Ritual and Domestic Life in Prehistoric Europe Richard Bradley, 2012-10-12 This fascinating study explores how our prehistoric ancestors developed rituals from everyday life and domestic activities Richard Bradley contends that for much of the prehistoric period ritual was not a distinct sphere of activity Rather it was the way in which different features of the domestic world were played out until they took on qualities of theatrical performance With extensive illustrated case studies this book examines farming craft production and the occupation of houses all of which were ritualized in prehistoric Europe Successive chapters discuss the ways in which ritual has been studied drawing on a series of examples that range from Greece to Norway and from Romania to Portugal They consider practices that extend from the Mesolithic period to the Early Middle Ages and discuss the ways in which ritual and domestic life were intertwined The Prehistory of Britain and Ireland Richard Bradley, 2007-03-05 Sited at the furthest limits of the Neolithic revolution and standing at the confluence of the two great sea routes of prehistory Britain and Ireland are distinct from continental Europe for much of the prehistoric sequence In this landmark 2007 study the first significant survey of the archaeology of Britain and Ireland for twenty years Richard Bradley offers an interpretation of the unique archaeological record of these islands based on a wealth of current and largely unpublished data Bradley surveys the entire archaeological sequence over a 4 000 year period from the adoption of agriculture in the Neolithic period to the discovery of Britain and Ireland by travellers from the Mediterranean during the later pre Roman Iron Age Significantly this is the first modern account to treat Britain and Ireland on equal terms offering a detailed interpretation of the prehistory of both islands The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology of Ritual and Religion Timothy Insoll, 2011-10-27 A comprehensive overview by period and region of the archaeology of ritual and religion The coverage is global and extends from the earliest prehistory to modern times Written by over sixty renowned specialists the Handbook presents the very best in current scholarship and will also stimulate further research Ritual Landscapes and Borders within Rock Art Research Heidrun Steberg-løkken, Ragnhild Berge, Eva Lindgaard, 2015-10-31 Ritual landscapes and borders are recurring themes running through Professor Kalle Sognnes long research career This anthology contains 13 articles written by colleagues from his broad network in appreciation of his many contributions to the field of rock art research When We Are Human John Zerzan, 2021-07-13 These are dark and darkening times challenging us to look deeper to grasp the roots and dynamics of the looming civilizational crisis Chronic illness of the planet calls for radically new thinking if there is to be any hope of renewal When We Are Human offers thought at a necessary and primal level All previous civilizations have failed and now there s just one global civilization which is starkly grandly failing To deny or avoid this fact is to remain in the sphere of the superficial the irrelevant The physical environment is reaching the catastrophe stage as the seas warm rise acidify and fill with plastics Icebergs ahead and floating past beachgoers idly watching the planet die So much is failing so much is interrelated in the technosphere of ever greater dependence and estrangement Social existence now strangely isolated is beset by mass shootings rising suicide rates slipping longevity loneliness anxiety and the maddening stream of lies and concocted politics Zerzan trains his passionate focus on several fields of discourse anthropology history philosophy technology psychology and the spiritual Points of light that become a kaleidoscope refracting new insights and contributing an overall picture of late civilization An Archaeological History of Indian Buddhism Lars Fogelin, 2015 Examines Indian Buddhism from its origins in c 500 BCE through its ascendance in the first millennium CE and subsequent decline in mainland South Asia by c 1400 CE Provided by publisher The Routledge Handbook of the Bioarchaeology of Human Conflict Christopher Knüsel, Martin