is a locus at which the prospects of prosperity and individual and collective well being can be increased However when prosperity is restricted to some groups when it is used to pursue specific interests or when it is a justification for financial gains for the few to the detriment of the majority the city becomes the arena where the right to shared prosperity is claimed and fought for As people in the latter part of 2011 gathered in Cairo s Tahrir Square in Madrid s Puerta del Sol in front of London s St Paul s cathedral or in New York s Zuccotti Park they were not only demanding more equality and inclusion they were also expressing the need for prosperity to be shared across all segments of society What this new edition of State of the World s Cities shows is that prosperity for all has been compromised by a narrow focus on economic growth UN Habitat suggests a fresh approach to prosperity beyond the solely economic emphasis including other vital dimensions such as quality of life adequate infrastructures equity and environmental sustainability The Report proposes a new tool the City Prosperity Index together with a conceptual matrix the Wheel of Prosperity both of which are meant to assist decision makers to design clear policy interventions The Report advocates for the need of cities to enhance the public realm expand public goods and consolidate rights to the commons for all as a way to expand prosperity This comes in response to the observed trend of enclosing or restricting these goods and commons in enclaves of prosperity or depleting them through unsustainable use The Report maps out major policy steps to promote a new type of city the city of the twenty first century that is a good people centred city One that is capable of integrating the tangible and more intangible aspects of prosperity and in the process shedding off the inefficient unsustainable forms and functionalities of the city of the previous century By doing this UN Habitat plays a pivotal role in ensuring that urban planning legal regulatory and institutional frameworks become instruments of prosperity and well being

Happy City - How to Plan and Create the Best

Livable Area for the People Anna Brdulak, Halina Brdulak, 2017-03-04 This book presents multi sector practical cases based on the author's own research. It also includes the best practice which could serve as a benchmark for the creation of smart cities. The global urbanisation index i.e. the ratio of city dwellers to the total population has been steadily increasing in recent years. It is highest in the Americas followed by Europe, Asia and Africa. The city of the future will combine the intelligent use of IT systems with the potential of institutions, companies and committed creative inhabitants. The administrative boundaries of today's cities put certain constraints on their further growth but in the future these boundaries will no longer be as relevant. Cities in Europe face the challenge of reconciling sustainable urban development and competitiveness a challenge that will likely influence issues of urban quality such as the economy, culture, social and environmental conditions changing a given city's profile as well as urban quality in terms of its composition and characteristics. Urban Agriculture for Improving the Quality of Life Dona Pickard, 2022-05-03 This book presents the findings of a multidisciplinary study on the effects of urban agriculture (UA) on the social, economic and environmental aspects of the quality of life in Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria. The analyses are based on a sociological survey representative of 3 districts of Sofia among 750 people in depth interviews, focus groups, expert statements, ecological monitoring of UA sites and spatial mapping of natural resources for UA. It also focuses on UA effects on the social well-being of citizens and communities, the correlation between social capital and UA attitudes, the challenges for UA to integrate disadvantaged social groups, the factors for success of small UA businesses as well as the role of policy and civil society in developing UA. This work is also important for the analysis of the underlying links between all aspects of urban agriculture, many of which are valid beyond the local socio-economic context and environmental specifics of the city of Sofia. Multidimensional Approach to Quality of Life Issues Braj Raj Kumar Sinha, 2019-08-27

Quality of Life IV Survey (2015/16): City Benchmarking Report Christina Culwick, 2018-09-25 South Africa's post apartheid government has been successful in raising the standard of living for millions of people. It has provided them with access to housing and basic services, improved health and education, and developed social services and urban amenities where none existed before. However, there remain many thorny development challenges that government is at least at present poorly equipped to address. Consequently, there remains deep dissatisfaction among many residents which at various times and in certain contexts has led to widespread community protests. This report stems from the premise that data and analysis thereof are critical for local and provincial governments in Gauteng to understand where progress has been made and where intervention is required. The City Benchmarking Report presents some key findings from the Quality of Life IV 2015/16 survey at the municipal and provincial levels. The results provide insight into a range of objective indicators such as access to basic services, travel patterns, and economic activity, as well as respondents' subjective opinions, perceptions, and levels of satisfaction. This combination allows us to gain a multi-dimensional understanding of quality of life in the province, as well as some of the drivers that improve or worsen it. While there are many aspects of quality of life measured by the survey, this report focuses on specific issues related to municipal service access, satisfaction with services received, satisfaction with the municipality providing those services, and the relationship between access, satisfaction, and overall quality of life. Although this report allows government residents and stakeholders to compare municipalities with one another, its benchmarking analysis should not be read as a competitive scoring of cities, which in turn becomes a basis for municipalities to market themselves as having the highest quality of life or to vie with one another over who has the best performance. Some municipalities do better on some variables but worse on others. The point of this report is to help each municipality understand its own strengths and weaknesses in relation to others and to the broader Gauteng context.

A composite index of quality of life for the Gauteng city-region: a principal component analysis approach Talita Greyling, The improvement of the quality of life of all South Africans is high on the agenda at national, The National Planning Commission 2012, and regional levels of government. The Gauteng Planning Commission 2012, and it is therefore important to develop an instrument that can measure this multi-dimensional concept. The need therefore exists for a composite index of quality of life with the ability to both track the quality of life of people over time and compare it across different demographic and socio-economic groups. Such a measure could identify those demographic and socio-economic groups with low levels of quality of life and also highlight dimensions that need to be prioritised in order to improve the wellbeing of people. In South Africa, there are a limited number of quality of life indices and measures of wellbeing. Indices that measure wellbeing nationally include the Quality of Life Index of Moller and Schlemmer 1983, the Living Standard Measure LSM Index produced by the South African Audience Research Foundation SAARF 2013, the South African Development Index of the South African Institute of Race Relations 2011, and the

Everyday Quality of Life Index Higgs 2007 The following indices measure wellbeing at a regional level the Quality of Metropolitan City Life in South Africa Index Naude et al 2009 the Non Economic Quality of Life Index at Sub National Levels Rossouw Naude 2008 and the Quality of Life Index of the Gauteng City Region Observatory GCRO 2011 Although these quality of life indices make distinctive contributions to the study field the focus of these studies is often to measure only objective or subjective quality of life or only economic or non economic quality of life rather than all of the above Furthermore many of the indices use equal weighting which does not necessarily reflect the priorities of the communities

OECD Urban Studies Cities in the World A New Perspective on Urbanisation OECD, European Commission, 2020-06-16 Cities are not only home to around half of the global population but also major centers of economic activity and innovation Yet so far there has been no consensus of what a city really is Substantial differences in the way cities metropolitan urban and rural areas are defined across countries hinder robust international comparisons and an accurate monitoring of SDGs The report Cities in the World A New Perspective on Urbanisation addresses this void and provides new insights on urbanisation by applying for the first time two new definitions of human settlements to the entire globe the Degree of Urbanisation and the Functional Urban Area Quality of Life and Living Standards Analysis Sergey Artemyevich Aivazian, 2016-01-15 This book is about the concept of Quality of Life What is necessary for quality of life and how can it be measured The approach is a multicriterial scheme reduction which prevents as much information loss as possible when shifting from the set of partial criteria to their convolution This book is written for researchers analysts and graduate and postgraduate students of mathematics and economics
