examination based on a solid archival foundation of the nationalities policies in tsarist Russia s northwestern borderlands of Lithuania and Belarus Making Russians explores the various strategies of Russification that the imperial government pursued largely unsuccessfully in this region The book is essential reading for all students of imperial Russia It has applications for the present as well when issues of national identity continue to engage the citizens of both Russia and the states of the Former Soviet Union John Klier University College London Five Things Theologians Wish Biblical Scholars Knew

Hans Boersma,2021-09-07 The relationship between theology and biblical studies is often marked by misunderstandings methodological differences and cross discipline tension With an irenic spirit as well as honesty about differences that remain theologian Hans Boersma highlights five things he wishes biblical scholars knew about theology so that these disciplines might once again serve the church hand in hand Of Religion and Empire Robert Geraci,Michael

Khodarkovsky,2018-08-06 Russia s ever expanding imperial boundaries encompassed diverse peoples and religions Yet Russian Orthodoxy remained inseparable from the identity of the Russian empire state which at different times launched conversion campaigns not only to save the souls of animists and bring deviant Orthodox groups into the mainstream but also to convert the empire s numerous Muslims Buddhists Jews Catholics and Uniates This book is the first to investigate the role of religious conversion in the long history of Russian state building How successful were the Church and the state in proselytizing among religious minorities How were the concepts of Orthodoxy and Russian nationality shaped by the religious diversity of the empire What was the impact of Orthodox missionary efforts on the non Russian peoples and how did these peoples react to religious pressure In chapters that explore these and other questions this book provides geographical coverage from Poland and European Russia to the Caucasus Central Asia Siberia and Alaska The editors introduction and conclusion place the twelve original essays in broad historical context and suggest patterns in Russian attitudes toward religion that range from attempts to forge a homogeneous identity to tolerance of complexity and diversity A/AS Level

The Return of Ethics and Spirituality in Global Development

Masaeli,Rico Sneller,2020-06-02 The theory of modernization basically reduces the meaning of development to economic growth often measured by Growth Domestic Product of the country or overall purchase power parity of the nation This approach ignores the variety of perspectives on development hence excludes the role of culture identity and spirituality as social determinants of good development More importantly modernization theory which informs the mainstream view on development ignores the structural causes of underdevelopment including colonial heritage or the current unbridled capitalism in many societies Against reductionist views of development fundamental questions are raised about the theory and programming of development From what perspective is the conception of development perceived Who should decide and depict development goals What kind of development could result in desirable changes Is it morally desirable to dictate an exclusively Western understanding of development to others Is there any link between development and a right of nations to self determination Who is morally accountable for global inequality or bad development The novelty of this book lies in its multidisciplinary approach in exploring the role of ethics and spirituality as the curing alternates for the gamut of ills which originate in global inequality All authors are academics based in a variety of countries and specialize in questions concerning development and spirituality
