The Parliamentary Register John Stockdale, 1802 Coastal Policing in Eighteenth-Century Britain Hannes Ziegler, 2025-06-10 The first comprehensive study of Britain's coastal policing and administration across the long eighteenth century Throughout Britain's past its coast has presented security concerns Despite this long history of raids smugglers and warfare consistent designated and permanent coastal enforcement bodies were only established in England in the 1690s Initially a reaction to the threats of the Nine Years Wars their creation spoke to a new understanding of The Coast as a politically distinct and liminal space a region neither land nor sea with its own issues and social dynamics that had to be controlled through new more sophisticated methods This study explores the circumstances that both necessitated a formalised policing of coastal areas and influenced the subsequent development of these enforcement bodies showing how their missions and practices fluctuated in relation to key political events and economic policies across the century In doing so the book encompasses a long eighteenth century starting with political developments in the run up to the Glorious Revolution and ending with the overhaul of coastal bureaucracies in the wake of the Napoleonic Wars In conjunction with this larger historical sweep through extensive archival research the book reveals the failures in coastal policing arguing that these shortcomings stemmed not from the cunning of smugglers or bureaucratic inefficiency but from inherent contradictions in Britain's imperial ambitions In highlighting the complexities of this watery borderland Hannes Ziegler sheds new light on the inner workings of Britain's fiscal military enterprises and state building challenges of its evolving imperial identity

Through interlocking stories of duels highway robberies smuggling riots binge drinking and even two earthquakes Rogers
