Serve City Interactive Urbanism:

Studies in Temporal Urbanism Fabian Neuhaus, 2011-08-04 This book is very much about what the name urbanTick literally says about the ticking of the urban the urban as we experience it everyday on the bus in the park or between buildings It is about the big orchestrated mass migration of commuters the seasonal blossoms of the trees along the walkway and the frequency of the stamping rubbish eater trucks It is also not to forget about climate infrastructure opening hours term times parking meters time tables growing shadows and moon light But most of all it is about how all this is experienced by citizens on a daily basis and how they navigate within this complex structure of patterns The content of this book is based on the content of the urbanTick blog between 2008 2010 One year blogging about this topic brought together a large collection of different aspects and thoughts It is not at all a conclusive view the opposite might be the case it is an exploratory work in progress while trying to capture as many facets of the topic as possible

Sustainable Intercultural Urbanism at the Service of the African City of Tomorrow Esoh Elamé, 2022-06-03 Most African cities are human settlements that lack the systems needed for effective land use planning In fact the disorganization that prevails has become so complex that the concept of urbanism itself has been called into question This book highlights the need to restore urban planning in African cities through sustainable development and interculturality Furthermore it addresses the balance of power between urban planning and sustainable development and explores the historical and postcolonial aspects of urban planning in African cities A case study focusing on the development of sustainable cities and neighborhoods in the M Zab Valley is also included as well as topics such as urban greening climatic threats and the problem of state agro industrial land transactions which compete with sustainable urban planning Sustainable Intercultural Urbanism at the Service of the African City of Tomorrow is a valuable reference for researchers and practitioners interested in urban issues in African cities These cities in particular sub Saharan cities have long been excluded from any discourse on sustainable cities and urban planning this book places the focus on these cities and acknowledges their varied urban realities The intention is to spark a new debate on sustainable urban planning in African cities based on intercultural sustainable urbanism which is key to thinking about and building ecological intercultural compact intelligent and postcolonial cities

In the Bubble John Thackara, 2006-02-17 How to design a world in which we rely less on stuff and more on people We re filling up the world with technology and devices but we ve lost sight of an important question What is this stuff for What value does it add to our lives So asks author John Thackara in his new book In the Bubble Designing for a Complex World These are tough questions for the pushers of technology to answer Our economic system is centered on technology so it would be no small matter if tech ceased to be an end in itself in our daily lives Technology is not going to go away but the time to discuss the end it will serve is before we deploy it not after We need to ask what purpose will be served by the broadband communications smart materials wearable computing and connected appliances that we re unleashing upon the world We need to ask what impact all this stuff will have on our daily lives Who will look after it and how In the Bubble is about a world based less on stuff and more on people Thackara describes a transformation that is taking place now not in a remote science fiction future it's not about as he puts it the schlock of the new but about radical innovation already emerging in daily life We are regaining respect for what people can do that technology can't In the Bubble describes services designed to help people carry out daily activities in new ways Many of these services involve technology ranging from body implants to wide bodied jets But objects and systems play a supporting role in a people centered world The design focus is on services not things And new principles above all lightness inform the way these services are designed and used At the heart of In the Bubble is a belief informed by a wealth of real world examples that ethics and responsibility can inform design decisions without impeding social and technical innovation

Spacing Ireland Caroline Crowley, Denis Linehan, 2016-05-16 In light of the innumerable interventions that characterise the transformation of Ireland over the last two decades Spacing Ireland Place society and culture in a post boom era explores questions of space and place to understand the nature of major social cultural and economic change in contemporary Ireland The authors explore the intersections between everyday life and global exchanges through the contexts of the stuff of contemporary everyday encounters food housing leisure migration music shopping travel and work These are the multiple layers of space we now inhabit Ireland is a turbulent place It is fruitful to consider the contemporary geographies of the island through the various forms where change is expressed The wide range of topics addressed in the collection and the plurality of spaces they represent make the book appealing not only to students and academics but to anyone who follows social cultural and economic developments in Ireland Comparative Urbanism

