Separation And Reunion In Modern China:

Separation and Reunion in Modern China Charles Stafford,2000 Charles Stafford explores the Chinese fascination with separation and reunion based upon his field studies in Taiwan and mainland China He gives a vivid account of everyday rituals and examines how they help people settle into communities and to explain the passions aroused by the possibility of national culture

Separation and Reunion in Modern China Charles Stafford,2000-11-09 In this original and readable book Charles Stafford describes the Chinese fascination with separation and reunion Drawing on his field studies in Taiwan and mainland China he gives a vivid account of raucous festivals of reunion elaborate rituals for the sending off of gods and daughters poetic moments of leave takings between friends and bitter political rhetoric about Chinese national unity The idioms and practices of separation and reunion which are woven into the fabric of daily life help people to explain the passions aroused by the possibility of national division In this book the discussion of everyday rituals leads into a unique and accessible general introduction to Chinese and Taiwanese society and culture

Living with Separation in China Charles Stafford,2003-09-02 First Published in 2004 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Architecture, Ritual and Cosmology in China Xuemei Li,2023-05-31 Drawing on the author s extensive fieldwork in the Dong areas in southwest China this book presents a detailed picture of the Dong s buildings and techniques with new insights into the Dong s cosmology and rituals of everyday life meshed with the architecture and the symbolic meanings It examines how the buildings and techniques of the Dong are ordered and influenced by the local culture and context The timber bridges and drum towers are the Dong s most prominent architectural monuments Usually built elaborately with multiple roofs these bridges and drum towers were designed and maintained by the local carpenters who also built the village suspended houses in an oral tradition carried down from father to son or to apprentice They were funded entirely by the local people and the bridges tend to be built in places without great pressure of traffic or another bridge already existing close by Why does such great expense go into the Dong s buildings with elaboration How were they built And what do they mean to their users and builders This book is an anthropological study on the Dong s architecture and technique and it aims to contribute a discourse on the interdisciplinary research area It is suitable for graduate and postgraduate readers

The Anthropology of Religion, Charisma and Ghosts Stephen Feuchtwang,2010-06-29 It has been said that Chinese government was until the republican period government through li Li is the untranslatable word covering appropriate conduct toward others from the guest rituals of imperial diplomacy to the hospitality offered to guests in the homes of ordinary people It also covers the centring of self in relation to the flows and objects in a landscape or a built environment including the world beyond the spans of human and other lives It is prevalent under the republican regimes of China and Taiwan in the forming and maintaining of personal relations in the respect for ancestors and especially in the continuing rituals of address to gods of command to demons and of charity to neglected souls The concept of religion does not grasp this neither does the concept of ritual yet li undoubtedly refers to a figuration of a universe and of place in the world as encompassing as any body of rite and magic or of any religion Through studies of Chinese gods and ghosts this book challenges theories of religion based on a supreme god and that god s prophets as well as those like Hinduism based on mythical figures from epics and offers another conception of humanity and the world distinct from that conveyed by the rituals of other classical anthropological theories

Social Media in Rural China Tom McDonald,2016-09-13 China s distinctive social media platforms have gained notable popularity among the nation s vast number of internet users but has China s countryside been left behind in this communication revolution Tom McDonald spent 15 months living in a small rural Chinese community researching how the residents use social media in their daily lives His ethnographic findings suggest that far from being left behind many rural Chinese people have already integrated social media into their everyday experience Throughout his ground breaking study McDonald argues that social media allows rural people to extend and transform their social relationships by deepening already existing connections with friends known through their school work or village while also experimenting with completely new forms of relationships through online interactions with strangers particularly when looking for love and romance By juxtaposing these seemingly opposed relations rural social media users are able to use these technologies to understand capitalise on and challenge the notions of morality that underlie rural life "Changing Fate" Helena Obendiek,2016 In this compelling ethnography of the causes and effects of educational desire in an extremely impoverished corner of Gansu province Helena Obendiek pays particular attention to the complex social networks which fund students education placing them in relations of debt to their home villages and extended families Her fieldwork took her to these villages to the county high schools and to the urban settings where the educationally successful attempt to land jobs The result is a rich and holistic portrait Andrew Kipnis Australian National University Meals in Science and Practice H L Meiselman,2009-03-26 The meal is the key eating occasion yet professionals and researchers frequently focus on single food products rather than the combinations of foods and the context in which they are consumed Research on meals is also carried out in a wide range of fields and the different disciplines do not always benefit from each others expertise This important collection presents contributions on meals from many perspectives using different methods and focusing on the different elements involved Two introductory chapters in part one summarise the key findings in Dimensions of the Meal the first book to bring an interdisciplinary perspective to meals and introduce the current publication by reviewing the key topics discussed in the following chapters Parts two to four then consider how meals are defined studied and taught Major considerations include eating socially and eating alone the influence of gender and the different situations of home restaurant and institutional settings Part five reviews meals worldwide with chapters on Brazilian Indian Chinese and Thai meals among others The final parts discuss meals from further perspectives including those of the chef product developer and meal setting designer With its distinguished editor and international team of contributors Meals in science and practice is an informative and diverse reference for both professionals and academic researchers interested in food from disciplines such as food product development food service nutrition dietetics sociology anthropology psychology public health medicine and marketing Summarises key findings in dimensions of the meal Considers how meals are defined studied and taught including eating alone and socially and the influence of gender Reviews the meaning of meals in different cultures
