Encyclopedia of Death and Dying Glennys Howarth, Oliver Leaman, 2003-12-16. In recent years there has been a massive upsurge in academic, professional, and lay interest in mortality. This is reflected in academic and professional literature, in the popular media, and in the proliferation of professional roles and training courses associated with aspects of death and dying. Until now, the majority of reference material on death and dying has been designed for particular disciplinary audiences and has addressed only specific academic or professional concerns. There has been an urgent need for an authoritative but accessible reference work reflecting the multidisciplinary nature of the field. This Encyclopedia answers that need. The Encyclopedia of Death and Dying consolidates and contextualizes the disparate research that has been carried out to date. The phenomena of death and dying and its related concepts are explored and explained in depth from the approaches of varied disciplines and related professions in the arts, social sciences, humanities, medicine, and the sciences. In addition to scholars and students in the field, from anthropologists and sociologists to art and social historians, the Encyclopedia will be of interest to other professionals and practitioners whose work brings them into contact with dying, dead, and bereaved people. It will be welcomed as the definitive death and dying reference source and an essential tool for teaching, research, and independent study.

Dying, Death, and Bereavement Lewis R. Aiken, 2000-07-01. This book is a brief but comprehensive survey of research, writings, and professional practices concerned with death and dying. It is interdisciplinary and eclectic; medical, psychological, religious, philosophical, artistic, demographics, bereavement, and widowhood are all considered but with an emphasis on psychological aspects. A variety of viewpoints and research findings on topics subsumed under thanatology receive thorough consideration. Questions, activities, and projects at the end of each chapter enhance reflection and personalize the material. This fourth edition features material on moral issues and court cases concerned with abortion and euthanasia, the widespread problem of AIDS and other deadly diseases, the tragedies occasioned by epidemics, starvation, and war, and the resumption of capital punishment in many states. The book's enhanced multicultural tone reflects the increased economic, social, and physical interdependency among the nations of the world. Topics receiving increased attention in the fourth edition are terror management, attitudes and practices concerning death, cross cultural concepts of afterlife, gallows humor, out of body experiences, spiritualism, mass suicide, pet and romantic death, euthanasia.
