The Economic Institutions of Higher Education J. Patrick Raines,Charles G. Leathers,2003-01-01 Working within the context of the evolutionary institutional transformation of higher education the authors trace the development of an economic model by which the behavioral tendencies of modern universities can be evaluated That model is expanded to provide insights to the following questions Why do universities compete and how do they develop and implement their competitive strategies How do universities make critical institutional decisions about operational missions academic policies and internal resource allocation Do universities efficiently and effectively pursue the special social functions assigned to them Patrick Raines and Charles Leathers present an integrated coherent theory to explain the behavior of universities and provide a realistic economic model that predicts how universities allocate their scarce educational resources This alternative view is contrasted with the mainstream explanations of university behavior based on the maximization of student welfare or faculty influences The authors extend the existing literature on the operation of universities by presenting a history of the evolution of the modern entrepreneurial universities as well as an explanation of academic capitalism This absorbing volume will appeal to anyone interested in the history of economic thought or the history of education Scholars of Veblen Smith and Malthus will be fascinated by their individual and comparative theories of the purpose and failures of higher education

Higher Education in Southeast Asia Anthony Welch, 2011-03-31 This is the first book to systematically chart and comparatively assess the trend towards private higher education in South East Asia Caught between conflicting imperatives of spiralling demand and limited resources the balance between public and private higher education systems in South East South and East Asia has shifted markedly The author's detailed case studies of Indonesia Malaysia Thailand the Philippines and Viet Nam discuss and analyse significant policy issues and touch on key debates surrounding globalisation including economic globalisation and structural adjustment and the pressures of cultural globalisation particularly the role of the English language Debates surrounding the role of higher education in the knowledge economy GATS and cross border trade in educational services are also treated including the rise of offshore campuses in countries such as Malaysia and Viet Nam What is argued is that we are witnessing not merely a changing balance between public and private sectors but a blurring of borders between them with public HEIs now often behaving more like private for profit institutions The book charts and illustrates these trends posing questions about their meaning including issues of transparency equity and what the reforms might mean for traditional conceptions of public good in higher education History of Higher Education Annual Roger Geiger, 1984-01-01
