Newell,2013-07-15 Between the 1880s and the 1940s the region known as British West Africa became a dynamic zone of literary creativity and textual experimentation African owned newspapers offered local writers numerous opportunities to contribute material for publication and editors repeatedly defined the press as a vehicle to host public debates rather than simply as an organ to disseminate news or editorial ideology Literate locals responded with great zeal and in increasing numbers as the twentieth century progressed they sent in letters articles fiction and poetry for publication in English and African language newspapers The Power to Name offers a rich cultural history of this phenomenon examining the wide array of anonymous and pseudonymous writing practices to be found in African owned newspapers between the 1880s and the

1940s and the rise of celebrity journalism in the period of anticolonial nationalism Stephanie Newell has produced an account of colonial West Africa that skillfully shows the ways in which colonized subjects used pseudonyms and anonymity to alter and play with colonial power and constructions of African identity

Postcolonial Custodianship Filippo Menozzi, 2014-02-05 This book engages with current developments in postcolonial research exploring notions of cultural transmission tradition and modernity authenticity cross cultural aesthetics and postcolonial ethics The author considers the ethical responsibility of the postcolonial intellectual enhancing our understanding of this topic through the concept of custodianship which may be defined as a responsibility towards the other in forms of cultural and literary inheritance The author introduces custodianship as a central theme and a vital question for the committed intellectual today proposing original interpretations of major postcolonial texts by key figures including Anita Desai Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak Mahasweta Devi and Arundhati Roy Through close reading and historical analysis Postcolonial Custodianship reveals that a practice of custodianship has always been an essential element of these writers ethical engagement yet in a way that has never been explored The author contends that the question of custodianship should not be seen as a merely negative designation it is by redefining the very meaning of custodianship that the ethical dimension of postcolonialism can be rediscovered
