What followed as Manent demonstrates in his analyses of Locke Hobbes Rousseau Guizot and Constant was the evolving concept of an individual with no goals outside the confines of the self and a state with no purpose but to prevent individuals from dominating one another Weighing both the positive and negative effects of such a political arrangement Manent raises important questions about the fundamental political issues of the day among them the possibility of individual rights being reconciled with the necessary demands of political organization and the desirability of a government system neutral about religion but not about public morals
