Aldwin, Diane F. Gilmer, 2004 In Health Illness and Optimal Aging Biological and Psychosocial Perspectives Carolyn M Aldwin and Diane F Gilmer undertake the challenging task of assembling an objective and holistic picture of human aging The authors provide comprehensive multidisciplinary coverage of the physical aspects of aging including age related changes and disease related processes the demography of the aging population theories of aging and the promotion of optimal aging In addition the book covers the psychosocial aspects of aging including mental health stress and coping spirituality and care giving in later years Health Illness and Optimal Aging is recommended for researchers seeking an overview of health psychology and aging as well as undergraduate and graduate students taking classes in the social behavioral and health sciences This text is also valuable for practitioners working with the elderly in fields such as nursing social work occupational and physical therapy day care and nursing home administration psychology and rehabilitation The Aging Body Susan Krauss Whitbourne, 2012-12-06 The objective of this book is to provide information that will be useful to people in a variety of disciplines who wish to learn more about normal aging processes in the human body Although gerontologists in the biological sciences are making great strides in research on human aging and documenting this work in monographs texts and review chapters this information is generally not easily accessible nor is it comprehensible to nonprofessionals in these fields This book is intended to provide a summary of this work along with its implications for psychological functioning of the aging individual. The majority of the book is devoted to describing the results of research on the physiological changes in the human body with aging and to seeking explanations for these age effects. This description has been approached in such a way as to make it readable for the nonspecialist but also to focus on research issues that will be useful reading for those who are currently working in these particular areas. In addition throughout the book I have tried to develop some themes regarding physiological and psychological adaptation during adulthood.

The Aging Nervous System Gabe J. Maletta, Francis J. Pirozzolo, 1980

Molecular Neurobiology of the Olfactory System F.L. Margolis, T.V. Getchell, 2013-11-11

The sense of smell and the olfactory system have been a subject of intrinsic interest for millennia. Inquiry into the structure and function of the olfactory system is based on a long tradition that dates back at least to the ancient Greeks. The mechanistic basis for the sensitivity and selectivity of this chemosensory detection system has always posed a challenge and remained largely a mystery. Recently there has been a renaissance of interest in it and especially in the application of contemporary techniques of biochemistry and cellular and molecular biology. In this volume current research utilizing these approaches is discussed in depth by a group of scientists who are among the current leaders in the applications of these techniques to the olfactory system. These authors address a wide range of questions that bear directly on the olfactory system but have broader biological implications as well. The various chapters have been grouped into five broad subject areas that emphasize diverse but related questions: Transduction and Ligand Receptor Interactions considers the biochemical bases of stimulus access, interaction, transduction, elimination, and information processing.

Advances in Food and Nutrition Research Steve Taylor, 2002-02-22

Advances in Food and Nutrition Research recognizes the integral relationship between the food and nutritional sciences and brings together outstanding and comprehensive reviews that highlight this relationship. Contributions detail the scientific developments in the broad areas of food science and nutrition and are intended to ensure that food scientists in academia and industry as well as professional nutritionists and dieticians are kept informed concerning emerging research and developments in these important disciplines. This serial was established in 1948 and continues to publish top quality articles on emerging research and developments. Some of the topics in this volume include special processing methods for high acid liquid foods, structure and properties of fat crystal networks, taste and smell perception in the elderly, edible coatings and films, and the composition and processing of buckwheat.
