Remaking the Rust Belt Tracy Neumann, 2016-05-26 Cities in the North Atlantic coal and steel belt embodied industrial power in the early twentieth century but by the 1970s their economic and political might had been significantly diminished by newly industrializing regions in the Global South This was not simply a North American phenomenon the precipitous decline of mature steel centers like Pittsburgh Pennsylvania and Hamilton Ontario was a bellwether for similar cities around the world Contemporary narratives of the decline of basic industry on both sides of the Atlantic make the postindustrial transformation of old manufacturing centers seem inevitable the product of natural business cycles and neutral market forces In Remaking the Rust Belt Tracy Neumann tells a different story one in which local political and business elites drawing on a limited set of internationally circulating redevelopment models pursued postindustrial urban visions They hired the same consulting firms shared ideas about urban revitalization on study tours at conferences and in the pages of professional journals and began to plan cities oriented around services rather than manufacturing all well in advance of the economic malaise of the 1970s While postindustrialism remade cities it came with high costs In following this strategy public officials sacrificed the well being of large portions of their populations Remaking the Rust Belt recounts how local leaders throughout the Rust Belt created the jobs services leisure activities and cultural institutions that they believed would attract younger educated middle class professionals In the process they abandoned social democratic goals and widened and deepened economic inequality among urban residents Urban Sustainability Ricardo García-Mira, Cristina García-Fontán, Adina Dumitru, 2024-09-22 The new challenges of our economic social and ecologic global context require solutions that go beyond business as usual strategies While Europe and North America have gone through a deep economic crisis which has affected all aspects of life especially housing and working conditions other areas of the world have continued to grow and develop The changing global context has important implications on the ways human beings organize their settings for everyday life their residential environments and communal services in particular and on the necessity for supporting transitions to sustainable societies Table of Contents 1 Urban Sustainability Innovative Spaces Vulnerabilities and Opportunities Ricardo Garc a Mira and Adina Dumitru 2 The Education of the Architect in the XXI Century Psychosocial New Findings and Environmental Sustainability Challenges Magda Saura Josep Munta ola and Sergi M ndez 3 A Study on the Modernization and Sustainability of Traditional Hanok Seungkwang Shon 4 Towards Human Sustainable Urbanism Interrogating the Contemporary

Postindustrial DIY Daniel Campo, 2024-02-13 Chronicles grassroots efforts to recover rebuild and enjoy architecturally iconic but economically obsolete places in the American Rust Belt A pioneering Detroit automobile factory A legendary iron mill at the edge of Pittsburgh A campus of concrete grain elevators in Buffalo Two monumental train stations one in Buffalo the other in Detroit These once noble sites have since fallen from their towering grace As local elected leaders did everything they could to destroy what was left of these places citizens saw beauty and utility in these industrial ruins and felt compelled to act Postindustrial DIY tells their stories The culmination of more than a dozen years of on the ground investigation ethnography and historical analysis author and urbanist Daniel Campo immerses the reader in this postindustrial landscape weaving the perspectives of dozens of DIY protagonists as well as architects planners and preservationists Working without capital expertise and sometimes permission in a milieu dominated by powerful political and economic interests these do it yourself actors are driven by passion and a sense of civic duty rather than by profit or political expediency They have craftily remade these sites into collective preservation projects and democratic grounds for arts and culture environmental engagement regional celebrations itinerant play and in the moment constructions Their projects are generating excitement about the prospect of Rust Belt life even as they often remain invisible to the uninformed passerby and fall short of professional preservation or environmental reclamation standards Demonstrating that there is no such thing as a site that is too far gone to save or reuse Postindustrial DIY is rich with case studies that demonstrate how great architecture is not simply for the elites or the wealthy The citizen preservationists and urbanists described in this book offer looser more playful and often more publicly satisfying alternatives to the development practices that have transformed iconic sites into expensive real estate or a clean slate for the next profitable endeavor Transcending the disciplinary boundaries of architecture historic preservation city planning and landscape architecture Postindustrial DIY suggests new ways to engage adapt and preserve architecturally compelling sites and bottom up strategies for Rust Belt revival

Competition, Competitive Advantage, and Clusters Robert Huggins, Hiro Izushi, 2012-09-20 Harvard professor Michael Porter has been one of the most influential figures in strategic management research over the last three decades He infused a rigorous theoretical framework of industrial organization economics with the then still embryonic field of strategic management and elevated it to its current status as an academic discipline Porter's outstanding career is also characterized by its cross disciplinary nature Following his most important work on strategic management he then made a leap to the policy side and dealt with a completely different set of analytical units More recently he has made a foray into inner city development environmental regulations and health care services Throughout these explorations Porter has maintained his integrative approach seeking a road that links management case studies and the general model building of mainstream economics With expert contributors from a range of disciplines including strategic management economic development economic geography and planning this book assesses the contribution Michael Porter has made to these respective disciplines It clarifies the sources of tension and controversy relating to all the major strands of Porter's work and provides academics students and practitioners with a critical guide for the application of Porter's models The book highlights that while many of the criticisms of Porter's ideas are valid they are almost an inevitable outcome for a scholar who has sought to build bridges across wide disciplinary valleys His work has provided others with a set of frameworks to explore in more depth the nature of competition competitive advantage and clusters from a range of vantage points

