Thinking Through the Skin Sara Ahmed, Jackie Stacey, 2003-09-02 This exciting collection of work from leading feminist scholars, including Elspeth Probyn, Penelope Deutscher, and Chantal Nadeau, engages with and extends the growing feminist literature on lived and imagined embodiment and argues for consideration of the skin as a site where bodies take form, already written upon but open to endless re-inscription. Individual chapters consider such issues as the significance of piercing, tattooing, and tanning; the assault of self-harm upon the skin; the relation between body painting and the land among the indigenous people of Australia; and the cultural economy of fur in Canada. Pierced, mutilated, and marked, mortified and glorified, scarred by disease and stretched and enveloping the skin of another in pregnancy, skin is seen here as both a boundary and a point of connection, the place where one touches and is touched by others, both the most private of experiences and the most public marker of a raced, sexed, and national history.

Ritual Violence in the Ancient Andes Haagen D. Klaus, J. Marla Toyne, 2016-07-26 Traditions of sacrifice exist in almost every human culture and often embody a society's most meaningful religious and symbolic acts. Ritual violence was particularly varied and enduring in the prehistoric South American Andes, where human lives, animals, and material objects were sacrificed in secular rites or as offerings to the divine. Spectacular discoveries of sacrificial sites containing the victims of violent rituals have drawn ever-increasing attention to ritual sacrifice within Andean archaeology. Responding to this interest, this volume provides the first regional overview of ritual killing on the pre Hispanic north coast of Peru where distinct forms and diverse trajectories of ritual violence developed during the final 1 800 years of prehistory Presenting original research that blends empirical approaches iconographic interpretations and contextual analyses the contributors address four linked themes the historical development and regional variation of north coast sacrifice from the early first millennium AD to the European conquest a continuum of ritual violence that spans people animals and objects the broader ritual world of sacrifice including rites both before and after violent offering and the use of diverse scientific tools archaeological information and theoretical interpretations to study sacrifice This research proposes a wide range of new questions that will shape the research agenda in the coming decades while fostering a nuanced scientific and humanized approach to the archaeology of ritual violence that is applicable to archaeological contexts around the world

Dreaming the mythical time when the Ancestor Spirits shaped the territories of the Aborigines and laid down a moral and ritual law for their occupants is the fundamental religious reality. It is the basis of the Aborigines' view of their land or country, kinship relationships, ritual and art. However, the Dreaming is not a static principle since it is interpreted in different ways as in the extraordinary movement in contemporary indigenous painting and in attempts at an accommodation with Christianity. The contributions of anthropologists, cultural historians, philosophers of religion and others are included in this anthology which not only guides readers through the literature but also ensures this still largely inaccessible material is available to a wider range of readers and non-specialist students and academics. Unseen Art Claudia