Jennifer Robinson, 2022-07-01 COMPARATIVE URBANISM Comparative Urbanism fully transforms the scope and purpose of urban studies today distilling innovative conceptual and methodological tools The theoretical and empirical scope is astounding enlightening emboldening Robinson peels away conceptual labels that have anointed some cities as paradigmatic and left others as mere copies She recalibrates overly used theoretical perspectives resurrects forgotten ones long in need of a dusting off and brings to the fore those often marginalised Robinson's approach radically re distributes who speaks for the urban and which urban conditions shape our theoretical understandings With Comparative Urbanism in our hands we can start the practice of urban studies anywhere and be relevant to any number of elsewheres Jane M Jacobs Professor of Urban Studies Yale NUS College Singapore How to think the multiplicity of urban realities at the same time across different times and rhythmic arrangements how to move with the emergences and stand stills with conceptualisations that do justice to all things gathered under the name of the urban How to imagine comparatively amongst differences that remain different individualised outcomes but yet exist in common No book has so carefully conducted a specifically urban philosophy on these matters capable of beginning and ending anywhere AbdouMalik Simone Senior Research Fellow Urban Institute University of Sheffield The rapid pace and changing nature of twenty first century urbanisation as well as the diversity of global urban experiences calls for new theories and new methodologies in urban studies In Comparative Urbanism Tactics for Global Urban Studies Jennifer Robinson proposes grounds for reformatting comparative urban practice and offers a wide range of tactics for researching global urban experiences The focus is on inventing new concepts as well as revising existing approaches Inspired by postcolonial and decolonial critiques of urban studies she advocates for an experimental comparative urbanism open to learning from different urban experiences and to expanding conversations amongst urban scholars across the globe The book features a wealth of examples of comparative urban research concerned with many dimensions of urban life A range of theoretical and philosophical approaches ground an understanding of the radical revisability and emergent nature of concepts of the urban Advanced students urbanists and scholars will be prompted to compose comparisons which trace the interconnected and relational character of the urban and to think with the variety of urban experiences and urbanisation processes across the globe to produce the new insights the twenty first century urban world demands Smart Urbanism Simon Marvin, Andrés Luque-Ayala, Colin McFarlane, 2015-12-14 Smart Urbanism SU the rebuilding of cities through the integration of digital technologies with buildings neighbourhoods networked infrastructures and people is being represented as a unique emerging solution to the majority of problems faced by cities today SU discourses enacted by technology companies national governments and supranational agencies alike claim a supremacy of urban digital technologies for managing and controlling infrastructures achieving greater effectiveness in managing service demand and reducing carbon emissions developing greater social interaction and community networks providing new services around health and social care etc Smart urbanism is being represented as the response to almost every facet of the contemporary urban question This book explores this common conception of the problematic of smart urbanism and critically address what new capabilities are being created by whom and with what exclusions how these are being developed and contested where is this happening both within and between cities and with what sorts of social and material consequences The aim of the book is to identify and convene a currently fragmented and disconnected group of researchers commentators developers and users from both within and outside the mainstream SU discourse including several of those that adopt a more critical perspective to assess what problems of the city smartness can address The volume provides the first internationally comparative assessment of SU in cities of the global north and south critically evaluates whether current visions of SU are able to achieve their potential and then identifies alternative trajectories for SU that hold radical promise for reshaping cities New Plaza as Urban Interface Hyun-Young Jin, 2009 Concrete City Armelle Choplin, 2023-04-03 CONCRETE CITY Armelle Choplin s Concrete City weaves a novel and engaging analysis of urbanization by tracing the journeys of cement and people making urban life in West Africa From post independence high modernist ambitions to building the opportunities to make a living the emerging transnational corridor along the West African coast provides a starting point for insights which will expand and inform understanding of both established and newly emerging urbanization processes in many different contexts Jennifer

Robinson Professor of Geography University College of London UK In this very innovative and superbly illustrated book Armelle Choplin makes cement vibrant with affect politics economic interests and cultural meanings She takes us to a fascinating journey along the West African urban corridor following the social life of concrete and showing how this material shapes contemporary urbanization and everyday life Ola S derstr m Professor of Geography University of Neuch tel Switzerland Concrete City Material Flows and Urbanization in West Africa delivers a theoretically informed ethnographic exploration of the African urban world through the life of concrete Emblematic of frenetic urban and capitalistic development this material is pervasive shaping contemporary urban landscapes and societies and their links to the global world It stands and circulates at the heart of major financial investments political forces and environmental debates At the same time it epitomises values of modernity and success redefining social practices forms of dwelling and living and popular imaginaries The book invites the reader to follow bags of cement from production plant to construction site along the 1000 kilometre urban corridor that links Abidjan to Accra Lom Cotonou and Lagos combining the perspectives of cement tycoons entrepreneurs and political stakeholders but also of ordinary men and women who plan build and dream of the Concrete City With this innovative exploration of urban life through concrete Armelle Choplin delivers a fascinating journey into and reflection on the sustainability of our urban futures Wiring the Streets, Surfing the Square Timothy

