Freud, 2017-09-18 In this seminal work Freud describes psychological mechanisms at work within mass movements A mass according to Freud is a temporary entity consisting of heterogeneous elements that have joined together for a moment Like Gustav Le Bon Freud says that as part of the mass the individual acquires a sense of infinite power which allows him to act on impulses that he would otherwise have to curb as an isolated individual Sigmund Freud was an Austrian neurologist and the founder of psychoanalysis a clinical method for treating psychopathology through dialogue between a patient and a psychoanalyst Group Psychology and the Analysis of the Ego Sigmund Freud, 2020-09-28 The contrast between Individual Psychology and Social or Group Psychology which at a first glance may seem to be full of significance loses a great deal of its sharpness when it is examined more closely It is true that Individual Psychology is concerned with the individual man and explores the paths by which he seeks to find satisfaction for his instincts but only rarely and under certain exceptional conditions is Individual Psychology in a position to disregard the relations of this individual to others In the individual's mental life someone else is invariably involved as a model as an object as a helper as an opponent and so from the very first Individual Psychology is at the same time Social Psychology as well in this extended but entirely justifiable sense of the words The relations of an individual to his parents and to his brothers and sisters to the object of his love and to his physician in fact all the relations which have hitherto been the chief subject of psychoanalytic research may claim to be considered as social phenomena and in this respect they may be contrasted with certain other processes described by us as narcissistic in which the satisfaction of the instincts is partially or totally withdrawn from the influence of other people The contrast between social and narcissistic Bleuler would perhaps call them autistic mental acts therefore falls wholly within the domain of pronounced difference in emphasis between American social psychologists and European social psychologists. As a broad generalization, American researchers traditionally have focused more on the individual, whereas Europeans have paid more attention to group level phenomena.

Group Psychology and the Analysis of the Ego Sigmund Freud, Murat Ukray, James Strachey, 2014-08-13

In Group Psychology and the Analysis of the Ego (1922), Sigmund Freud based his preliminary description of group psychology on Le Bon's work but went on to develop his own original theory related to what he had begun to elaborate in Totem and Taboo. Theodor Adorno reprised Freud's essay in 1951 with his Freudian Theory and the Pattern of Fascist Propaganda and said that "It is not an overstatement if we say that Freud though he was hardly interested in the political phase of the problem clearly foresaw the rise and nature of fascist mass movements in purely psychological categories."

Group Dynamics refers to a system of behaviors and psychological processes occurring within a social group, intragroup dynamics or between social groups, intergroup dynamics. The study of group dynamics can be useful in understanding decision making, behavior, tracking the spread of diseases in society, creating effective therapy techniques, and following the emergence and popularity of new ideas and technologies. Group dynamics are at the core of understanding racism, sexism, and other forms of social prejudice and discrimination. These applications of the field are studied in psychology, sociology, anthropology, political science, epidemiology, education, social work, business, and communication studies. Within the context of psychology, Social Psychology is the scientific study of how people's thoughts, feelings, and behaviors are influenced by the actual, imagined, or implied presence of others. By this definition, scientific refers to the empirical method of investigation. The terms thoughts, feelings, and behaviors include all psychological variables that are measurable in a human being. The statement that others' presence may be imagined or implied suggests that we are prone to social influence even when no other people are present, such as when watching television or following internalized cultural norms. Social psychologists typically explain human behavior as a result of the interaction of mental states and immediate social situations. In general, social psychologists have a preference for laboratory-based empirical findings. Social psychology theories tend to be specific and focused rather than global and general. Social psychologists therefore deal with the factors that lead us to behave in a given way in the presence of others and look at the conditions under which certain behavior, actions, and feelings occur. Social psychology is concerned with the way these feelings, thoughts, beliefs, intentions, and goals are constructed and how such psychological factors in turn influence our interactions with others. Social psychology is an interdisciplinary domain that bridges the gap between psychology and sociology. During the years immediately following World War II, there was frequent collaboration between psychologists and sociologists. However, the two disciplines have become increasingly specialized and isolated from each other in recent years, with sociologists focusing on macro variables (e.g., social structure) to a much greater extent. Nevertheless, sociological approaches to social psychology remain an important counterpart to psychological research in this area. In addition to the split between psychology and sociology, there has been a somewhat less pronounced difference in emphasis between American social psychologists and European social psychologists As a broad generalization American researchers traditionally have focused more on the individual whereas Europeans have paid more attention to group level phenomena

MASS PSYCHOLOGY AND EGO ANALYSIS - Freud Sigmund Freud, 2020-05-08 In Mass Psychology and Ego Analysis Sigmund Freud retrieves the theories of a sociologist of his time named Le Bon According to Le Bon the individual gains immense power by associating with a group and feels security in being part of it However Freud adds that this sense of belonging leads to a loss of individual consciousness Thus the sensations that permeate the group tend to have a great influence and to override individual consciousness In recent years in Brazil massified behaviors have been clearly observed currently amplified by social media The analysis that Freud conducted on this type of behavior remains fully valid and useful in today's world It is this analysis that is available to the reader now in Mass Psychology and Ego Analysis
