European Architecture in Colour Robert Furneaux Jordan,1961 The Monumental Era Franco Borsi,1987

European Architecture Since 1890 Hans Ibelings,2011 Architecture Europe and twentieth century These are the three terms that define the scope of this book The century is extended to a hundred and twenty years the architecture is limited to the cultural portion of the production and Europe is the entire continent from the North Pole to the Mediterranean Sea from Iceland to the Urals Pref An Outline of European Architecture N. Pevsner,1963 European Architecture in the Twentieth Century Arnold Whittick,1974 New European Architecture S. A. Rotovision,1996 This illustrated up to the minute review shows the trends in new architectural construction in Europe during the past three years Examples of work are included from both well known architects and younger up and coming names who are now redefining the state of European architecture European Architecture : a Historical Study Russell Sturges,1896 Occidental Perceptions of European Architecture in Nineteenth-Century Persian Travel Diaries Vahid Vahdat,2017-03-31

In the midst of Europe s nineteenth century industrial revolution four men embarked on separate journeys to the wondrous Farangestan a land of fascinating objects mysterious technologies heavenly women and magical spaces Determined to learn the secret of Farangestan s advancements the travelers kept detailed records of their observations These diaries mapped an aspirational path to progress for curious Iranian audiences who were eager to change the course of history Two hundred years later Travels in Farangi Space unpacks these writings to reveal a challenging new interpretation of Iran s experience of modernity This book opens the Persian travelers long forgotten suitcases and analyzes the descriptions contained within to gain insight into Occidental perspectives on modern Europe By carefully tracing the physical and mental journeys of these travelers the book paints a picture of European architecture that is nothing like what one would expect European Architect Law

Stéphanie van Gulijk, 2009 The legal relationship between architects and clients suffers from two basic tensions that have been debated in several European countries First the market for design of buildings is not the exclusive domain of architects anymore Other disciplines have gradually encroached on the architect's core activities Many new forms of contract have been developed in the construction industry These market models no longer fit the traditional design contract departing from the idea that an architect designs a structure that is fit for its purpose and subsequently supervises the realization of the design by the building contractor Second designing buildings is a low yield high risk endeavor If the obligations of architects under the design contract are not performed well they are exposed to severe liabilities which may cause serious financial problems Detailed comparative research on design contracts shows that rule makers have difficulties in dealing with these two tensions In Europe considerable differences exist regarding the national rules that apply to the contractual relationship between architects and clients Therefore in this study four regulation issues have been investigated that deal with establishing rules to govern the two tensions market entry regulation architect liability limitation of architect liability and professional liability insurance In order to evaluate these regulation issues a law and economics perspective is applied The book will help to establish which combination of regulation options is likely to lead to more efficient outcomes It provides insights in what is the best way to deal with the two tensions in the relationship between architects and clients and it contributes to establishing a new design for European architect law