Murray, 2022-02-15 Winner 2023 Choice Outstanding Academic Title Now for the first time in history the majority of the world's population lives in cities But urbanization is accelerating in some places and slowing down in others The sprawling megacities of Asia and Africa as well as many other smaller and medium sized cities throughout the Global South are expected to continue growing At the same time older industrial cities in wealthier countries are experiencing protracted socioeconomic decline Nonetheless mainstream urban studies continues to treat a handful of superstar cities in Europe and North America as the exemplars of world urbanism even though current global growth and development represent a dramatic break with past patterns Martin J. Murray offers a groundbreaking guide to the multiplicity heterogeneity and complexity of contemporary global urbanism He identifies and traces four distinct pathways that characterize cities today tourist entertainment cities with world class aspirations struggling postindustrial cities megacities experiencing hypergrowth and instant cities or master planned cities built from scratch Murray shows how these different types of cities respond to different pressures and logics rather than progressing through the stages of a predetermined linear path He highlights new spatial patterns of urbanization that have undermined conventional understandings of the city exploring the emergence of polycentric fragmented haphazard and unbounded metropolises Such cities he argues should not be seen as deviations from a norm but rather as alternatives within a constellation of urban possibility Innovative and wide ranging Many Urbanisms offers ways to understand the disparate forms of global cities today on their own terms

Revitalizing American Cities Susan M. Wachter, Kimberly A. Zeuli, 2014 Revitalizing American Cities explores the historical regional and political factors that have allowed some small industrial cities to regain their footing in a changing economy and considers strategies cities can use for successful rebuilding

Old Industrial Cities Seeking New Road of Industrialization Mark Wang, 2014 In the context of market economy and competition from rapidly growing coastal areas Northeast China became the burden to China s overall economic development With a high concentration of state owned heavy industries cities in this region suffered from heavy losses in revenue and massive layoffs of millions of former state owned enterprise workers known as the Northeast Phenomenon or Neo Northeast Phenomenon The once towering economic giant was down Such a phenomenon is not uncommon in other rust belt regions in industrialized economies However since the implementation of the Chinese Government s Revitalisation Strategy of Northeast China in 2003 cities in Northeast China have gone through various transformations

Growth, Decline, and Regeneration in Large Cities Steven G. Koven, Andrea C. Koven, 2018-04-09 Growth Decline and Regeneration in Large Cities sheds light on why some cities prosper others implode and still others are able to reverse their downward trajectories The book focuses on four major case studies of American metropolitan areas Detroit Boston Minneapolis and Austin It explores how distinctive political and cultural forces in these cities affected economic growth or decline Theoretical frameworks to explain economic development in urban areas are identified The book addresses important subjects such as response to deindustrialization disruption caused by gentrification globalization and the importance of human capital for economic development

Vulnerable Communities James J. Connolly, Dagny G. Faulk, Emily J. Wornell, 2022-02-15 Vulnerable Communities examines the struggles of smaller cities in the United States those with populations between 20 000 and 200 000 Like many larger metropolitan centers these places are confronting change within a globalized economic and cultural order Many of them have lost their identities as industrial or commercial centers and face a complex and distinctive mix of economic social and civic challenges Small cities have not only fewer resources but different strengths and weaknesses all of which differentiate their experiences from those of larger communities Vulnerable Communities draws together scholars from a broad range of disciplines to consider the present condition and future prospects of smaller American cities Contributors offer a mix of ground level analyses and examinations of broader developments that have impacted economically weakened communities and provide concrete ideas for local leaders engaged in redevelopment work The essays remind policy makers and academics alike that it is necessary to consider cultural tensions and place specific conflicts that can derail even the most well crafted redevelopment strategies prescribed for these communities

Regional Economic Change in Europe Gert-Jan Hospers, 2004 In this era of ongoing globalization a coherent vision on Europe's changing geo economy is more important than ever before Drawing on the work of Schumpeter Fourastié and Perroux the book at hand offers a new and policy oriented perspective on regional economic change in Europe Conceptually it develops a middle range theory by extending Schumpeter's vision with a sectoral and spatial dimension This neo Schumpeterian framework is concretized by exploring fifty years of structural change in Sardinia the Ruhrgebiet and the resund