Smith, 2013-12-17 If human burials were our only window onto the past what story would they tell Skeletal injuries constitute the most direct and unambiguous evidence for violence in the past Whereas weapons or defenses may simply be statements of prestige or status and written sources are characteristically biased and incomplete human remains offer clear and unequivocal evidence of physical aggression reaching as far back as we have burials to examine Warfare is often described as senseless and as having no place in society Consequently its place in social relations and societal change remains obscure The studies in The Routledge Handbook of the Bioarchaeology of Human Conflict present an overview of the nature and development of human conflict from prehistory to recent times as evidenced by the remains of past people themselves in order to explore the social contexts in which such injuries were inflicted A broadly chronological approach is taken from prehistory through to recent conflicts however this book is not simply a catalogue of injuries illustrating weapon development or a narrative detailing progress in warfare but rather provides a framework in which to explore both continuity and change based on a range of important themes which hold continuing relevance throughout human development Down the Bright Stream: The Prehistory of Woodcock Corner and the Tregurra Valley, Cornwall Sean R. Taylor, 2022-06-23 This volume reports on a series of fieldwork projects carried out in the Tregurra Valley to the east of Truro Cornwall between 2009 2015 The fieldwork led to the identification of a large number of pits and hearths across the site the majority of which that have proved dateable spanning the Early Neolithic to the end of the Early Bronze Age Early states, territories and settlements in protohistoric Central Italy Peter Attema, Jorn Seubers, Sarah Willemsen, 2016-04-30 This volume is the second of the series Corollaria Crustumina aimed at the publication of conference proceedings doctoral theses and specialist studies concerning the Latin settlement of Crustumium Rome and Italian protohistory It contains multidisciplinary papers of an international group of archaeologists discussing new fieldwork data and theories of broad relevance to Italian archaeology and with specific relevance to the study of Crustumium s settlement cemeteries and material culture in light of the site s cultural identity In the Darkest of Days Matthew J. Walsh, Sean O'Neill, Lasse Sørensen, 2024-02-29 This book collects recent works on the subjects of sacrificial offerings ritualized violence and the relative values thereof in the contexts of Scandinavian prehistory from the Neolithic to the Viking era The volume builds on a workshop hosted at the National Museum of Denmark in 2018 which inaugurated the beginning of the research project Human Sacrifice and Value The limits of sacred violence and was supported by the Museum of Cultural History at the University of Oslo The volume brings together research and perspectives that attempt to go beyond the who what and where of most archaeological and anthropological investigations of sacrificial violence to address both the underlying and explicit forms of value associated with such events The volume re opens investigations into notions of value relating to diverse evidence and suggested evidence for human sacrifice and related ritualized violence It covers a broad spectrum of issues relating to novel interpretations of the existing archaeological materials but with a focus on the study of value and value dynamics in these diverse ritual contexts engaging in questions of identity cosmology economics and social relations Cases span from the Scandinavian Late Neolithic and Nordic Bronze Age through to the well known wetland deposits and bog bodies of the Iron Age to Viking era executions deviant burials and contemporaneous double multiple graves exploring the implications for the transformation of sacrificial practices across Scandinavian prehistory Each contribution attempts to untangle the myriad forms of value at play in different incarnations of human offerings and provide insights into how those values were expressed e g in the selection and treatment of victims in relation to their status personhood identity and life history

