Sensory Experience, Adaptation, and Perception Lothar Spillman, Bill R. Wooten, 2013-05-13 Published in 1983 Sensory Experience, Adaptation, and Perception Lothar Spillman, Bill R. Wooten, 2013-05-13 Published in 1983 Sensory Experience Adaptation and Perception is a valuable contribution to the field of Cognitive Psychology

Perceptual Experience Tamar Gendler, John P. Hawthorne, 2006 In the last few years there has been an explosion of philosophical interest in perception after decades of neglect it is now one of the most fertile areas for new work Perceptual Experience presents new work by fifteen of the world's leading philosophers All papers are written specially for this volume and they cover a broad range of topics dealing with sensation and representation consciousness and awareness and the connections between perception and knowledge and between perception and action This will be the book on the philosophy of perception a fascinating resource for philosophers and psychologists

Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Sensation, Perception and Action Johannes Zanker, 2010-03-02 With a style that is both detailed and accessible this new text from Johannes Zanker provides students with a solid understanding of how our sensory and perceptual systems operate and interact with a dynamic world It not only explains the scientific mechanisms involved but discusses the costs and benefits of these mechanisms within an evolutionary functional framework to encourage important questions such as What is a given sensory mechanism needed for What kind of problem can it solve and what are its limitations How does the environment determine how senses operate How does action affect and facilitate perception This unique interdisciplinary framework allows students to see perceiving and acting as embedded in particular environments and directs them to think about the functional nature of these systems The overall effect is an especially readable authoritative text on Sensation Perception and Action that really brings this fascinating topic to life

Action in Perception Alva Noë, 2006-01-20 Perception is not something that happens to us or in us writes Alva Noë It is something we do In Action in Perception Noë argues that perception and perceptual consciousness depend on capacities for action and thought that perception is a kind of thoughtful activity Touch not vision should be our model for perception Perception is not a process in the brain but a kind of skillful activity of the body as a whole We enact our perceptual experience To perceive according to this enactive approach to perception is not merely to have sensations it is to have sensations that we understand In Action in Perception Noë investigates the forms this understanding can take He begins by arguing on both phenomenological and empirical grounds that the content of perception is not like the content of a picture the world is not given to consciousness all at once but is gained gradually by active inquiry and exploration Noë then argues that perceptual experience acquires content thanks to our possession and exercise of practical bodily knowledge and examines among other topics the problems posed by spatial content and the experience of color He considers the perspectival aspect of the representational content of experience and assesses the place of thought and understanding in experience Finally he explores the implications of the enactive approach for our understanding of the neuroscience of perception Unfolding Perceptual Continua Liliana Albertazzi, 2002-01-01 The book analyses the differences between the mathematical interpretation and the phenomenological intuition of the continuum The basic idea is that the continuity of the experience of space and time originates in phenomenic movement The problem of consciousness and of the spaces of representation is related to the primary processes of perception Conceived as an interplay between cognitive science linguistics and philosophy the book presents a conceptual framework based on a dynamic and experimental approach to the problem of the continuum Besides presenting the primitives of a theory of cognitive space and time it presents a theory of the observer analyzing the relationship among perspective points of view and unity of consciousness The book's chapters deal with the dynamic elaboration and recognition of forms from the lower to the higher processes in the various perceptual fields Experimental analysis from visual auditory and tactile perception outline the basic structures of intentionality and its counterpart in language and gesture Series B

The Uttal Tetralogy of Cognitive Neuroscience William R. Uttal, 2022-07-30 These four volumes originally published between 1973 and 1988 were intended to provide a broad survey of cognitive neuroscience a field known variously as physiological psychology or psychobiology in the 1970s and 1980s when the books were written The general goal was to summarize what was known about the relation between brain and mind at that time with an emphasis on sensory and perceptual topics Out of print for many years the Tetralogy is now available again as a set for the first time which is as the author envisaged it or as individual volumes The Oxford Handbook of Perceptual Organization Johan Wagemans, 2015 Perceptual organization comprises a wide range of processes such as perceptual grouping figure ground organization filling in completion and perceptual switching The Oxford Handbook of Perceptual Organization provides a broad and extensive review of the current literature written in an accessible form for scholars and students Vision and Motor Control L. Proteau, D. Elliott, 1992-02-20 Since the classic studies of Woodworth 1899 the role of vision in the control of movement has been an important research topic in experimental psychology While many early studies were concerned with the relative importance of vision and kinesthesia and of the time it takes to use visual information recent theoretical and technical developments have stimulated scientists to ask questions about how different sources of visual information contribute to motor control in different contexts In this volume articles are presented that provide a broad coverage of the current research and theory on vision and human motor learning and control Many of the contributors are colleagues that have met over the years at the meetings and conferences concerned with human movement They represent a wide range of affiliation and background including kinesiology physical education neurophysiology cognitive psychology and neuropsychology Thus the topic of vision and motor control is addressed from a number of different perspectives In general each author sets an empirical and theoretical framework for their topic and then discusses current work from their own laboratory and how it fits into the larger context A synthesis chapter at the end of the volume identifies commonalities in the work and suggests directions for future experimentation

On Seeing Forms William R. Uttal, 2014-06-27 Originally published in 1988 this is the final volume in the set The original intent of the tetralogy was to review neural explanations of high level perceptual and cognitive processes However at this point it became clear that there were few neural explanations of perceptual topics a situation that still persists today This book therefore used a different framework examining the role of detection discrimination and recognition at the behavioral level

Handbook of Perception and Action Herbert Heuer, Steven W. Keele, 1996-04-19 This up to date handbook focuses on the study of action or motor control which examines movement and skill and the internal processes that lead to them As action is interrelated with cognition this is a vigorous field of investigation Written by international experts Motor Skills provides current reviews on general processes important to motor control learning coordination timing planning and control and on the individual skills of throwing catching reaching and typing The text describes important conceptual and methodological advances regarding control theory and timing and is divided into two sections which analyze skill from the perspectives of general processes and individual skills
