OECD Health Policy Studies A Good Life in Old Age? Dementia and Human Rights Suzanne Cahill, 2018-03-28 The time has come to further challenge biomedical and clinical thinking about dementia which has for so long underpinned policy and practice. Framing dementia as a disability this book takes a rights based approach to expand the debate. Applying a social constructionist lens it builds on earlier critical perspectives by bringing together concepts including disability social inclusion personhood equality participation dignity empowerment autonomy and solidarity. Launching the debate into new and exciting territory the book argues that people living with dementia come within the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities and therefore have full entitlement to all the rights the Convention enshrines. A human rights based approach has not to date been fully applied to interrogate the lived experience and policy response to dementia. With the fresh analytical tools provided in this book policy makers and practitioners will gain new insights into how this broader perspective can be used to further promote the quality of life and quality of care for all those affected by dementia.