Broken Bodies, Places and Objects Anna Sörman, Astrid A. Noterman, Markus Fjellström, 2023-11-29 Broken Bodies Places and Objects demonstrates the breadth of fragmentation and fragment use in prehistory and history and provides an up to date insight into current archaeological thinking around the topic A seal broken and shared by two trade parties dog jaws accompanying the dead in Mesolithic burials fragments of ancient warships commodified as souvenirs parts of an ancient dynastic throne split up between different colonial collections Pieces of the past are everywhere around us Fragments have a special potential precisely because of their incomplete format as a new matter that can reference its original whole but can also live on with new unrelated meanings Deliberate breakage of bodies places and objects for the use of fragments has been attested from all time periods in the past It has now been over 20 years since John Chapman s major publication introducing fragmentation studies and the topic is more present than ever in archaeology This volume offers the first European wide review of the concept of fragmentation collecting case studies from the Neolithic to Modernity and extending the ideas of fragmentation theory in new directions The book is written for scholars and students in archaeology but it is also relevant for neighbouring fields with an interest in material culture such as anthropology history cultural heritage studies museology art and architecture The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license

The Bioarchaeology of Ritual and Religion Alexandra Livarda, Richard Madgwick, Santiago Riera Mora, 2017-12-21 The Bioarchaeology of Ritual and Religion is the first volume dedicated to exploring ritual and religious practice in past societies from a variety of environmental remains Building on recent debates surrounding for instance performance materiality and the false dichotomy between ritualistic and secular behavior this book investigates notions of ritual and religion through the lens of perishable material culture Research centering on bioarchaeological evidence and drawing on methods from archaeological science has traditionally focused on functional questions surrounding environment and economy However recent years have seen an increased recognition of the under exploited potential for scientific data to provide detailed information relating to ritual and religious practice This volume explores the diverse roles of plant animal and other organic remains in ritual and religion as foods offerings sensory or healing mediums grave goods and worked artifacts It also provides insights into how archaeological science can shed light on the reconstruction of ritual processes and the framing of rituals The 14 papers showcase current and new approaches in the investigation of bioarchaeological evidence for elucidating complex social issues and worldviews The case studies are intentionally broad encompassing a range of sub disciplines of bioarchaeology including archaeobotany anthracology palynology micromorphology geoarchaeology zooarchaeology including avian and worked bone studies archaeomalacology and organic residue analysis The temporal and geographical coverage is equally wide extending across Europe from the Mediterranean and Aegean to the Baltic and North Atlantic regions and from the Mesolithic to the medieval period The volume also includes a discursive paper by Prof Brian Hayden who suggests a different interpretative framework of archaeological contexts and rituals

Ceci N'est Pas Une Hache Karsten Wentink, 2006 As early as the 19th century discoveries of groups of large axes puzzled those confronted with them The fact that most were found in waterlogged places increased the speculation as to the nature of the deposits This thesis is concerned with the character and significance of TRB flint axe depositions The first part is mainly concerned with the question of selective deposition and how it was structured By means of metrical spatial and functional analysis patterns are explored that can shed light on the actions performed by people in the past The second part deals with the meaning and significance of TRB flint axe depositions Why did people in the past do the things they did how were these actions meaningful and important Using sociological theory and ethnographic evidence an interpretation is presented based on the empirically observed patterns

Neolithic Britain Keith Ray, Julian Thomas, 2018-06-05 The Neolithic in Britain was a period of fundamental change human communities were transformed collectively owning domesticated plants and animals and inhabiting a richer world of material things timber houses and halls pottery vessels polished flint and stone axes and massive monuments of earth and stone Equally important was the development of a suite of new social practices with an emphasis on descent continuity and inheritance These innovations set in train social processes that culminated with the construction of Stonehenge the most remarkable surviving structure from prehistoric Europe Neolithic Britain provides an up to date concise introduction to the period of British prehistory from c 4000 2200 BCE Written on the basis of a new appreciation of the chronology of the period the result reflects both on the way that archaeologists write narratives of the Neolithic and how Neolithic people constructed histories of their own Incorporating new insights from the extraordinary pace of archaeological discoveries in recent years a world emerges which is unfamiliar complex and challenging and yet played a decisive role in forging the landscape of contemporary Britain Important recent developments have resulted in a dual realisation firstly highly focused research into individual site chronologies can indicate precise and particular time narratives and secondly this new awareness of time implies original insights about the fabric of Neolithic society embracing matters of inheritance kinship and social ties and the descent of cultural practices Moreover our understanding of Neolithic society has been radically affected by individual discoveries and investigative projects whether in the Stonehenge area on mainland Orkney or in less well known localities across the British Isles The new perspective provided in this volume stems from a greater awareness of the ways in which unfolding events and transformations in societies depend upon the changing relations between individuals and groups mediated by objects and architecture This concise panorama into Neolithic Britain offers new conclusions and an academically stimulating but accessible overview It covers key material and social developments and reflects on the nature of cultural practices tradition genealogy and society across nearly two millennia

