Older People Giving Care Helping Family And Community:

Older People Giving Care Sally K. Gallagher, 1994-03-14 One of the few studies of how the elderly help others through formal and informal volunteerism While a large number of studies focus on the help older people receive from relatives and friends this work examines the many ways in which older people are involved in giving care to others Written by a sociologist and based on a stratified sample of hundreds of individuals this study assesses a number of dimensions of care giving While much of this labor goes unnoticed it is central to the building and maintenance of family and community ties and reveals ways in which social life is organized around aging gender and marriage Patterns of formal volunteerism and informal care are studied in relation to age sex marital status and other important variables that affect this essential but underplayed aspect of American community life Families and Work Karen I. Fredriksen-Goldsen, Andrew E. Scharlach, 2001 This book is intended for use in upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in social work with the family social work with the elderly and social work with children Supporting Family Carers of Older People in Europe Piotr Bledowski, Wojciech Pedich, Barbara Bien, 2006-06 There is no extensive formal care provision or system supporting family carers in Poland The cohabiting family plays a major role in organizing support for the elderly Nevertheless the family carers are not perceived as natural partners for both medical and social services As a result caring for the elderly often brings additional costs for the family and restrictions to work and income This book presents the legal status and social situation of family carers in Poland explains the range of services available and the possibilities to use help adapted specially for this group Care of Older Persons Mala Kapur Shankardass, 2024-10-23 This book explores the implications and significant ethical social economic and health challenges that an ageing world population presents It provides valuable insights on concerns related to providing organizing planning and managing care for older persons in both formal and informal settings As the number of older persons increases rapidly around the globe caring for them is a very important aspect of all ageing and aged societies While in most countries the care of older persons is provided informally by family members the changing social scene family structures and work and employment patterns are leading many nations to create provisions for formal care through institutions or paid services of caregivers This book offers perspectives on formal and informal care from countries such as Japan the Netherlands the USA India South Africa and Poland among others The essays in this book underline a rights based approach and focus on ethical social economic health and legal aspects of care as they pertain to the universal phenomena of ageing as well as the specific demographic and epidemiological realities of the selected countries They discuss concerns such as long term care provisions catering to the needs of people affected by dementia providing residential care taking the needs of family care providers into account the growing requirement for paid care workers and channelizing training of both skilled and semi skilled care providers to suit the needs of older people This volume would be of interest to scholars and those working in the fields of sociology health studies age and ageing psychology social work medical sciences nursing and public policy It will also be useful to NGO sector workers administrators as well as grassroots workers involved with the care of older persons

Supporting Family Carers of Older People in Europe - The National Background Report for Malta Joseph Troisi, Marvin Formosa, 2005 Malta has an extensive formal care provision In the field of ageing there is a wide range of services available for the elderly and for their carers aimed at improving the quality of life of the elderly while maintaining them in their own homes community and environment However the majority of care for the elderly is still provided by the family members This publication is the first nation wide report concerning the state of family members taking care of older relatives in the Maltese Islands It investigates the socio economic conditions of these carers while analysing their changing role and status their needs and problems resulting from the various changes which Maltese society and family are passing through Family Care of Older People in Europe Ian Philp, 2001 Developing appropriate responses to an ageing population is recognized by policy makers throughout the developed world as a top priority as is the vital contribution made by family caregivers However cultural demographic and organizational differences between countries have encouraged diverse patterns of response to this common challenge This book provides a systematic cross cultural analysis of contemporary patterns and future trends in all major countries of the European Union Additional interest is provided by including Poland emerging from the post Communist block as the country at the forefront for joining the European Union The book should be useful to European policy makers and academics involved in studying the health and social care needs of older people and the capacity contribution and needs of family caregivers who provide care to older people The book is also relevant for policy makers and researchers in other countries mostly in North America and Australia who wish to study European approaches to supporting older people and family caregivers

Supporting Family Carers of Older People in Europe Simona Hvalic Touzery, 2007 This report provides a comprehensive overview of the current state of care services for older people in Slovenia with emphasis on family care There are numerous services intended for old people in the country some more others less accessible and developed yet almost no support is given to family carers who still provide the bulk of care to elderly Recent socio political developments in the country give hope that the situation and the position of family carers will improve to better

Care of the Elderly Mentally Infirm Barbara Gray,Bernard Isaacs,2022-05-24 Originally published in 1979 this book explains why so many people suffer behavioural changes in later life how this affects those around them the services that exist to assist older people and those who work with them and how such services can be profitably used A recurring theme is the interaction of the different varieties of mental illness with one another and with physical emotional social and personality factors The book provides detailed guidance for social workers caring for the elderly on such topics as how an assessment of a mentally disturbed older person can be made procedure for removal from home under a court order and compulsory admission to hospital ways of communicating with elderly people and gauging the needs of relatives and carers

Older People in Modern Society Anthea Tinker,2014-10-13 Older People in Modern Society is an established classic text in its field and through subsequent editions its reputation and that of its author has grown In this fourth and renamed edition Anthea Tinker synthesises and discusses a wide range of literature about older people drawing from fields such as medicine sociology and social policy and using primary source material to illustrate the text She also introduces a number of topics that have attained greater importance since publication of the third edition in 1992 for example continuing care and the abuse of older people Care Managers: Working with the Aging Family Cathy Cress,2009-10-07 Care Managers Working with the Aging Family addresses the unmet needs of care managers working with aging clients as well as the client's entire family With its in depth focus on the aging family system this book fills a gap for medical case managers and geriatric care managers giving them tools to better meet the treatment goals of aging clients and their families as the older clients move through the continuum of care in institutional based settings or community based settings Care Managers Working With the Aging Family uniquely focuses on helping the entire family unit through the process of death and dying helping midlife siblings to work together to render care to aging parents It adds proven techniques to the care manager repertoire such as family meetings forgiveness technology and care giver assessment It offers multiple tools to do an effective care plan so that both the needs of the family and the older client are met Elderly Care in India S. Irudaya Rajan,Gayathri Balagopal,2017-02-21 This volume highlights a range of issues underpinning elder care in India with particular focus on the challenges that India faces in caring for the elderly In addition to the very limited state support and near total dependence on the family for long term social care and economic support the changing dynamics between generations in the family structure and privatization of health care in general create new challenges that need to be addressed Although care plays a significant role in the well being of the elderly there is not much research available from India This volume draws on field based evidence and the legal framework in India to understand the ways in which care is organized for the elderly and to locate the main sources of care provision The book addresses key themes such as shrinking of traditional support base of the elderly trajectory of old age homes in India and care arrangements for the elderly within the community Written by academics and practitioners in the field of gerontology this book is an informative resource for demographers gerontologists social scientists studying aging and human rights and legal experts working with the aged
