Mentoring in Eighteenth-Century British Literature and Culture
 Anthony W. Lee, 2016-04-22

In the first collection devoted to mentoring relationships in British literature and culture the editor and contributors offer a fresh lens through which to observe familiar and lesser known authors and texts. Employing a variety of critical and methodological approaches which reflect the diversity of the mentoring experiences under consideration the collection highlights in particular the importance of mentoring in expanding print culture. Topics include John Wilmot the Earl of Rochester's relationships to a range of role models, John Dryden's mentoring of women writers, Alexander Pope's problematic attempts at mentoring the vexed nature of Jonathan Swift's cross gender and cross class mentoring relationships, Samuel Richardson's largely unsuccessful efforts to influence Urania Hill Johnson and an examination of Elizabeth Carter and Samuel Johnson's as co-mentors of one another's work. Taken together the essays further the case for mentoring as a globally operative critical concept not only in the eighteenth century but in other literary periods.