The Routledge Handbook of Gender Archaeology Marianne Moen, Unn Pedersen, 2024-12-02 This volume presents a comprehensive overview of gender archaeology both theory and practice and contributes a substantial and definitive reference work by bringing together state of the art research theoretical overviews and the latest debates in the field Responding to the shifts in the theoretical landscape and the societal and political frameworks within which we produce our knowledge chapters create both a solid theoretical baseline which help readers grasp the significance of gender in archaeology as well as offer perspectives on how to engender produced knowledge about the past In line with recent focus on the shortcomings of gender and archaeological representation chapters also detangle academic discourse and popular representations in order to present novel ways of successfully negotiating the pitfalls of gendered ideas about past behaviours By encouraging novel ways of integrating theoretical perspectives with scrutiny of gender stereotypes original empirical examinations of identity markers and behaviours and re examinations of static representations of identities through new lenses such as intersectional perspectives personhood and materiality debates the volume is theoretically rich and will simultaneously provide a necessary benchmark for future archaeological discourses Finally it will incorporate perspectives from researchers with diverse backgrounds and viewpoints to provide a truly comprehensive overview It will not shy away from engaging with politically contentious issues surrounding knowledge production but will include perspectives from researchers whose focus is less on feminist critiques and more on gender and identities Thus the volume bridges the two most prominent directions currently discernible within the focus area namely feminist re examinations on the one hand and research focused more on bodily practice and gendered experiences on the other The Routledge Handbook of Gender Archaeology is an invaluable resource for students and researchers in gender archaeology as well as gender studies more widely

Continental Connections Hugo Anderson-Whymark, Duncan Garrow, Fraser Sturt, 2015-02-26 The prehistories of Britain and Ireland are inescapably entwined with continental European narratives The central aim here is to explore cross channel relationships throughout later prehistory investigating the archaeological links material social cultural between the areas we now call Britain and Ireland and continental Europe from the Mesolithic through to the end of the Iron Age Since the separation from the European mainland of Ireland c 16 000 BC and Britain c 6000 BC their island nature has been seen as central to many aspects of life within them helping to define their senses of identity and forming a crucial part of their neighbourly relationship with continental Europe and with each other However it is important to remember that the surrounding seaways have often served to connect as well as to separate these islands from the continent In approaching the subject of continental connections in the long term and by bringing a variety of different archaeological perspectives associated with different periods to bear on it this volume provides a new a new synthesis of the ebbs and flows of the cross channel relationship over the course of 15 000 years of later prehistory enabling fresh understandings and new insights to emerge about the intimately linked trajectories of change in both regions

The Emergent Past Chris Fowler, 2013-10-24 The Emergent Past approaches archaeological research as an engagement within an assemblage a particular configuration of materials things places humans animals plants techniques technologies forces and ideas Fowler develops a new interpretative method for that engagement exploring how archaeological research can and does reconfigure each assemblage Recognising the successive relationships that give rise to and reshaped assemblages over time he proposes a relational realist understanding of archaeological evidence based on a reading of relational and non representational theories such as those presented by Karen Barad Tim Ingold and Bruno Latour The volume explores this new approach through the first ever synthesis of Chalcolithic and Early Bronze Age mortuary practices in Northeast England c 2500 1500 BC taking into account how different concepts and practices have changed the assemblage of Early Bronze Age mortuary practices in the past 200 years Fowler argues that it is vital to retain the most valuable archaeological tools such as typology while developing an approach that focuses on the contingent specific and historical emergence of past phenomena His study moves from analyses of changing types of mortuary practices and associated things and places to a vivid discussion of how past relationships unfolded over time and gave rise to specific patterns in the material remains we have today

Landscapes Revealed Amanda Brend,Nick Card,Jane Downes,Mark Edmonds,James Moore,2020-09-30 Winner Current Archaeology 2023 Book of the Year 2023 This volume brings together several years of work devoted to the wider landscape of the Heart of Neolithic Orkney World Heritage Site It documents the results of a program of geophysical and related survey across an area of c 285 hectares between Skara Brae on the west Orkney coast and Maeshowe by the Loch of Stenness The project has made it possible to talk for the first time about the landscape context of some of the most remarkable and renowned prehistoric monuments in Western Europe The aims are to synthesize the data from different forms of survey and to document the changing character and development of this landscape over time The results are genuinely remarkable are presented in a manner which makes the material of interest and value to a relatively wide readership with an array of images which fully document and interpret the evidence Survey work at a landscape scale tends to deal with palimpsests Here descriptive sections are set within a thematic structure designed to explore the changing use and significance of different areas over time The results shed important new light on the character and extent of known prehistoric sites and ceremonial monuments But they also document the afterlives of these and other places and their relation to the lived landscapes of the historic and more recent past In tracing the changing configuration of the World Heritage Area we can begin appreciate this landscape as an artifact of several millennia of dwelling working land attending to wider worlds and to the past itself
