Reading Chaucer in Time Kara Gaston, 2020-02-27 The monograph series Oxford Studies in Medieval Literature and Culture showcases the plurilingual and multicultural quality of medieval literature and actively seeks to promote research that not only focuses on the array of subjects medievalists now pursue in literature theology and philosophy in social political jurisprudential and intellectual history the history of art and the history of science but also that combines these subjects productively It offers innovative studies on topics that may include but are not limited to manuscript and book history languages and literatures of the global Middle Ages race and the post colonial the digital humanities media and performance music medicine the history of affect and the emotions the literature and practices of devotion the theory and history of gender and sexuality ecocriticism and the environment theories of aesthetics medievalism Reading for form can mean reading for formation Understanding processes through which a text was created can help us in characterizing its form But what is involved in bringing a diachronic process to bear upon a synchronic work When does literary formation begin and end When does form happen These questions emerge with urgency in the interactions between English poet Geoffrey Chaucer and Italian trecento authors Dante Alighieri Giovanni Boccaccio and Francis Petrarch In fourteenth century Italy new ways were emerging of configuring the relation between author and reader Previously medieval reading was often oriented around the significance of the text to the individual reader In Italy however reading was beginning to be understood as a way of getting back to a work s initial formation This book tracks how concepts of reading developed within Italian texts including Dante's Vita nova, Boccaccio's Filostrato and Teseida and Petrarch's Seniles impress themselves upon Chaucer's Troilus and Criseyde and Canterbury Tales. It argues that Chaucer's poetry reveals the implications of reading for formation above all that it both depends upon and effaces the historical perspective and temporal experience of the individual reader. Problems raised within Chaucer's poetry thus inform this book's broader methodological argument that there is no one moment at which the formation of Chaucer's poetry ends rather its form emerges in and through process of reading within time.

The Medical Times and Gazette, 1861 Lectures on the Science of Language Friedrich Max Müller, 1862 Athenaeum and Literary Chronicle, 1843 The Spectator, 1853 A weekly review of politics literature theology and art The Lancet, 1876 Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art, 1864 Richard Wright Kenneth Kinnamon, 2014-11-04 African American writer Richard Wright 1908-1960 was celebrated during the early 1940s for his searing autobiography Black Boy and fiction Native Son. By 1947 he felt so unwelcome in his homeland that he exiled himself and his family in Paris. But his writings changed American culture forever and today they are mainstays of literature and composition classes. He and his works are also the subjects of numerous critical essays and commentaries by contemporary writers. This volume presents a comprehensive annotated bibliography of those essays books and articles from 1983 through 2003. Arranged alphabetically by author within years are some 8,320 entries ranging from unpublished dissertations to book length studies of African American literature and literary criticism. Also included as an appendix are addenda to the author's earlier bibliography covering the years from 1934 through 1982. This is the exhaustive reference for serious students of Richard Wright and his critics.