Jachna,2021-03-18 This book investigates the production of public space in contemporary urban contexts as conditioned by the suffusion of urban life with digital technologies A social production of technology approach is taken to frame the digitally mediated city as a communal social and cultural project Acknowledging the multivalent and shifting nature of public space and the heterogeneity of the urban actors who form it the agency of these different actors in appropriating digital technologies takes center stage The dynamics of negotiations between regimes of control and impulses towards freedom and experimentation the entanglement of the spatial commons and the digital commons changes in the notions of what constitutes membership in a public or counterpublic and evolving relationships between the various individuals and groups who share and constitute public space are all revealed in different actors appropriation of digital technologies in the formation of public spaces and the conducting of public life in cities The book is divided into two sections Drawing on classic and contemporary scholars on public space and on digital culture Section I explores the implications of the convergence of these bodies of knowledge and lenses of critique and examination on the present urban condition establishing a conceptual foundation upon which public space discourse is brought to bear on an interrogation of the wired or mediated city Structured by the core concepts that underlie Hannah Arendt s notion of agency in the constitution of the public sphere Section II is devoted to discussing and demonstrating through myriad concrete examples how different affordances of digital technologies are implicated in the production of public space and in the interplay between urban governance and control urban life and citizenship and urban commodification The topics in this book are of broad and current international relevance and will appeal to scholars and students in architecture urbanism design sociology and digital culture The Creative City Nada Švob-Đokić, 2007 Rethinking Smart Urbanism Prince K. Guma, 2021-01-03 Rethinking Smart Urbanism is an empirical exploration of the multiple ways in which cities and infrastructures are constructed and reconstructed through ICT innovation and appropriation Drawing on the case of Kenya's capital Nairobi the study explains existing infrastructure constellations through countervailing processes and rationalities in the context of splintered urbanism In doing so the study examines the relationship between urban plans and digital infrastructure development place based contexts that shape digital infrastructures and the extent to which these infrastructures facilitate utility companies' ambitions of extending centralized networks to new territories It draws on the theoretical and empirical base of urban and infrastructure studies particularly in the fields of smart urbanism postcolonial urbanism and Science and Technology Studies Methodologically the study adopts a qualitative research design and presents in depth case studies that combine ethnographic methods with a thorough investigation of written sources Ultimately it is hoped to enhance our understanding of urban and digital possibilities and add new insights to debates on technology and urbanity in Africa and beyond Vertical Urbanism Zhongjie Lin, José L. S. Gámez, 2018-04-27 Studies of compact cities have evolved along with the rising awareness of climate change and sustainable development Relevant debates however reveal that the prevailing definitions and practices of compact cities are tied primarily to traditional Western urban forms This book reinterprets compact city and develops a ground breaking discourse of Vertical Urbanism a concept that has never been critically articulated It emphasizes Vertical Urbanism as a dynamic design strategy instead of a static form distinguishing it from the stereotyped concept of vertical city or towers in the park dominant in China and elsewhere and suggests its adaptability to different geographic and cultural contexts Using Chinese cities as laboratories of investigation this book explores the design ecological and sociocultural dimensions of building compact cities and addresses important global urban issues through localized design solutions such as the relationship between density and vitality the integration of horizontal and vertical dimensions of design and the ecological and social adaptability of combinatory mega forms In addition through discussions with scholars from the United States China and Japan this book provides an insight into the theoretical debates surrounding compact city and Vertical Urbanism in the global context Scholars and students in architecture and urban planning will be attracted by this book Also it will appeal to readers with an interest in urban development and Asian studies Emergent Urbanism Tigran Haas, Krister Olsson, 2016-04-29 In the last few decades many European and American cities and towns experienced economic social and spatial structural change Strategies for urban regeneration include investments in infrastructures for production consumption and communication as well as marketing and branding measures and urban design schemes Bringing together leading academics from across a range of disciplines including Douglas Kelbaugh Ali Madanipour Saskia Sassen Gregory Ashworth Nan Elin Emily Talen and many others Emergent Urbanism identifies the specific issues dominating today's urban planning and urban design discourse arguing that urban planning and design not only results from deliberate planning and design measures but how these combine with infrastructure planning and derive from economic social and spatial processes of structural change Combining explorations from urban planning urban theory human geography sociology urban design and architecture the volume provides a comprehensive and state of the art overview highlighting the complexities of these interactions in space and place process and design
