The Fictions of Language and the Languages of Fiction Monika Fludernik, 2003-12-16 Monika Fludernik presents a detailed analysis of free indirect discourse as it relates to narrative theory and the crucial problematic of how speech and thought are represented in fiction Building on the insights of Ann Banfield's Unspeakable Sentences Fludernik radically extends Banfield's model to accommodate evidence from conversational narrative non fictional prose and literary works from Chaucer to the present Fludernik's model subsumes earlier insights into the forms and functions of quotation and aligns them with discourse strategies observable in the oral language Drawing on a vast range of literature she provides an invaluable resource for researchers in the field and introduces English readers to extensive work on the subject in German as well as comparing the free indirect discourse features of German French and English This study effectively repositions the whole area between literature and linguistics opening up a new set of questions in narrative theory

Literary Pragmatics (Routledge Revivals) Roger D. Sell, 2014-10-14 Up until the mid 1980s most pragmatic analysis had been done on spoken language use considerably less on written use and very little at all on literary activity This has now radically changed Pragmatics could be informally defined as the study of relationships between language and its users This volume first published in 1991 seeks to reposition literary activity at the centre of that study The internationally renowned contributors draw together two main streams On the one hand there are concerns which are close to the syntax and semantics of mainstream linguistics and on the other there are concerns ranging towards anthropological linguistics socio and psycholinguistics Literary Pragmatics represents an antidote to the fragmenting specialization so characteristic of the humanities in the twentieth century This book will be of lasting value to students of linguistics literature and society Roger D
