Sentence Comprehension:

Sentence Comprehension David J. Townsend, Thomas G. Bever, 2001 Using sentence comprehension as a case study for all of cognitive science David Townsend and Thomas Bever offer an integration of two major approaches the symbolic computational and the associative connectionist The symbolic computational approach emphasizes the formal manipulation of symbols that underlies creative aspects of language behavior The associative connectionist approach captures the intuition that most behaviors consist of accumulated habits The authors argue that the sentence is the natural level at which associative and symbolic information merge during comprehension The authors develop and support an analysis by synthesis model that integrates associative and symbolic information in sentence comprehension This integration resolves problems each approach faces when considered independently The authors review classic and contemporary symbolic and associative theories of sentence comprehension and show how recent developments in syntactic theory fit well with the integrated analysis by synthesis model They offer analytic experimental and neurological evidence for their model and discuss its implications for broader issues in cognitive science including the logical necessity of an integration of symbolic and connectionist approaches in the field Sentence Processing Roger P. G. van Gompel, 2013-09-11 What are the psychological processes involved in comprehending sentences How do we process the structure of sentences and how do we understand their meaning Do children bilinguals and people with language impairments process sentences in the same way as healthy monolingual adults These are just some of the many questions that sentence processing researchers have tried to answer by conducting ever more sophisticated experiments making this one of the most productive and exciting areas in experimental language research in recent years This book is the first to provide a comprehensive state of the art overview of this important field It contains 10 chapters written by world leading experts which discuss influential theories of sentence processing and important experimental evidence with a focus on recent developments in the area The chapters also analyse research that has investigated how people process the structure and meaning of sentences and how sentences are understood within their context This comprehensive and authoritative work will appeal to students and researchers in the field of sentence processing as well anyone with an interest in psychology and linguistics Language Processing Simon Garrod, Martin Pickering, 2016-01-28 Language Processing questions what happens when we process language what mental operations occur during processing and how they are organised over time The last decade has seen real advances in the study of language processing that have wide ranging implications for human cognition in general Language Processing gives an account of these developments both as they relate to experimental studies of processing and as they relate to computational modelling of the processes In addition to chapters covering core topics such as lexical processing syntactic parsing and the comprehension of discourse special topics of recent interest are also included Understanding Complex Sentences N. Chipere, 2003-09-09 Is native speaker variation in understanding complex sentences due to individual differences in working memory capacity or in syntactic competence The answer to this question has very important consequences for both theoretical and applied concerns in linguistics and education This book is distinctive in giving an historical and interdisciplinary perspective on the rule based and experience based debate and in supporting an integrated account In the study reported here variation was found to be due to differences in syntactic competence and the author argues that sentence comprehension is a learned skill displaying many of the general characteristics of cognitive skills The book will be stimulating reading for psycholinguists theoretical linguists applied linguists and educators
