The Primacy of the Postils John M. Frymire, 2009-12-23 Scholarship on the German Reformation has long equated preaching with Protestantism just as many scholars have employed sermons but usually in supplemental and unsystematic ways Based on an analysis of over 400 standard sermon collections postils produced by Catholics Lutherans and Calvinists 1520-1620 this study offers the first comprehensive systematic presentation of these works from a cross confessional perspective It lays to rest the notion that preaching was somehow distinctively Protestant while tracing the creation production use and censorship of postils These sermon collections were nothing less than the applied distillation of Christianity delivered on a regular basis by the clergy to the laity and as such the most important vehicle for the dissemination of ideas in early modern Germany

Justification and Participation in Christ Olli-Pekka Vainio, 2008-02-28 The unity of the early Lutheran reformation even in the central themes such as justification is still an open question This study examines the development of the doctrine of justification in the works of the prominent first and second generation Lutheran reformers from the viewpoints of divine participation and effectivity of justification Generally Luther's idea of Christ's real presence in the believer as the central part of justification is maintained and taught by all Reformers while they simultaneously develop various theological frameworks to depict the nature of participation However in some cases these developed models are contradictory which causes tension between theologians resulting in the invention of new doctrinal formulations

The 'Book' of Travels: Genre, Ethnology, and Pilgrimage, 1250-1700 Palmira Brummett, 2009-04-24 The early modern era is often envisioned as one in which European genres both narrative and visual diverged indelibly from those of medieval times This collection examines a disparate set of travel texts dating from the thirteenth to the seventeenth centuries to question that divergence and to assess the modes themes and ethnologies of travel writing It demonstrates the enduring nature of the itinerary the variant forms of witnessing including imaginary maps the crafting of sacred space as a cautionary tale and the use of the travel narrative to represent the transformation of the authorial self Focusing on European travelers to the expansive East from the soft architecture of Timur's tent palaces in Samarkand to the ambiguities of sexual identity at the Mughul court these essays reveal the possibilities for cultural translation as travelers of varying experience and attitude confront remote and foreign or not so foreign space research and brings out a number of crucial differences between Marsilius and Aristotle. Further, this study situates Marsilius' ideas in the history of late medieval political thought, podest literature, etc., the political realities that obtained in 14th century Padua, and late medieval debates on the fortunes of the communal regime and on the rise of the signoria, e.g., Albertino Mussato. It also argues against Marsilius' so-called Averroism and identifies Moses Maimonides' Guide of the Perplexed as a potential source of the Defensor pacis.
