Proceedings of the 2022 6th International Seminar on Education, Management and Social Sciences (ISEMSS 2022) Ghaffar Ali, Mehmet Cüneyt Birkök, Intakhab Alam Khan, 2023-09-16 This is an open access book. The aim of the 2022 6th International Seminar on Education Management and Social Sciences ISEMSS 2022 is to bring together innovative academics and industrial experts in the field of Education Management and Social Sciences to a common forum. The primary goal of the conference is to promote research and developmental activities in Education Management and Social Sciences, and another goal is to promote scientific information interchange between researchers, developers, students, and practitioners working all around the world. The conference will be held every year to make it an ideal platform for people to share views and experiences in Education Management and Social Sciences and related areas.

The Investigative Enterprise William Coleman, Frederic L. Holmes, 2024-03-29 The seven distinguished contributors to this volume illuminate not only the history of the biological and medical sciences but also the relationship between institutes and ideas which characterized the explosion of scientific investigation, especially in Germany. Besides William Coleman and Frederic L. Holmes, they include Robert G. Frank Jr., Timothy Lenoir, John E. Lesch, Kathryn M. Olesko, and Arlene M. Tuchman. Scientific investigation was not new to the nineteenth century, but it was during that period that it began to be carried out on a scale large enough to become crucial to the welfare of nations. Much remains to be learned about how the forms of organization characteristic of the modern investigative enterprise originated. This book explores such questions in relation to one of the dominant experimental sciences of the century, physiology. Each author shows, through the examination of a specific institute or a specific subject, that the interplay between research, pedagogy, personal vision, and state or public interests can be studied to particular advantage in localized settings. This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program, which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice, reach, and impact. Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893, Voices Revived makes high-quality, peer-reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print-on-demand technology. This title was originally published in 1988.

Systems of Employee Representation at the Enterprise Roger Blanpain,2012-08-01 Amid the trend towards decentralized industrial relations various new and modified systems of employee representation are taking hold in many countries worldwide In this highly informative examination of this field of international labour law originally presented as a series of papers for the 11th JILPT Comparative Labor Law Seminar held in Tokyo in February 2012 twelve distinguished scholars from Australia China France Germany Japan Korea Sweden Taiwan the United Kingdom and the United States describe their countries current perspectives on this issue along with their own analysis and commentary Among the specific questions addressed for each jurisdiction are the following What is the legal framework for an employee representation system How is the representative body formed and what are its declared powers Are there legal mechanisms preventing intervention by the employer Are non standard employees involved What methods of deliberation and decision making are used How are the activities of representatives protected Who bears the costs What is the relationship with collective bargaining With labour unions Each contributor also describes typical ways in which the employee representative system works offering concrete examples such as dismissal wage determination and equal treatment Some deal with situations in which employee representation is in fact nonexistent or malfunctioning in real workplaces There is also pervasive attention paid to the fundamental matter of what representation is for and the probable future direction of employee representation Given the need to secure representation for non union and non standard employees at the workplace these reports on the conditions and new developments in this important field provide ample basis on which to build a better system of employee representation in this era of diversified workforces in the globalized market Accordingly this book will prove of inestimable value to practitioners and policymakers in labour and employment law anywhere in the world
