Hodgetts, 1995-12-15 Confederation was a relief to legislators who had to ensure the uneasy union between Upper and Lower Canada the dualism had demanded double barrelled ministries and the rotation of the capital after 1849 between Toronto and Quebec City every four years The year 1867 was therefore a watershed The creation of the province of Ontario demanded that a civil service be put in place to support the new offices of the lieutenant governor Executive Council and Legislative Assembly However the election of the Whitney government in 1905 is perceived by J E Hodgetts as an equally important dividing point in Ontario's bureaucratic history Before 1905 the province met the fairly rudimentary needs of a largely agrarian community by relying on local authorities and the assistance of private clientele and charitable associations Thus administration was at arm's length It placed minimal demands on a miniscule staff and the simple structures of the emergent public service James Whitney's arrival in 1905 coincided with the growth of natural resource industries in the north and the need to create agencies to deal with them Developing urbanization and industrialization were accompanied by technological advances in communication and transportation and these too required regulation This prompted the hands on administrative mode and the hands increased in number with the creation of new organizational satellites the expansion and consolidation of departments and the emergence of central agencies to reform coordinate and control These strands of economic development and parallel administrative bodies form the substance of Hodgetts's history of the Ontario civil service from confederation until the beginning of the Second World War Hodgetts has analysed carefully the factors that led to the gradual enlargement of the government's functions and the progressive tightening of the exercise of its authority Approaches to Canadian Economic History Easterbrook, Watkins, 1967-01-15 Focusing mainly on the staple theory this collection of essays clearly shows the impact the great staple trades from cod and fur to newsprint and oil had upon Canadian history Other significant frames of reference the role of government the development of commercial agriculture the climate of enterprise and capital formation are also represented A History of Journalism in Canada W.H. Kesterton, 1967-01-01 The Making and Circulation of Nordic Models, Ideas and Images Haldor Byrkjeflot, Lars Mjølset, Mads Mordhorst, Klaus Petersen, 2021-10-19 This critical and empirically based volume examines the multiple existing Nordic models providing analytically innovative attention to the multitude of circulating ideas images and experiences referred to as Nordic It addresses related paradoxes as well as patterns of circulation claims about the exceptionality of Nordic models and the diffusion and impact of Nordic experiences and ideas Providing original case studies the book further examines how the Nordic models have been constructed transformed and circulated in time and in space It investigates the actors and channels that have been involved in circulating models journalists and media bureaucrats and policy makers international organizations national politicians and institutions scholars public diplomats and analyses where and why models have travelled Finally the book shows that Nordic models perspectives or ideas do not always originate in the Nordic region nor do they always develop as deliberate efforts to promote Nordic interests This book will be of key interest to Nordic and Scandinavian studies European studies and more broadly to history sociology political science marketing social policy organizational theory and public management The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Wrestling with Democracy Dennis Pilon, 2013-06-17 Though sharing broadly similar processes of economic and political development from the mid to late nineteenth century onward western countries have diverged greatly in their choice of voting systems most of Europe shifted to proportional voting around the First World War while Anglo American countries have stuck with relative majority or majority voting rules Using a comparative historical approach Wrestling with Democracy examines why voting systems have or have not changed in western industrialized countries over the past century In this first single volume study of voting system reform covering all western industrialized countries Dennis Pilon reviews national efforts in this area over four timespans the nineteenth century the period around the First World War the Cold War and the 1990s Pilon provocatively argues that voting system reform has been a part of larger struggles over defining democracy itself highlighting previously overlooked episodes of reform and challenging widely held assumptions about institutional change

Usable Urban Past Planning and Politics Alan F.J. Artibise, 1980-11-15 This collection of original essays serves both the historians and geographers who seek a deeper understanding of Canada's urban past and the planners politicians and citizens who seek to preserve or to change their cities today
