

ASPECTS OF IDENTITY

DEFINITION

Identity is the collection of attributes, beliefs, and experiences that shape how an individual perceives themselves and how they are perceived by others. It encompasses personal, social, and cultural components, often evolving over time. In sociology, we create categories of 'aspects', outlined to the right.

ASPECTS

- Gender
- Sex
- Race
- Ethnicity
- Social Class
- Ability and Disability
- Relationship Status
- Age
- Religion

On Identity

Gerd Baumann, André Gingrich

On Identity:

Grammars of Identity/alterity Gerd Baumann, André Gingrich, 2004 Issues of the construction of Self and Other normally in the context of social exclusion of those perceived as different have assumed a new urgency This collection offers a fresh perspective on the ongoing debates on these questions in the social sciences and the humanities by focusing specifically on one theoretical proposition namely that the seemingly universal processes of identity formation and exclusion of the other can be differentiated according to three modalities All contributors directly engage with rigorous empirical testing and theoretical cross examination of this proposition Their results have direct implications not only for a more differentiated understanding of collective identities but also for a better understanding of extreme collective violence and genocide

On Identity Amin Maalouf, 2011-12-31 The notion of identity personal religious ethnic or national is one that has given rise to heated passions and crimes throughout the history of mankind What it is that makes each one of us unique and dissimilar to any other individual has been one of the fundamental questions of philosophy from Socrates to Freud In this important series of reflections the author a Lebanese who now lives in France where he is a well known writer and commentator considers how we define ourselves and how identity is understood in the world s different cultures

Constructing Identity in and around Organizations Majken Schultz, Steve Maguire, Ann Langley, Haridimos Tsoukas, 2012-01-19 Constructing Identity in and around Organizations is the second volume in Perspectives on Process Organization Studies a series which explores an emerging approach to the study of organizations that focuses on understanding activities interactions and change as essential properties of organizations rather than structures and state an approach which prioritizes activity over product change over persistence novelty over continuity and expression over determination The constructing of identities those processes through which actors in and around organizations claim accept negotiate affirm stabilize maintain reproduce challenge disrupt destabilize repair or otherwise relate to their sense of selves and others has become a critically important topic in the study of organizations This volume attempts to amplify and possibly refract contemporary debates amongst identity scholars that question established notions of identity as essence entity or thing It calls for alternative approaches to understanding identity and its significance in contexts in and around organizations by conceptualizing it as process that is being continually under construction Based in diverse theoretical and philosophical traditions and contexts contributions by leading scholars to this volume offer new perspectives on how individual and organizational identities evolve and come to be constructed through ongoing activities and interactions

Identity in Narrative Anna De Fina, 2003-10-27 This volume presents both an analysis of how identities are built represented and negotiated in narrative as well as a theoretical reflection on the links between narrative discourse and identity construction The data for the book are Mexican immigrants personal experience narratives and chronicles of their border crossings into the United States Embracing a view of identity as a construct firmly grounded in discourse and interaction the author examines and illustrates the multiple threads that connect the local expression and negotiation of identity to the wider social contexts that frame the experience of migration from material conditions of life in the United States to mainstream discourses about race and color The analysis reveals how identities emerge in discourse through the interplay of different levels of expression from implicit adherence to narrative styles and ways of telling to explicit negotiation of membership categories

Creating Identity in the Victorian Fictional Autobiography Heidi L. Pennington, 2018-04-30 This is the first book length study of the fictional autobiography a subgenre that is at once widely recognizable and rarely examined as a literary form with its own history and dynamics of interpretation Heidi L Pennington shows that the narrative form and genre expectations associated with the fictional autobiography in the Victorian period engages readers in a sustained meditation on the fictional processes that construct selfhood both in and beyond the text Through close readings of Jane Eyre David Copperfield and other well known examples of the subgenre Pennington shows how the Victorian fictional autobiography subtly but persistently illustrates that all identities are fictions Despite the subgenre s radical implications regarding the nature of personal identity fictional autobiographies were popular in their own time and continue to inspire devotion in readers This study sheds new light on what makes this subgenre so compelling up to and including in the present historical moment of precipitous social and technological change As we continue to grapple with the existential question of what determines who we really are this book explores the risks and rewards of embracing conscious acts of fictional self production in an unstable world

Against Identity Alexander Douglas, 2025-06-19 A philosopher explains why the search for identity is meaningless and how we should escape the self Modern life encourages us to pursue the perfect identity Whether we aspire to become the best lawyer or charity worker life partner or celebrity influencer we emulate exemplars that exist in the world hoping it will bring us happiness But this often leads to a complex game of envy and pride We achieve these identities but want others to imitate us We disagree with those whose identities contradict ours leading to polarisation and even violence And yet when they thump against us we are ashamed to ring hollow In Against Identity philosopher Alexander Douglas seeks an alternative wisdom Searching the work of three thinkers ancient Chinese philosopher Zhuangzi Dutch Enlightenment thinker Benedict de Spinoza and 20th Century French theorist Ren Girard he explores how identity can be a spiritual violence that leads us away from truth Through their worlds and radically different cultures we discover how at moments of historical rupture our hunger for being grows and yet it is exactly these times when we should make peace with our indeterminacy and discover the freedom of escaping our selves
