sample lessons questions for conferences and ideas for revamping guided reading groups It will help teachers tweak the mix of instructional components in their reading workshops and provoke school wide conversations about the place of guided reading in a complete literacy curriculum
