Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Home Affairs Committee,2008 Incorporating HC 508 i iv session 2006 07 For Volume 1 see ISBN 9780215520807 Private investigators Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Home Affairs Committee,2012-07-06 This report concludes that it is getting easier for anyone to advertise themselves as a private investigator with modern communications and cheap surveillance devices and while the industry remains unregulated a number of serious risks remain The Committee explores the risks of the involvement of private investigators in the justice system and law enforcement and the threat of corruption those links entail The Committee recommends that the Government set up a robust licensing and registration system as soon as possible Private investigators and their companies should be governed by a new Code of Conduct for Private Investigators Under this system a criminal record for breach of section 55 should disqualify individual from operating as private investigators It also proposes that dealings between police and investigators should be recorded and that there should be a one year cooling off period between serving as a police officer and entering the investigation industry While recognising the honest contribution made by most private investigators this report highlights the involvement of some private investigators in an illegal market in personal data and calls again on the Government to strength the penalties for data offences The Committee also calls on the Independent Police Complaints Commission to take direct control over investigations in cases alleging police corruption in relation to private investigators
